BRITAIN STUDIES BLOCKADE PLAN TO CHECK ITALY

May Ask World Aid to Save Ethiopia.

BY JOHN STEELE.

LONDON, July 3.—The British government, it was reported tonight, is considering a proposal to invite other powers to take part in an economic blockade of Italy as a last resort to check Italian aggression against Ethiopia.

One section of the cabinet, it is understood, takes the stand that such a collective employment of sanctions would be preferable to failure by the league of nations to perform its job of preserving European peace.

A fresh interchange of views with France on the Italo-Ethiopian problem has already been set in motion, with Sir George Clerk, British ambassador in Paris, conferring with Premier Pierre Laval of France.

Last Offer Rejected.

A peaceful solution of the African border dispute came to grief recently when Premier Mussolini refused to consider a proposition whereby Ethiopia would grant economic concessions to Italy in return for a strip of British territory in British Somaliland.

Meanwhile some of the Conservative diehards and the Liberal opposition announced plans to stir up a row in parliament over the land offer, which was made by Capt. Anthony Eden, minister for league of nations affairs. A series of questions is scheduled to be answered tomorrow in the house of commons. It is expected either Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, or Eden will make a full statement on the situation.

Blockade Report Amazes Italy.

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

ROME, July 3.—A profound sensation was caused through Italy today by the report from London that the British cabinet proposes to approach other powers with a view to declaring an economic blockade on Italy if she does not abandon her East African plans.

The Italian reaction is amazement more than apprehension, but the suggestion of economic sanctions nevertheless served to shake the belief to which every one here has always clung that Britain would end by bowing to the inevitable if only Italy put up a bold enough front. Now the feeling is gaining ground that Britain may perhaps act with greater energy than had been expected.

Italian circles affected calmness toward the news from London. They declared it is mere newspaper talk or, at the most, a trial balloon to test the reaction of world opinion. They appeared also to think that if Britain finally decides to take the initiative in proposing a blockade of Italy she will be courting failure, because no other nation is likely to wish to run the risk of becoming involved in war over a quarrel that is none of its concern.

Italian Admirals Meet.

In any case it is said Italy will take necessary measures to safeguard her interests if the suggested blockade is enacted.

Worthy of note in this connection is that the committee of admirals, which is the supreme consulative organ of the Italian navy, has been urgently convoked by Premier Mussolini for an extraordinary session. It began its meetings today. Premier Mussolini himself, who was at the seaside at Riccione with his family, flew back to Rome to preside over its work.

Reports New Border Battle.

ADDIS ABABA, July 3.—(AP)—Unofficial reports received here today said there were heavy losses on both sides in a battle between Italian and Ethiopian forces, but details and confirmation were lacking. The frontier of Eritrea, scene of previous incidents, was said to be where the fighting occurred.

[A spokesman for the Italian government in Rome, who spent the day investigating the reports, said he could not substantiate them. Italy, it was understood, questioned the minister to Addis Ababa on the subject, but he replied he lacked information.]

Chemical to Burn Ethiopian Feet.

ROME, July 3.—(AP)—Based upon the fact that most Ethiopian soldiers go barefooted, the Italian army has prepared a type of chemical which, sprinkled on the ground, will burn through even shoe lether. The chemical can be sprinkled by tanks.

During a trial of the substance near Rome a photographer inadvertently started to walk across ground sprinkled with the chemical. An officer grabbed him and rushed him to a watering trough. The soles of his shoes were burned away.

BY HAL FOUST.

Highways out of Chicago, especially those leading north toward the Wisconsin lakes regions and eastward through the Dunes country, carried a steady stream of autoists leaving the city last night for a four-day vacation over the Independence day holiday. County highway police reported travel undiminished at midnight. Observers said it was one of the heaviest holiday travel movements in Chicago's history.

During the day all air lines operating from the Chicago airport reported unusually heavy trafic. Many of the transcontinental lines were running extra sections of scheduled flights to care for the large holiday crowds.

Another Wave Today.

This morning, judging from the road maps and railroad guides distributed in the last few days, there will be another wave of travelers leaving the city. A little later in the day the pavements will carry loads to forest preserves, parks, picnic grounds, and to organized celebrations when the spirit of '76 will be commemorated with fireworks, hot dogs, outdoor games, and speeches.

The government forecaster promised bathing beach temperatures, with the possibility of thundershowers that might dampen outdoor lunches, but Chicagoans, familiar with fickle weather, will not be discouraged from leaving their homes for the holiday.

For many thousand Chicagoans the holiday will assume the proportions of a four day vacation, their outings having been planned to cover Independence day, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Soldiers' Field Fête Tonight.

For those not leaving the city the outstanding event will be the American Legion fireworks display in Soldiers' field tonight. Similar community exhibits will be held by Evanston in the Northwestern university stadium and by Oak Park in its high school athletic field.

Among the half million or so who are leaving Chicago for a day or more, a majority will stop within a convenient distance of the city. This measurement of distance has greatly expanded in the last five years so that upper Michigan, for example, now is among the places classified by many excursionists as convenient to the metropolis.

A few thousand have selected July 5 as the first day of annual vacations, so that the holiday will be added to a two or three weeks' leave from offices. These departed last night or will depart this morning with a larger portion than ever before taking transcontinental trips.

Many Going to West Coast.

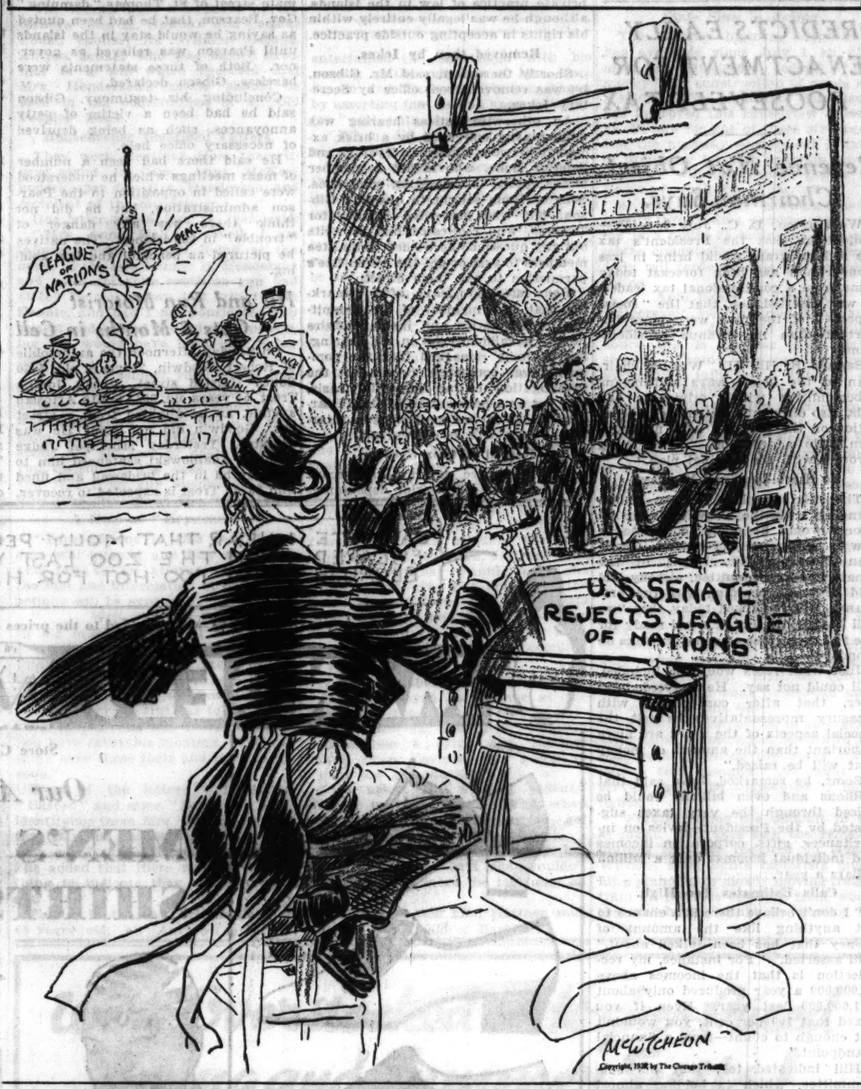
Trains to the west coast were crowded. Lake boats were well booked for cruises. Travel agencies were issuing road logs for itineraries such as from Chicago to Seattle to San Diego to Chicago.

"Vacationists, like week-end excursionists," said Bert Vanderworf, manager of the Chicago Motor Club touring bureau, "really are going some place this year. The thousand mile jaunt around Lake Michigan this summer is merely a week-end trip. The Pacific coast and the national parks in the Rockies will see a lot of Illinois license plates.

"There will be more miles of recreational travel this year than ever before in history. The number who are traveling compares well with the heaviest previous year, 1930. They have been departing all spring, but Independence day seems to be the start of the rush."

Trunk Slayer of Detroit Girl Seized

ANOTHER DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE TO BE THANKFUL FOR



Wife Charged with Helping Child's Killer

New York, July 3.—[Special.]—Merton Ward Goodrich, former inmate of an insane asylum, late this afternoon admitted the "trunk slaying" of 11 year old Lillian Gallaher in Detroit last September. He confessed after he had been identified by finger prints as the long sought slayer.

Goodrich, a scrawny, thin lipped man of 27, was arrested last night in Central park by a patrolman who charged him with annoying children who were wading in a playground pool. His record of criminal insanity in Ohio resulted from complaints made by young girls.

Detroit authorities said his capture had no connection with the boast of William Lee Ferris, confessed slayer of Howard Carter Dickinson, that he could put officers on the trail of the degenerate fugitive. They said Ferris knew nothing about this case and that Goodrich's arrest came merely as a coincidence.

Extradition Waived.

A charge of disorderly conduct, under which Goodrich was arrested last night, was disposed of today by a suspended sentence to permit his immediate rearraignment as a fugitive from the Detroit murder charge. He waived extradition and was held without bail for Detroit officers.

Following his arrest Goodrich had given his name as Raymond Johnson, but when he was confronted with the finger print evidence he admitted his identity.

"Well," he said calmly, "as long as you know all about it, I admit I killed the girl last September in my rooming house in Detroit. I saw her going to the library and I asked her if she would come up and help me carry some books there."

Though admitting that he lured the child into his apartment, Goodrich insisted he did not mean to kill her. He said he intended to rape her, but didn't. She became frightened and ran down the stairs, he said. In her flight she tripped and fell, striking her head and becoming unconscious.

Puts Her in Bathtub.

Frightened by the sight of her blood, Goodrich related, he carried her up to his apartment, put her in the bathtub and placed a towel around her neck.

Then he decided that the best thing to do was to bind her, gag her, and stuff her into a trunk, which he did, he confessed. After that he descended to the street and met his wife, Florence Goodrich, 29, in front of the building.

"When I met Florence," Goodrich recounted, "I said: 'Sweetheart, there are a couple of fellows following me. I am afraid they are going to take me back to Lima, O., to finish my rap. Let's blow town.'"

He said they hitch-hiked to Canada, where they used the name of Johnson. Later they went to Boston and then to New York in November of last year. He said he obtained a job yesterday in a soft drink parlor.

Have to Prod Him Awake.

Goodrich appeared to be extremely sleepy while talking to detectives. The latter said they found it necessary during the interview to prod him from

SEE ROOSEVELT HOUSE DEFEATS AS 1936 STRAWS

Popular Reaction, Is Observers' Verdict.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 3.—[Special.]—The signal repudiation of the President yesterday by the house and his own party, in the vote on the holding company bill, was the all-absorbing subject today among those looking for the straws in the political wind on the eve of the 1936 election.

Republicans and conservative Democrats viewed the incident as another incalculably significant repulse for the New Deal. They ranked it with the Supreme court decisions destroying the NRA, invalidating the farm mortgage moratorium act and the President's arbitrary removal of a member of the federal trade commission. They found in it a popular reaction against the President's proposal to change the form of government and a revolt against jamming the President's wealth confiscation program through congress in five days.

Increasing Distrust Seen.

In the view of these congressmen the insurgency in the house reflects an increasing popular distrust of New Deal promises, the experiments and a stiffening resistance by property owners against Roosevelt policies antagonistic to business. There were predictions that this is only the beginning of a rebellion in the Democratic party which will manifest itself on other measures, notably the bill to strengthen the TVA which comes up in the house next week and the legislation to tax the rich and big corporations on which the ways and means committee of the house will begin hearings Monday.

The New Dealers belittled the significance of the President's defeat, declaring it an isolated result of the building of back fires by the utilities lobby. Mr. Roosevelt was disposed to laugh it off. At his press conference he countered a question on the affair of yesterday by asking the reporter whether he had read Southey's poem, "The Battle of Blenheim," in which Old Kaspar confessed he did not know what it was all about, but was sure "'twas a famous victory."

Lobby Quiz Wins Backing.

The Black resolution providing for an investigation of utility bill lobbying at a cost of $150,000 was reported favorably by the interstate commerce committee and referred to the audit committee on the expense phase. The measure embraces lobbying not only by the utilities but by the White House. A similar investigation by the house rules committee is to start Monday.

Totally unprecedented, the investigation of presidential lobbying is the most sensational aspect of the entire fight over the holding company bill. The employment of promises and threats by the executive to influence legislation is by no means novel, but under this administration the practice has been more brazen and the operations more extensive than ever before.

The President in a message to congress and in numerous public utterances has directed a propaganda warfare against utility holding companies that has brought down upon him the charge of lobbying.

Aids Press for "Death Clause."

His official lobbyist, Charles West, and Postmaster General Farley's lobbyist, Emil Hurja, brought pressure to bear on members to vote for the "death sentence" clause demanded by Mr. Roosevelt. The administration lobbyists were even given a room in the house office building to which they called members for "special treatment."

That members were being promised allotments for their districts from the 5 billion dollar work relief fund if they voted with the President and threatened with curtailment of allotments and with defeat for reelection if they voted against him was common gossip in the cloakrooms. Representative Ralph O. Brewster [Rep., Maine] and John H. Hoeppel [Dem., Cal.] spilled these charges publicly and precipitated the house investigation.

Although Senator William H. Dieterich [Dem., Ill.] will move on Monday the acceptance of the house bill by the senate, Senator B. K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.], chairman of the interstate commerce committee, said the measure undoubtedly will go to conference.

The senate approved the "death sentence" originally 45 to 44, but the

SHOWERS MAY DAMPEN CHICAGOLAND'S ARDOR ON INDEPENDENCE DAY

Holiday outings and Independence day parades may be dampened a bit today, according to Forecaster C. A. Donnel. The weather bureau meteorologist said last night there is a 50-50 chance today of more thundershowers, with excessive humidity, and continued temperatures in the middle eighties.

The mercury touched 87 degrees at 3:10 p. m. yesterday for the highest reading of the year, and the highest since last Sept. 20, when it reached 88. The previous high mark this year was 84 on April 26 and June 14.

During a brief rainstorm yesterday afternoon in the western suburbs lightning struck the edge of the roof of a 16 apartment building at 839 South 19th avenue, Maywood. Eight families fled to the street in terror of the shock, but only slight damage was done.

A brief shower descended on the loop at 6:20 o'clock, sending the mercury down to 73 degrees from a reading of 78 at 6 o'clock.

At Galesburg, Ill., the heaviest twelve hour rainfall of the year was marked by a series of storms Tuesday night and early yesterday bringing a rainfall of 1.45 inches. Many basements were flooded, including that at police headquarters.

HE WANTS TO PAY $175 MORE TAX; COUNTY REFUSES

H. N. Wade, president of the United States Wind Engine and Pump company of Batavia and a director of the First National bank of that city, complained his taxes were too low and demanded that he be allowed to pay $175 additional.

The board of review of Kane county, sitting at Geneva yesterday, refused to accept the additional money on the ground that the assessment had been completed and that it could not be changed. Wade then said he would turn the money over to the community chest in Batavia "because the money doesn't belong to me."

It's Wash Day, So He Rows Out to Dry It

Salina, Kas., July 3.—(AP)—Flood or no flood, this was wash day at the home of Farmer Grover Warnow. So Warnow got out his rowboat and paddled about the inundated yard to hang out the wash.

Chicago Fair Shows Profit of $200,000

When A Century of Progress Exposition opened its gates for its second year in May, 1934, its management expressed the hope that attendance would be great enough to pay all obligations. In midsummer the hope turned into confidence and at the end of the exposition the confidence had become certainty.

No other world's fair ever came within hailing distance of solvency when its allotted span of existence was over. But A Century of Progress has done even better than pay its debts. Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager, disclosed yesterday that the exposition will show a net profit of at least $200,000.

Every Bondholder Paid.

Last fall, after every bondholder had been paid 100 cents on the dollar, the exposition had $424,254 on hand and $277,916 more on deposit with the Chicago park district. It still had the obligation of demolishing the buildings that had been erected and of restoring the grounds to their original condition.

Now, according to estimates, the razing of the buildings is 70 per cent completed. The park district, by an ordinance passed Tuesday, agreed to accept $275,000 in settlement of the pledge to restore the grounds and will do its own landscaping. A payment of $125,000 on this debt was made by the exposition yesterday and the remainder is to be taken from the funds on deposit with the park board.

Sees at Least $200,000 Profit.

"When all our work is finished," said Maj. Lohr, "there will remain approximately $250,000 of unobligated funds. We are reserving $50,000 for contingencies. We feel sure that the net profit will exceed $200,000."

The settlement of the ground restoration problems was amicable. Maj. Lohr and Ralph Burke, chief engineer for the parks, had agreed on $275,000 as a fair payment. Mr. Burke informed the park board that it would be better to have the work done by its own men and they agreed. Yesterday the executive committee of the exposition, headed by President Rufus C. Dawes, approved and ordered the $125,000 first payment.

George T. Donoghue, superintendent of the park district, said the landscaping work would begin as soon as the rest of the buildings are removed and the land is turned back officially.

Division of Fair Profits.

Profits of the Fair, by prearrangement, will be divided eventually as follows:

Chicago park district, 25 per cent; Museum of Science and Industry, 25 per cent; Chicago Art Institute, 20 per cent; Adler Planetarium, 10 per cent; Association for the Perpetuation of Fort Dearborn, 5 per cent; Archaeological Trust of Chicago (Lama Temple), 5 per cent; Chicago Regional Planning association, 4 per cent; Yerkes observatory at Williams Bay, Wis., 3 per cent; Smithsonian Institution at Washington, D. C., 3 per cent.

LAST OF 6 EMPEROR PENGUINS IS DEAD AT ZOO IN BROOKFIELD

Lena, last of the six Emperor penguins purchased by the Chicago Zoological gardens at Brookfield from Admiral Byrd's antarctic expedition, died Tuesday, according to an announcement yesterday by Edward H. Bean, director of the zoo. Lena and the other five all succumbed to a fungus infection of the respiratory tract. The birds cost $5,000.

Dr. Rudyard Boulton, curator of birds at the Field museum, and Dr. Paul Hudson, bacteriologist of the University of Chicago, who performed autopsies on the other birds, made a similar examination of Lena. The disease, they discovered, is aspergillosis fungatus, a vegetable mold, which is often found in poultry, particularly pigeons.

"The supposition is that coming from so far south," said Mr. Bean, "where there is no vegetation, the birds have built up no immunity to the air they breathe in northern climes. The air contains pollen and other vegetable matter and causes the disease, despite every possible remedy. Dr. Reed Blair, director of the Bronx zoo, told me last week that 95 per cent of polar penguins brought back die from this disease."

Firecracker Tossed in Door Brings 1st Injury on Fourth

To John Hagen, 54 years old, 27 West Ohio street, goes the dubious distinction of being the first of Chicago's Independence day casualties. He was standing in the doorway of his home shortly after midnight when a passerby tossed in a large firecracker. The explosion lacerated Hagen's left hand and he was taken to the county hospital for treatment.

administration since then has gained a vote—that of Rush Holt [Dem., West Va.], who was seated in the last fortnight.

Senator Wheeler indicated that in conference the administration would seek a compromise. Under the senate bill one holding company in each integrated system of regional operating companies would be exempt from the "death sentence." He said he would propose that two holding companies be exempted.

Senator Black's resolution, voted out favorably by the senate interstate commerce committee and referred to the committee on audit and control for the $150,000 appropriation, provides for "a full and complete investigation of the lobbying activities in connection with the so-called 'holding company bill.'"

This would be done by a select group of five senators appointed by the Vice President.

Intends Complete Inquiry.

In response to questions from Senator James Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.] as to whether the investigation was intended to apply on lobbying activities in the house, and whether it was proceeding on the theory that senators had been approached, Senator Black replied:

"I am seeking an investigation on the basis that charges have been publicly made that a large amount of money has been spent in order to prevent the passage of the holding company bill; that lobbyists have filled the galleries of both the senate and the house, that they have come from all parts of the United States, and that they have worked, in some cases effectively, to accomplish their purpose.

"I intended it to be all embracing and for that reason it is my opinion that that it is utter folly to discuss making an investigation without an appropriation. If there is going to be an investigation it should be an investigation and not merely a superficial scratching of the surface."

Keeps White House Out.

Although Senator Black referred several times to his proposed investigation as "all embracing," and "full, complete and fair," he never intimated that he intended to comprehend lobbying by the White House as well as by the utilities. This was not surprising, for he was one of the most vehement supporters of the "death sentence." He told the senate that he was not voting to regulate, but to destroy.

Senator Huey Long, the Louisiana "kingfish," also vociferously supported the "death sentence," but he did not pass up this opportunity to embarrass the administration. Long pleaded for a "two sided" investigation and commented, adventitiously, upon the prompt action accorded Black's resolution, whereas his own petition to investigate Postmaster General Farley was overwhelmingly defeated on the ground that he had not proved his case in advance.

Assails Patronage Club.

"Isn't it a matter for congress to find out whether you are told that a project in your state will not go through unless you vote a certain way?" he asked.

"Senators and representatives have been dehorned of patronage. This congressman has had this done to him and this senator has had that done. These are matters that we ought to find out about. I hope this will be a two sided investigation."

BRITAIN HALTS SALE OF LETTERS BY WELLINGTON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 3. — The foreign office today stopped the sale in Sotheby's auction rooms of a large quantity of papers inherited by Lord Abingdon. All are more than 100 years old, and consist largely of correspondence between Lord Stuart de Rothesay, famous British ambassador in the Waterloo period, with the duke of Wellington and Lord Nelson.

The foreign office ordered the sale delayed on the ground that some of the papers might be state papers, and therefore the property of the nation. The action was taken under the official secrets act.

Abingdon explained when the letters became his property when he bought Highcliffe castle in Hampshire and its contents following the death of his father-in-law, Maj. Edward Stuart-Wortley last year. The letters were left to Stuart-Wortley by Lady Waterford, sister of Lady Canning, wife of the famous statesman. It is understood the British government offered to purchase the Canning papers for the period 1815 and 1830 from Abingdon.

It is felt that the papers, if published today and at a time when the situation bears a strange resemblance to the three decades immediately following the Napoleonic war, would revive the old cry "Perfidious Albion." The letters of Canning, it is said, refer to France, Turkey, and the United States, among others powers. Some of Canning's great grandsons now are serving in the diplomatic service in the countries to which reference is made. Lady Loraine, daughter of Maj. Gen. Stuart-Wortley, is the wife of the present British ambassador to Turkey.

CHANGES FOR TVA TO STIR FRESH REVOLT IN HOUSE

May Repeat Utility Bill Rap for Roosevelt.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 3.—[Special.]—Exhilarated by their successful rebellion against the dictation of President Roosevelt on the utility control bill, members of the house prepared light heartedly today for another legislative battle on the Tennessee Valley Authority amendments. That may develop into just as spectacular a revolt.

While the 258 representatives, including 166 Democrats, who openly defied the President, were exchanging back slaps and talking about their political courage, inquiry developed that the uprising against the White House might be traced to more sordid motives. These were:

Patronage Part of Trouble.

1. A feeling by house members that they were not getting the patronage they were entitled to in the shape of jobs and public works fund allocations.

2. A very apparent jealousy of the senate to which the administration repeatedly has made concessions, disregarding house requests.

Other causes of resentment are activities of such men as Emil Hurja, Charles West, and Thomas Corcoran, emissaries of the President, who issued threats of revenge rather than promises.

Unless some change is adopted in the White House attitude toward the house the Democratic leaders are frankly worried about a repetition of this week's rebellion. Speaker Byrns today expressed confidence that his boys would "go along" hereafter, having eliminated one defiant demonstration from their systems.

House Feels Slighted.

Another Democratic leader remarked: "The President and his advisers have been taking the house too much for granted. They must change that attitude."

In bringing the TVA bill to the floor the leaders were compelled to make four important compromises. They are:

1. That TVA's financial operations will be subject to rigid auditing by Controler General J. R. McCarl. The president privately expressed distaste for that.

2. TVA will not be permitted to sell surplus power and chemicals below production cost after Jan. 1, 1937. Such sales are protested by utility companies as manifestly unfair as a "power yardstick."

3. TVA's bond issuing capacity will remain at 50 millions instead of the proposed increase to 100 millions.

4. TVA is not permitted to buy land other than for projects actually planned. It must sell other land now held if no project is planned for it.

$850,000 ESTATE SUIT MAY END OUTSIDE COURT

New York, July 3.—[Special.]—Litigation over the $850,000 estate of Capt. Christian Channing Gross—based on the question of whether Capt. Gross or his son died first in an auto accident two years ago—will be dropped, with a settlement out of court. That was predicted today.

It was learned reliably that an agreement had been reached whereby the former Virginia Randolph Harrison, divorced wife of the late war hero and diplomat, will get half the estate for herself and her daughter, who, she says, is illegitimate. The other half will go to Capt. Gross' blood relatives.

Mrs. Gross claimed the entire fortune on the ground that she gave the money to her husband when they married in Algiers fifteen years ago.

BIDDLE WILL RESIGN POST AS CHAIRMAN OF THE LABOR BOARD

Washington, D. C., July 3.—(AP)—Francis Biddle, chairman of the labor relations board, said today he would leave within a few days to return to his private law practice in Philadelphia.

Resignation of James F. Bell, Minneapolis miller, from the President's business advisory council also was announced today by Secretary Roper. He is the fifth committee member to resign in the last few days.

Biddle's retirement will leave only one member of the board set up a year ago to enforce the collective bargaining guarantees in NRA codes, Dr. Harry A. Millis left several weeks ago to resume his position as head of the economics department at the University of Chicago.

Edwin Smith, former labor commissioner in Massachusetts, the only remaining member, has been mentioned in official circles as a possible appointee to the chairmanship of the new labor relations board the Wagner labor disputes bill would set up.

PREDICTS EARLY ENACTMENT FOR ROOSEVELT TAX

Revenue Not Object, Chairman Says.

Washington, D. C., July 3.—(AP)—Indications that the President's tax the rich program would bring in less money than has been forecast today came from a congressional tax leader. It was asserted, too, that the "social aspects" of the plan were more important than its revenue considerations.

Samuel B. Hill [D., Wash.], chairman of the house ways and means subcommittee which originates tax bills, also discounted attempts to delay action on the program until next session. He added that "we're going through with the original plan."

To Start Hearings Monday.

The original plan was an understanding with the President that all efforts would be made to enact the new tax program this session. Chairman Harrison [D., Miss.] of the senate finance committee, already had said he was proceeding with that program. Hill remarked today that "we will have some sort of a bill ready for the full committee to start hearings on Monday."

Just what rates would be included, Hill could not say. He asserted, however, that after conferences with treasury representatives he felt the "social aspects of the taxes are more important than the amount of money that will be raised."

Some, he remarked, have said that millions and even billions could be raised through the very taxes suggested by the President—levies on inheritances, gifts, corporation incomes and individual incomes over a million dollars a year.

Calls Estimates Too High.

"I don't believe there is a chance to get anything like the amount of money that has been talked about," Hill asserted. "For instance, my recollection is that the incomes above $1,000,000 a year produced only about $81,000,000 last year. Even if you taxed that 100 per cent, you wouldn't get enough to count—from a financial standpoint."

Hill indicated, too, that his subcommittee, which is holding almost daily conferences with treasury officials, was thinking of reducing the inheritance tax exemption below the $300,000 suggested by Senator Harrison when the wealth distribution levies were being discussed in the senate. But so far, Hill emphasized, there has been not even a tentative understanding on tax rates or expected revenue.

GIRL IN ILL HEALTH ENDS LIFE.

EX-PROSECUTOR OF VIRGIN ISLES RAPS GOVERNOR

Unpopular and Devious, Asserts Gibson.

Washington, D. C., July 3.—[Special.]—Charges that Gov. Paul M. Pearson of the Virgin Islands had exceeded his authority, was unpopular with a large section of the population and was not frank in his administration, were made before a senate investigating committee today by Charles Henry Gibson, former United States attorney for the islands. Much of the testimony was admittedly hearsay.

Mr. Gibson, the only witness today before the committee which is investigating the Pearson administration, declared that in the fall of 1933 Gov. Pearson had ordered him to cease the private practice of law in the islands, although he was legally entirely within his rights in accepting outside practice.

Removed then by Ickes.

Shortly thereafter, said Mr. Gibson, he was removed from office by Secretary Ickes.

An otherwise listless hearing was momentarily enlivened by a brisk exchange between Chairman Tydings and Senator Bone, who is not a member of the special investigating committee. Senator Bone sought to question Gibson, but was prevented by Senator Tydings, who requested him to write out any questions he wished committee members to ask, or get the committee's permission to ask them direct.

Bone offered to leave, after remarking that as a member of the committee on territories and insular affairs he had a valid interest in the hearing, but Tydings remarked that the committee was competent to conduct the investigation on an impartial basis, and not as a persecution of Gov. Pearson. Bone's one question was interpreted as a defense of Pearson.

Record of Quiz Goes in.

The committee put into the record today a report of interior department agents sent to the Virgin Islands in 1933 to investigate conditions. This report alleged that Gibson spent much of his time walking up and down the main street of St. Thomas "damning" Gov. Pearson, that he had been quoted as saying he would stay in the islands until Pearson was relieved as governor. Both of these statements were baseless, Gibson declared.

Concluding his testimony, Gibson said he had been a victim of petty annoyances, such as being deprived of necessary office help.

He said there had been a number of mass meetings which he understood were called in opposition to the Pearson administration, but he did not think there was any danger of "trouble" in the islands. The natives he pictured as peaceful and law abiding.

Hit and Run Motorist Gets 6 Months in Cell

On Sunday afternoon the automobile of Robert Goodwin, 28 years old, 5730 South Halsted street, struck Joseph Trost, 54 years old, 3543 South Artesian avenue, as he alighted from a street car. Goodwin did not stop. He was arrested. Yesterday Muncipal Judge Stephen Adamowski sentenced him to six months in the bridewell and fined him $550. Trost is expected to recover.

26 TRAINING PLANES ORDERED FOR USE OF U. S. ARMY FLYERS

Washington, D. C., July 3.—(AP)—Setting out to boost the army air corps strength to 2,320 planes the war department today awarded a $243,578 contract for 26 primary training ships.

The training planes, to be produced by the Stearman Aircraft company of Wichita, Kas., are the initial acquisition of 474 planes expected to be obtained this year with approximately $23,000,000 now available.

Contracts for 85 bombing planes are expected to be awarded Aug. 22. Contracts for pursuit, cargo, and other types are to be awarded at intervals soon after that date.

Despite an expected increase of nearly 500 planes this year, war department officials see little hope in materially increasing the air corps' strength until larger appropriations are made or funds allotted from other sources.

Huey Flies Home for Special Legislative Call

New Orleans, La., July 3.—(AP)—Louisiana's political overlord, Senator Huey Long, arrived here by plane tonight and said Gov. O. K. Allan had "informed" him a special session of the Louisiana legislature would be called for tomorrow night.

TEACHERS URGED TO USE POLITICS FOR OWN AIMS

Columbia Professor Asks United Action.

Denver, Colo., July 3.—(AP)—A bold challenge to the nation's teachers to seize the balance of political power in America stirred the National Education association convention today. The association has more than $800,000 in its permanent fund.

For Teachers in Politics.

Dr. John K. Norton, Columbia university professor, told the delegates:

"Political leaders should be made to realize that teachers will not be satisfied with meaningless platitudes with which candidates for public office have claimed their votes.

"Teachers must demand to know the attitude of candidates toward child labor, development of social security programs, the modes of tax systems, and similar issues which go to the roots of a candidate's social philosophy."

Will Debate Freedom.

Dr. George T. Avery of the Colorado State college, Fort Collins, chairman of the resolutions committee, said his group will return a "strong resolution."

The assembly for the second time rejected a proposal that the assembly instead of the board of trustees administer the $800,000 fund.

6 TO 20 PER CENT DROP IN RELIEF LOAD, REPORT OF 14 COUNTIES SHOWS

Reductions of between 6 and 20 per cent have been effected in the relief load of a group of fourteen counties by requiring all relief families to reapply for aid if they wish it continued, it was shown yesterday by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission's tabulation. This is an improvement over results obtained by a group of thirteen counties whose reports were the first to be tabulated on Tuesday.

Yesterday's tabulation shows that 1,050, or 6 per cent, of all relief families in the fourteen counties had their reapplications rejected. An additional 2,412 families, or 14 per cent, failed to reapply before the July 1 deadline. The final result of the procedure depends upon how many of these families do reapply and prove their need of relief later.

EVANSTON RIDES AT 5C HALF MILE; TAXI PRICE WAR

Evanston became the scene of a taxicab price war yesterday and no one complained loudly excepting the heads of the companies involved. The price cutting was inaugurated by the Five Cent Cab company, which has just been granted a license to operate thirty cabs. The vehicles appeared bearing announcements that they would carry passengers for 5 cents for each half mile.

Immediately the cabs of the New Cab company, which had been charging 15 cents a mile, appeared with signs giving the price of rides as 5 cents for the first half mile and 15 cents for each mile following.

"It's impossible to charge only 10 cents a mile and pay drivers," declared Malcolm Ball, president of the New Cab company. "This looks like an attempt by the big cab companies to run us little fellows out of business."

"We have no connection with big companies," declared M. J. Hunter, president of the Five Cent Cab company. "This is just an experiment."

PLANS TO TIE UP LEWIS INSTITUTE WITH INDUSTRY

Plans to bring Lewis institute into closer touch with the Chicago public school system and with the city's business and industry will be developed during the next school year, it was stated yesterday by Dugald Caleb Jackson Jr., recently named director of the institute. The directorship corresponds to the presidency of other institutions. Mr. Jackson is in Chicago meeting with the board of managers of the institute. As director, he will replace Dr. George Noble Carman who resigned.

Mr. Jackson, who is 40 years old, has degrees from Harvard university and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He has been head of the engineering department at the University of Kansas and of the University of Louisville, Louisville, Ky. His father, Dugald Caleb Jackson Sr., retired last week as head of the electrical engineering department at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Lewis institute's relation to industry, according to Mr. Jackson, may take the form of coöperative education. The success of such coöperative courses, he pointed out, is contingent upon industry's willingness to employ students.

"GLORIOUS 4TH" TO BE SAFE, SANE, OLD FASHIONED

Varied entertainment of the old fashioned "glorious Fourth" variety today awaits the hundreds of thousands of Chicagoans who elect to remain in the city for their holiday celebration.

The outstanding attraction will be the three and a half hour military and fireworks spectacle of the American Legion starting at 7 o'clock in Soldiers' field, where arrangements have been made to handle a crowd of 100,000 people.

"Safe and sane" programs also have been arranged in 17 Chicago parks by the Chicago park board, aided by posts of the American Legion. Of these, Portage and Garfield parks will have evening fireworks. Riis, Hermosa, Blackhawk, and Kosclusko parks will combine their celebrations at Kelvyn park for an afternoon of sports and band music.

Varied Parks Programs.

Other park celebrations include: Avondale, morning parade and afternoon sports; Holstein, afternoon contests and night outdoor program; Eckhardt, afternoon contests, night motion picture; Seward, class in citizenship, track meet; Norwood, morning and afternoon track and field meet; Pulaski, parade, road race and games. Harrison, afternoon track meet; Union, road race and field day; Armour Square, morning and afternoon sports, races and novelty contests, tug of war between married and single men, outdoor motion picture at night; Grand Crossing, morning pet show and dog parade, afternoon dancing exhibition; Trumbull, all day field meet and water carnival; Ridge, morning parade, Indian program, contests; Mark White Square, Pulaski day pageant, and McKinley park, field day, stage show, and swimming meet.

Clearing Plans Parade.

The Clearing district will have one of the largest community celebrations within the city, starting with a parade at 2 p. m. and ending with fireworks at 10 p. m. The festivities will be held at 63d street and Major avenue. Another fireworks display will be provided at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Oak Park, Cicero, Evanston, Forest Park, and Niles Center are among the suburbs which will have all day programs and fireworks at night.

The battle of Hamel, in which American and Australian soldiers fought side by side for the first time, will be commemorated with a program at 1:30 p. m. on the east plaza of the Chicago Historical Society building.

Honor Men Will Speak.

The drums and bugle corps and members of the Chipilly 131st and 132d infantry posts will march from Clark and Center streets to the society building. Capt. Herman Weimer, senior officer at Hamel; Lieut. Albert G. Jefferson, Corporal Thomas A. Pope, all of whom were decorated for bravery in the engagement, and Edward Quinn, commander of Chipilly post, will speak.

At tonight's program in Soldiers' field numerous drum and bugle corps of the American Legion will accompany the pyrotechnical reenactment of three historic battles. They are the battle of Lexington of the revolutionary war, Admiral Dewey's stand at Manila in the Spanish-American war, and the battle of Hamel of the world war. A fiery reproduction of the fall of the World's Fair sky ride tower and air maneuvers by the "Hell Divers" of the naval reserves also are on the program.

Fire Dive a Feature.

Lieut. Robert Newhall will make a "fire dive," his plane making a 9,000 foot drop and trailing a shower of blazing rockets. Planes of the 33d division, Illinois National Guard, will be blotted out after their circus by a smoke screen to be laid by Capt. Clifford A. McIlvain.

Early on the program will be selection of the "Queen of the Great Lakes" from among fifteen girls who were picked in groups of five as the most beautiful from the west, south, and north sides. The winner will go with the Chicago delegation to the next American Legion convention at St. Louis.

Thousands of underprivileged children will have special entertainment at camps near Chicago for the Fourth. At Camp Algonquin there will be relay races, a parade, and fireworks provided by Thearle-Duffield company in the evening. Other items contributed to the Algonquin celebration include ice cream given by the City Ice Cream company of Elgin and McKays' of Algonquin, 200 boxes of cracker jack from the Cracker Jack company, and 12 gallons of orange crush from the Orange Crush company.

Chicago's first big splash of fireworks for the Fourth came last night when a crew of naval reserve men on the U. S. S. Commodore shot rockets and other pyrotechnics from off Oak street beach. The demonstration was a prelude to tonight's Legion show and was directed by Capt. Edward A. Evers.

Granddaughter of Mark Hanna Wed

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Mr. and Mrs. Eberhard Block leaving St. Patrick's cathedral in New York after marriage ceremony yesterday. The bride is the fotmer Miss Mary Hanna, granddaughter of the late Mark Hanna and daughter of the late Dan R. Hanna, Cleveland publisher. The bridegroom is the son of a German physician.

Married in Cathedral

New York, July 3. — (AP) — Mary Hanna, granddaughter of the late U. S. Senator Mark Hanna, was married today in St. Patrick's cathedral to Eberhard Block of Binghampton, N. Y., a motion picture corporation executive.

Miss Hanna's father was the late Dan R. Hanna, who was publisher of the Cleveland Times. Her mother, Mrs. Stuart Hanna of Cleveland, attended the ceremony and gave a small reception afterward at a Fifth avenue hotel.

Mrs. Block, who is 22, was born in Cleveland. She attended the Spence school in New York, and traveled in Europe for two years. Block, who is 30, was educated in Germany and England. He is the son of Dr. Ernest Block, a Berlin physician.

$10,000 REWARD FOR MAN SLAYING VENIZELOS URGED

ATHENS, July 3.—(AP)—A suggestion that £2,000 [almost $10,000] be paid to any one who can carry out the death sentence imposed upon former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos for his participation in the recent abortive revolt was made in the Greek assembly today.

Deputy Moschoulas, who put forward the proposal, suggested that any other rebel condemned in absentia who executed the sentence on Venizelos might well be amnestied in addition to receiving the reward.

Venizelos, the "old fox of Greek politics" whom the Greek government accused of leading the revolution, fled from Crete when it failed and is now living in Paris.

THREAT LETTERS INTRODUCED IN ESTATE BATTLE

Vague Charges of Poison Plot Read to Court.

Letters attributed to Attorney Lionel R. Barbour of Detroit, in which vague threats were made to expose a poisoning plot, were read yesterday into the record of Barbour's suit in federal court here to gain a share of the $650,000 estate of Mrs. Fannie Bishop Henderson.

Barbour, who is now 44 years old, bases his claim on the contention that he was the common law husband of Mrs. Henderson, wealthy Aurora widow who was 77 at the time of her death in 1931. According to Barbour, the common law marriage ceremony took place in Detroit in 1925.

The case is being heard by a jury in the court of Judge John P. Barnes.

The letters were introduced by Attorneys John K. Newhall and Cassius Poust, counsel for William George, Aurora banker who was named executor of a will which specified that Mrs. Henderson's estate should be used in the construction of an Old Peoples' home.

Housekeeper Identified Letters.

They were identified from the witness stand by Mrs. Anna McKay, housekeeper for Mrs. Henderson and recipient of the missives.

One letter, dated Jan. 23, 1933, said: "Mrs. Anna McKay. Well, I am informed you are still living at the home of the late Fannie B. Henderson and have not gone south as you had stated to me on my last trip to see Fannie, and had I not considered you honest and behind the crime of poisoning she would have been now living today.

" . . . Remember your words that old George would get control of the estate. Well, it's very apparent it was satisfactory to you, and it is very plain, you did not want me to know about her sickness or death until as you considered the case closed, and you free from any suspicions as to fowl [the spelling in the letter] play.

A Hint at "Exposure."

"Your actions in this case I feel sure will interest any jury and know and feel as an attorney that with the fact and information at hand your actions will be exposed.

" . . . Well, the will George made to his order does not I would consider worth your actions, do you think so. All of these facts will in time be printed in the papers of Illinois so that Aurora will now [spelling in the letter] the truth as to the intentions of her will, and I will see that you have favorable mention. You can think over these facts and hope to see soon."

Some of the letters were signed "Barber" and some "Barbour." After identifying them Mrs. McKay testified that Barbour had been known in Aurora as Mrs. Henderson's chauffeur. She added that there was never anything to indicate they were husband and wife.

Earlier in the day Arthur Hattner, 68 years old, an Aurora carpenter, entertained the courtroom with his version of the relations of Mrs. Henderson and Barbour. Hattner began by asserting that he had known Fannie for "nigh onto 40 years."

"When did you first meet Barbour?" demanded Attorney Newhall.

"It was along in August, 1925," said Hattner when he got himself adjusted in his chair. "I met the both of 'em together and Doc Alex Henderson [Aurora veterinary, Mrs. Henderson's brother-in-law] said he [Barbour] was some bootlegger he had picked up to be her chauffeur."

He Fixes Up the Silo.

Hattner said that once in 1927 when he went out to Fannie's farm to fix her silo he found her crying.

She told him, he said, that she had offered Alex Henderson the income from a downtown Aurora building renting for $750 a month if he would not marry any one and would act as a companion to her. He refused, and she then told Hattner, he testified, that she had made the same offer to "her chauffeur," but that he wanted to marry her.

When Barbour insisted on being given the farm instead of the income from the Aurora building the plan apparently fell through, Hattner said. He testified that Fannie said she would never give her chauffeur the farm. (This was in 1927, two years after Barbour and Mrs. Henderson went through the common law marriage ceremony in Detroit, according to Barbour's story.)

He Asks About the "Smokes."

Hattner stayed for dinner at the farm after repairing the silo, he continued. During the meal Barbour poured him a drink and Hattner asked when Barbour was going to "pass out the smokes."

"He asked me what I meant," Hattner testified. "I said: 'Well, when are you and Fannie going to get hitched?'

"He said he wouldn't marry her and then Fannie said she wouldn't want him if he were the last man on earth."

Fannie once told him, Hattner said, that she was afraid of Barbour.

SALES OF FIREWORKS INDICATE DAY WILL BE RAUCOUS FOURTH

Fireworks Station, Ill., July 3.—(AP)—Plug your ears with cotton, you folks who don't like noise, because advance sales of fireworks, if not advance explosions, indicate tomorrow will be a noisy Fourth.

Manufacturers in this village, in which the making of fireworks is the only industry, and in nearby St. Louis report their business up as much as 16 per cent from last year.

As has always been the case, the old fashioned firecracker, or salute, still is far and away the No. 1 item of sale and noise. And this year, as premature celebrating has shown, some of them explode with more racket than ever before.

Fireworks men look for a more than usually raucous daytime, with "Little Johnny" out in full force at sunup. They base their expectation on a trend they have noted toward daylight novelties and away from the more expensive night displays.

There are few new devices, most manufacturers staying close to the tried and true favorites. However, one new offering is explosives in the shape of animals—"animal firecrackers," so to speak. Those in the shape of mules bear a label, "Keep away because I kick."

ASKS SAFEGUARD FOR BROADVIEW GRADE CROSSING

Motor Club Seeks 24 Hr. Watchman Service.

BY HAL FOUST.

Roosevelt road is known as one of the busiest highways in the metropolitan area. One of the busiest railroads in the Chicago district is the Indiana Harbor Belt Line. Their intersection, in the village of Broadview, west of Chicago, is at grade, without a watchman, without crossing gates, without even the protection of flashing signal lights.

The Chicago Motor club yesterday petitioned the Illinois commerce commission to order the railroad to maintain twenty-four hour watchman service at the crossing. The nature of the rail trafic, switching and freight, is such that the conventional flashing red lights would not be satisfactory.

State Slow in Acting.

The Illinois highway department has available since July 1 an allotment of $10,000,000 federal "easy money" for construction of grade separations. The commerce commission has approved this Broadview crossing as the site for one of these structures. But the highway department is tardy in preparing for this program, and it probably will be autumn before the Roosevelt road job is started.

A tally yesterday morning showed twenty-three trains passing this crossing in 5 hours 35 minutes. The commerce commission records an average daily rail trafic on this line of eighty trains.

Auto Every 11 Seconds.

Roosevelt road carries 6,600 automobiles per day. In the daylight hours, this is one car every eleven seconds. Trains were passing during yesterday's tally at a rate of one every 14 minutes 39 seconds, occupying the crossing for an average of 1 minute 14 seconds each.

"Automatic flashing signals at this crossing would be wigwagging much of the time, and much of the time for no approaching train," said George Barton, engineer for the motor club. "This is a switch track. Box cars standing on the main line near the crossing would operate the signals continuously, tending to create a disrespect for the flashing lights.

Refuse Manual Signals.

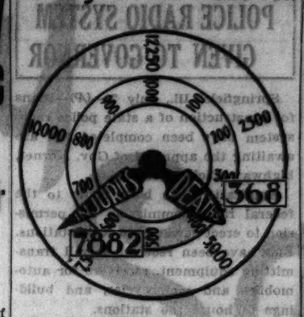
"The railroads refuse to install signals that might be operated by the engineer or other member of the crew only when actually approaching a highway crossing. Railroad officials say they don't want to depend upon the crew for this duty.

"Pending construction of this grade separation, a watchman is needed for this crossing during the heavy travel season this summer. At night his service should be augmented by floodlights.

"Freight trains are difficult to see at night. Box cars lack the reflector buttons that are required on trucks. Without flood lights motorists might hit a standing or slowly moving freight train on the side opposite from where the watchman would be waving his lantern."

THE MASSACRE

Chicago's 1935 Trafic Toll



Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

DRIVES MILLION MILES WITHOUT ANY ACCIDENTS

McGregor, Ia., July 3.—[Special.]—One million miles at the wheel in twelve years, without an accident, is the auto driving record Eva Jordan of McGregor has just completed.

She transports state patients from many points in Iowa to and from the state university hospital at Iowa City. She began driving when 52 and has had 14 cars.

One she drove 137,000 miles before taking it in, another 105,000 miles, and two others over 101,000. She has averaged 2,000 miles a week much of the time.

CHICAGO LEADS U. S. IN REDUCING TRAFIC DEATHS

Chicago led the nation in reducing automobile deaths in the first six months of 1935, according to a report issued yesterday by the census bureau in Washington.

There was a total of 360 fatalities during the half year period, a reduction of 85 from the same period last year. New York, reporting 495 auto deaths, led the nation. The mark was 11 below the 1934 period. Detroit also showed improvement, reporting 145 deaths against 185 last year.

Report Covers 86 Cities.

During the six months period, 4,137 persons died as the result of automobile accidents, according to the report which covered 86 principal cities. Last year there were 4,142 deaths in the same period.

Fatal accidents increased in Los Angeles, where 220 deaths occurred in comparison with 191 in 1934. Philadelphia reported 123 fatalities, a rise of 14. Automobile fatalities also increased in St. Louis to 107 this year, as against 64 last year. Milwaukee had only 28 deaths against 34 in 1934.

Driverless Auto Crashes Into Bank.

A driverless automobile that apparently had been parked in front of the Medinah Michigan avenue club at 505 North Michigan and had been shoved down the grade when pushed by another car, crashed into a display window of the Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank, 144 East Ohio street, yesterday. No one was injured. The car first struck the safety island in the center of the street and then careened into the window.

With no deaths yesterday in Cook county, the 1935 trafic toll remained at 457. Until 4 p. m. 368 had been killed in automobile accidents within the Chicago city limits and 7,882 injured.

SEN. E. B. SEARCY ENTERS RACE FOR GOVERNORSHIP

G. O. P. Shows Eagerness to Battle Democrats.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Readiness of Republican leaders in Illinois to face the Democratic army and all its power in 1936 was demonstrated yesterday by the formal announcement of State Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield that he is a candidate for governor.

EARL B. SEARCY.

This was the first written declaration of this kind, but its appearance served to call attention to talk recently of several other possible Republican candidates for the governorship. John G. Oglesby, former lieutenant governor, is inclined to enter. Otis F. Glenn, former United States senator, has been urged to run. Oscar E. Carlstrom has his eye on developments. Some time ago Congressman Everett M. Dirkson of Peoria became active in a way construed as meaning he was in the race.

Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg has been mentioned frequently as a governorship possibility since last Saturday. On that day twenty-seven downstate Republican members of the legislature signed a statement urging that he be considered for some state office.

Others Indicate Confidence.

There are still others who show no fear of the big Democratic machine, and their attitude reflects a spreading belief that Gov. Henry Horner, despite the advantage of being in power, will not be difficult to beat if he persuades the Democratic leaders to grant his second term wishes.

The statement from Searcy, minority leader of the state senate in its David vs. Goliath fight of the last six months, was in response to a letter from some of his Republican associates urging him to announce himself.

"Second only in importance to the defeat of the New Dealers at Washington," ran this letter to Searcy, "is the election of a Republican governor to defeat Horner and the Illinois Democratic Tammany.

His Sales Tax Fight Lauded.

"Your leadership in fighting the dictates of federal burocracy which, with Horner's acquiescence, resulted in an increase of state taxes [sales tax] of 50 per cent ought, alone, to command the admiration of all Illinoisians who have concern for the state's future."

In reply Senator Searcy commented on the fact that his announcement would be made public on Independence day.

"Federal tyranny now," read his statement, "is little less than was the foreign imposition that brought resistance a century and a half ago. It must cease and its encroachments upon state rights, and upon the private rights and purses of our citizens must be obviated. Government must be simplified and the parasites must be tuned out.

Growing Debts Assailed.

"The New Deal has failed miserably. Its every impulse is extravagance, with nothing but political pay rolls and skyrocketing debts to show as its accomplishments. Roosevelt has repudiated substantially every promise he made as a candidate. And the Illinois Democratic boss-ridden rule has been almost as impotent.

"Illinois government, from one end to the other, must be simplified. Appropriations are running at least one-third more than incoming revenues will finance. Such haphazard practices must cease.

Abuses Condoned, He Charges.

"The outstanding tragedy of the late legislative session was a 50 per cent increase in state taxes [the sales tax], when a common sense economy program would have provided every cent needed for relief.

"Relief itself has been sadly abused, yet the present administration condones those abuses.

"Federal overlords and burocratic opportunists have ruled us long enough. Let federal jurisdiction stay within its proper limitations. Let home rule of the states be unimpaired.

"An Illinois administration should be loyal first to Illinoisians."

FALLS FROM ICY PEAK, BUT STILL WOULD SCALE IT

Estes Park, Colo., July 3.—(AP)—A night of horror, combining a plunge of 800 feet across a glacier and hours of crawling on the slick ice of Flat Top mountain, left Kenneth Corlay, 26, Champaign, Ill., high school instructor, determined today "to go back and climb that peak."

Park rangers, who found Corlay at dawn at the base of the precipice over which he fell, said his escape from death was "miraculous."

Mrs. Corlay screamed and her husband made a lunge to her side. The ice on which he was standing gave way and he stumbled, sprawling "like lightning" down across the glacier.

Mrs. Corlay, horror stricken, said her husband struck against a boulder and was tossed 15 feet into the air, then plunged from sight behind other jagged rocks. After he regained consciousness he struggled throughout the night but managed only to crawl three-quarters of a mile.

20 Drown as Gale Sinks Five Boats in White Sea

OSLO, Norway, July 3.—(AP)—Reports from Murmansk, U. S. S. R., said twenty persons were drowned today as five fishing vessels capsized in a gale on the White sea.

PLANS FOR ILLINOIS POLICE RADIO SYSTEM GIVEN TO GOVERNOR

Springfield, Ill., July 3.—(AP)—Plans for construction of a state police radio system have been completed and are awaiting the approval of Gov. Horner, highway officials said today.

Application has been made to the federal radio commission for permission to erect seven 1,000 watt stations. Bids have been received on all transmitting equipment, receivers for automobiles and motorcycles, and buildings to house the stations.

"If the present plans are carried out Illinois probably will have the finest police radio system in the nation," officials declared. "All equipment for the system will be perfected and modern apparatus.

"If the radio commission grants the power requested the proposed Illinois system will have greater range than any other state system. It is also planned to use towers 321 feet high, which will greatly aid in increasing the range."

The approximate locations of the seven stations will be Dunning, Sterling, Pontiac, Macomb, Effingham, Duquoin, and Springfield.

GRASS ROOTERS HAIL HOUSE BLOW TO UTILITY BILL

Link New Deal Loss to Prairie Rally.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Republican Grass Rooters declared yesterday that the revolt of 166 house Democrats in congress Tuesday against President Roosevelt was in some measure a reflection of the June G. O. P. grass roots roundup of ten prairie states at Springfield.

An analysis of the house roll call which rejected the "death sentence" on public utility holding companies demanded by the President and the New Deal showed that 16 of the 20 Illinois Democrats in the national house voted for the New Deal repulse. Five of the six Illinois Republican members voted against the New Deal. Only four Illinois Democratic members voted for the Roosevelt proposal—Sabath, Kocialkowski, Arnold, and Keller.

Dieterich Favors Acceptance.

In New York's house delegation 16 Democrats voted against President Roosevelt's proposal, but New York has 29 Democratic members.

The stand taken by the 16 Illinois house Democrats, and the announcement of Senator William H. Dieterich, Illinois Democrat, that he would move to accept the house action in the senate, was interpreted by the Republican Grass Rooters as indicating the members are giving ear to what folks back home are saying.

Without regard to the "death sentence" proposal itself, the Grass Rooters held the Democratic revolt was apparently stimulated by the Springfield G. O. P. meeting and its accusations that congress has abdicated and relinquished its constitutional powers to the Rooseveltian New Deal and has become a rubber stamp for the brain trust.

How Other Delegations Voted.

"It would seem," remarked Jacob D. Allen, secretary of the Springfield Republican Grass Roots roundup, "that congress now sees the handwriting on the wall. The Grass Roots conference of the midwest states was undoubtedly of great influence in letting congress know how Republicans and Democrats back home viewed its abdication."

Analysis of the house roll call showed that six of Indiana's eleven Democratic members of the house voted against the Roosevelt demands on the holding company "death sentence." In the Iowa delegation, the six Democratic members and one Republican member voted for Roosevelt and two Republicans against him. In Michigan ten Republican memoers out of eleven voted against the Roosevelt proposal, while four of the six Democratic members voted for it.

Ohio Group Aids Rebellion.

The six states which are to hold a Grass Roots Republican conference at Cleveland next Monday and Tuesday contributed largely to the Democratic defection in Tuesday's vote in congress. In Ohio's delegation 11 of the 18 Democratic house members voted to repudiate the Roosevelt proposal. Of Pennsylvania's 23 Democrats in the house, 12 voted against the President. Of Kentucky's eight Democratic members, five voted against the Roosevelt proposal. West Virginia has six Democrats in the house, and five voted against the President. In these four states, out of 55 Democratic house members, 33 voted against the New Deal proposal.

As to the south, the roll call shows a Democratic break which some Grass Rooters are saying may result in an extension of the "Grass Roots" movement into old Democratic states.

Eight Virginians in Defection.

From Virginia, eight Democratic members out of nine voted against the New Deal proposal, and in Florida, five out of five. Ten Texas house Democrats out of 21 voted against the President, and in Georgia's delegation six out of ten Democrats did likewise. In twelve southern states, 59 Democratic congresmen swung against the Roosevelt proposal.

Of the seven house Republicans who voted for the Roosevelt proposal, two are from North Dakota, two from California, and one each from New York, Iowa, and Kansas.

Silas H. Strawn, ex-president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, said yesterday that the New Deal policies have operated to defeat the four international objectives adopted by the chamber of commerce in 1920.

Addressing the Midwest Institute of Foreign Relations at Northwestern university, Mr. Strawn said the administration is working counter to "a stabilized exchange, maintenance of the gold standard, mutual balancing of budgets and the lowering of tarif restrictions," all planks in the chamber of commerce platform.

HUEY LEARNS TO DUCK, SO DODGES A LETHAL RIGHT

Dances in Public and Incurs More Ire.

Washington, D. C., July 3.—[Special.]—Senator Huey [Kingfish] Long today was trying to explain his latest social mixup. It occurred last night on a crowded floor at the fashionable Shoreham hotel dance terrace.

The rumpus was climaxed by a dancer swinging a fist at the boisterous legislator because he danced more on others' toes than on the floor. Though Long admittedly was unable to show off well as he tried to trip the light fantastic, he demonstrated his ability to duck a fist, for he nimbly backed away from a vicious right cross to the jaw and escaped unscathed.

Son of Judge Ansell.

It was one of the few times the Louisiana "dictator" has barged out into a public place of entertainment since the famous washroom incident at Sands Point, L. I., when he apparently was not so well versed in ducking. He got a shady orb on that occasion.

The man behind last night's swing was Burr Tracy Ansell, local attorney and son of Samuel T. Ansell, former army judge advocate general. The latter is no friend of Long's and his son doesn't care for the senator either, now.

The senior Ansell has a $500,000 libel suit pending in the local court as a result of a speech Long made some time ago on the senate floor assailing the general as counsel for a senate committee which investigated the election of Senator Overton, one of Long's political confederates.

Huey Gives His Version.

In giving his explanation of the incident today, Long confessed that his dancing was poor. He said he danced only a few times each year. But last night his companion, a platinum blonde, prevailed upon him to try a waltz.

"I stepped on her toes, I stepped on my own toes, and then was stepping on all toes," Long admitted. It is said he has a way of barging through the dancers as he prances along.

Young Ansell's account of the affair was quite different from that of his antagonist. He said that Long came to his table where he and his wife were sitting with a group of friends.

ORDER CONTEMPT ACTION FOR JURY VOUCHER BUYING

Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court yesterday instructed Assistant State's Attorney Frank Donoghue to file contempt of court charges against Frank Flower, 754 Oakwood boulevard, and Benjamin Taman, head of Taman & Co., for soliciting jury vouchers at a discount in the corridors of the Criminal Courts building. Hearing on the charges was set for July 9. Flower was arrested in the building last week after he was alleged to have purchased a voucher from a juror, and Taman was seized when cards bearing the name of the Taman firm were found to have been sent to jurors while they were in service. Yesterday when an attorney representing them told Judge Sullivan that there was no law under which he could proceed, the judge replied that "this is a hall of justice and I am not going to allow money changers to operate in it." He then ordered the contempt charges filed.

EX-SALESMAN, 70, HELD IN THEFT OF GOVERNESS' $1,900

Gustave Guillot, 70 years old, 4428 Magnolia avenue, was locked up at the detective bureau yesterday on a charge of stealing $1,940 from Miss Jeanne Chassier, a governess in the home of Mrs. Edwin S. Rosenbaum Sr., at 957 Sheridan road, Glencoe.

Sergt. John J. Murphy who arrested Guillot said that Miss Chassier told him that Guillot took the money and some securities from her safe deposit box. She met Guillot in 1926 and engaged him as her financial adviser, Miss Chassier said, giving him access to the strongbox. She obtained a warant charging larceny from Municipal Judge Gibson E. Gorman.

Guillot was formerly employed by the Utilities Securities company, an Insull concern, and specialized in selling securities to opera singers. When arrested, police said, he was carrying a revolver. He demanded counsel and declined to make a statement.

HORNER SIGNS ELECTION BILLS TO CUT COSTS

Saving of $200,000 to County in 4 Years.

Gov. Horner yesterday signed the key bills of the Adamowski elections series, placing in effect the plan approved by the Illinois general assembly for economy by authorizing the consolidation of elections in the country towns.

Besides balloting on county-wide offices and proposals on the first Tuesday in April, the country towns have voted in school elections on the second Saturday in April and there have been some village and park elections on the third Tuesday in April. These towns now are empowered to eliminate two of the three election days, holding all of these elections on the first Tuesday.

$200,000 Saving Expected.

Conservative estimates place the saving at $200,000 during a four year period in Cook county. In addition, Benjamin S. Adamowski, Democratic majority leader in the house who introduced the bills, and County Judge Jarecki, who sponsored them, pointed out that there would be a bigger vote under the single day system, which would mean a more representative poll.

A Chicago election bill, signed by the governor, was one introduced by Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago]. This measure provides that where the voters in only a portion of a precinct vote upon a local option proposition a separate register must be kept of their names.

Tax Warant Bill Signed.

Two other Chicago bills that were signed authorize the Chicago board of education to pledge tax warants with the federal government for work relief loans with which to finance a building program, and empower the sanitary district to charge packing and other large industrial plants for the discharge of waste in excess of 3,650,000 gallons a year. The former bill was introduced by Edward P. O'Grady, and the latter by Charles H. Weber, both house Democratic members from Chicago.

The governor also approved an appropriation of $1,000,000 for a new armory to be built in Springfield to replace the one which burned down over a year ago, and an appropriation of $500,000 for an archives building to be constructed on the capitol grounds. Formerly, many documents, particularly those appertaining to veterans, had been stored in the armory, and these were lost in the fire.

$600,000 to Purchase Books.

Another appropriation approved is for $600,000 for the extension division of the state library to purchase books. The books are allotted to cities on the basis of population, which will add to the collection of the Chicago Pubic library.

The governor permitted one of the city of Chicago's financial bills to become a law without his signature. This measure repeals the provision that when current taxes are insufficient to reimburse the working cash fund, other corporate fund revenues should be used to make up the deficiency.

Urges Reenactment Later.

The act affects Chicago only, and the governor stated in filing the bill that he was doing so because reimbursement of the working cash fund out of corporate revenues would deprive the city of moneys vitally needed for current expenses. He expressed the wish that when the city's financial condition would permit, the provision repealed would be reënacted.

The governor has not yet acted on three measures that were sponsored by the Chicago city administration. These are the bills permitting the licensing of handbooks, which has been sent to Attorney General Kerner for an opinion as to constitutionality; the bills authorizing the construction of a lake front airport, and the bills creating an "exposition authority" to control a permanent world's fair in Burnham park.

OFFICIAL COUNT SHOWS 227,125 VOTED ON JUDGES

Official figures on the Cook county vote in the judicial election last Monday were made public yesterday but failed to show any material change from the early estimates. The total vote in the county was 227,125, according to County Clerk Michael J. Flynn. The total for Chicago was 217,570. The high men on the Superior court ticket were Judge Peter H. Schwaba with 210,947; Ald. Oscar F. Nelson, 210,597, and Judge Denis E. Sullivan, 210,522. Circuit Judge Francis S. Wilson, who was elected to the Supreme court, was among the high totals for Cook county with 209,966. The returns from the other counties in the Seventh district have not been received.

PRESIDENT READS WORKS LIST TO ANSWER CRITICS

Perspiring Reporters Ask Him to Stop.

Washington, D. C., July 3.—[Special.]—In reply to criticisms that the $4,000,000,000 work relief program consists mainly of "boondoggling," President Roosevelt today read to perspiring reporters a long list of approved projects of all sizes, simply to show that these works were known in detail to those responsible for the operation.

Many of the newspapermen carried away an impression that he was "filibustering" to avoid having the conference turned to controversial subjects as he plodded smilingly through his dull recitation until reporters repeatedly asked him to stop. He conducted the whole conference in a marked atmosphere of joviality.

Clarifies Work Division.

This action by the President followed an announcement, with which he opened the conference, defining the future division of responsibility over work relief projects. Under this order, those projects in which the aggregate cost is estimated to be more than $25,000 will be under the jurisdiction of Secretary Ickes' public works administration, and those under $25,000 will be cared for by Harry L. Hopkins' works progress administration.

This "clarification" was intended to spike rumors over alleged differences between the two administrators. The President's statement was followed by a declaration by Frank C. Walker director of the division of applications and information, that there was nothing to reports of discord between members of the relief triumvirate.

Mr. Hopkins reported that while it was true "not a single man" had been put to work on the new relief program, there were about 100,000 projects "ready to go."

President in Good Humor.

Mr. Roosevelt was in high good humor as he faced about 150 newspapermen across his desk. While he waited for the reporters to file into the room, he fingered a large sheaf of printed sheets on his desk.

After announcing the new division of responsibility between Mr. Hopkins and Secretary Ickes, he began reading a list of Georgia projects, of which he said he had a description of 881, telling newspapermen laughingly that when they had heard enough they could tell him to stop. If they wished to hear others, he added, he also had a list of Indiana projects.

SENATORS VOTE WIDOWS PENSIONS FOR G-MEN SLAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 3.—[Special.]—Five thousand dollar [one payment] pensions, to be awarded immediately in cash, were approved today in a committee report to the house for the widows of six government agents killed in fights with gangsters or in accidents while on duty. A bill providing for the pensions has been passed by the senate and is expected to be passed quickly by the house.

The pensions are to be awarded the widows of:

Inspector Samuel P. Cowley and Special Agent Herman E. Hollis, who were killed by Lester M. Gillis ["Baby Face" Nelson] and John Paul Chase in a gun battle near Barrington, Ill., Nov. 28, 1934.

Special Agent R. J. Caffrey, killed June 17, 1933, near the Union station, Kansas City, Mo., by gangsters trying to liberate Frank Nash, desperado.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 3.—A commercial air service carrying passengers and mails between France and the United States is planned by the French air ministry, it was learned tonight on reliable authority. The planes to be used will be of the type of the Lieut. Vaisseau Paris, the monster seaplane now undergoing repairs after an accident at Havre while welcoming the Normandie on the liner's return from New York after its maiden voyage.

The plan envisages stations at the Azores and Bermuda. The French thus revealed that they have rejected the scheme for floating islands in the Atlantic.

The air ministry points out that with descents at the Azores and Bermuda the longest over water stretch between France and New York will not be greater than that of the longest stretch over the south Atlantic between Africa and Brazil, now regularly covered by French seaplanes.

Mrs. K. McCormick Sturm Hurt in Auto Collision

New York, July 3.—[Special.]—Mrs. Katherine McCormick Sturm, 34 years old, wife of Justin C. Sturm of Westport, Conn., was seriously injured tonight when an automobile in which she was riding was in collision with another car in the Bronx. Mrs. Sturm is the former Miss Katherine McCormick, daughter of Mrs. Alexander A. McCormick of Chicago and the late Mr. McCormick. The Sturms were married in England in June, 1922. They went to Westport from Chicago about eight years ago. Mr. Sturm is a sculptor and writer.

The fish, apparently none the worse for its trip through the pumping station and pipe lines, was placed in a glass bowl and named Peeping Tom.

Raise Nearly $2 for the Poor; Many Pleas.

BY MARCIA WINN.

"Dear Sir or Madame" read the poorly scrawled lines. "I have a sick baby 14 months old. I would like to know if you would please send me some ice tickets so I can keep his milk fresh."

This letter, and many others similar to it, poured into The Tribune offices yesterday as the temperature began its July ascent.

At the same time, out in Rogers Park, a group of five little girls gathered in a basement at 2700 Greenleaf avenue to stage a one-act play—the first benefit of the season for The Tribune free ice fund.

Eight Grown-ups Attend.

"Little Women," taken from the celebrated girls' book by Louisa M. Alcott, was its title, and eight grown-ups and 25 children composed its audience.

Elaine Emmes, 2728 Lunt avenue, who is 13 years old, played the role of "Mommie March." Jane Fols, 2714 Lunt avenue, who is 12, was boisterous Jo. Peggy Eagle, also of 2714 Lunt avenue, who is 11, was yellow-haired Amy. Jane George, 2700 Greenleaf, 12, was gentle Meg, and Diane Jonnata, 2718 Lunt avenue, 11, was shy little Beth.

Flossmoor Boys Send $1.20.

"And," reported an excited young actress as she telephoned The Tribune, "we made almost $2 for The Tribune ice fund."

Jack Baty of Flossmoor, who is 10 years old, and his 8 year old brother, David, sent in $1.20 yesterday as their contributions to the fund. Mamie R. Strauss sent $2, and an anonymous donor, who labeled his contribution "the first fruits of an increase," sent $1. These brought the ice donations to date to a total of $75.55.

C. S. Pellet	$ 25.00
James Salisbury	5.00
Previously acknowledged	1,903.69
Total	$1,933.69

COUGHLIN ALTERS BILL IN SUIT FOR SOLDIERS' FIELD

Attorney Samuel A. Ettelson, counsel for the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, filed yesterday an amended petition in the mandamus suit which the Detroit radio priest brought in the Superior court to compel the Chicago park district to allow him to hold a massmeeting in Soldiers' field. A hearing on the petition will be held tomorrow morning before Judge James J. Kelly.

In accordance with instructions given to him by Judge Kelly on Tuesday, Ettelson's amended bill contains the allegation that the park commissioners have abused their powers by refusing to grant Father Coughlin the use of the field. The bill declares also that the priest is willing to pay the customary rental fee of 15 per cent of the gross receipts to the park district. These statements were missing from the original bill.

Attorney Joseph B. Fleming of the firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin, representing the park commissioners, received a copy of the amended petition yesterday afternoon. He said he would study it and decide whether to stand on the demurrer he filed to the original bill or to answer the charges.

CHICAGO TO SEE TOTAL ECLIPSE OF MOON JULY 15

Weather permitting, residents of Chicago and vicinity may view a total eclipse of the moon on the night of July 15, according to Dr. Otto Struve, director of the Yerkes observatory of the University of Chicago. The moon will be obscured as it passes through the earth's shadow. While the moon will not enter the shadow until 10:12 p. m. on July 15, Chicago daylight saving time, it will be dimmed nearly an hour before that by the penumbra surrounding the shadow proper, Mr. Struve said. By 11:09 p. m. the eclipse will be total, reaching its darkest stage at midnight. At 12:50 a. m. the left edge of the disc will emerge from the shadow and the moon will not emerge into full brightness until two hours later. The moon will rise in Chicago at 8:18 p. m. that night.

U. S. MAY LEND GEN. MacARTHUR TO PHILIPPINES

Might Train Million of Natives, It's Said.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 3.—[Special.]—With the army modernization program safely through congress and about to be placed in operation, Gen. Douglas MacArthur is expected to be relieved shortly of his indefinite appointment as chief of staf of the United States army.

It is rumored on Capitol hill that upon the appointment of his successor, Gen. MacArthur will be lent to the commonwealth of the Philippines to build up the national defense of those islands against eventual independence. He would head a military commission. That appointment is conditional on a formal request for military advisers from the provisional insular government to be inaugurated Nov. 1 and American acquiescence to such request. This is a provision of the independence act.

Popular in Philippines.

Pedro Guevara, Philippine resident commissioner to congress, said Gen. MacArthur's appointment as head of the military commission would be welcomed in the islands. He pointed out that the general was commander of the Manila army area from 1922 to 1925. He said it will be vital to develop and train a Filipino army of a potential strength of a million men as rapidly as possible.

The war department declined to comment on the rumor. At Gen. MacArthur's office it was said the rumor has proved a source of embarrassment to the chief of staf and there was no comment from him.

The rumor first arose more than a month ago when Frank Murphy, then governor general and now high commissioner to the islands, came here for the ratification of the Philippine constitution by President Roosevelt. Officials dodged confirmation.

Both Remain Silent.

At a social function at which Gen. MacArthur and Mr. Murphy were present, the subject was brought into the conversation. Both later ignored repeated questionings on the subject.

When President Roosevelt extended Gen. MacArthur's term as chief of staf last Dec. 12, he made it clear that MacArthur was not to serve another four year term, but was being retained indefinitly, because of his experience and knowledge of the legislation being sought by the war department. The President indicated that a successor would be appointed upon completion of the legislative program.

Mentioned most prominently to succeed MacArthur are Maj. Gen. Malin Craig, head of the army war college, and Maj. Gen. George S. Simmons, deputy chief of staf. Conceded a chance is Maj. Gen. Stuart Heinzelman, commander of the 7th Corps area.

DELAWARE ENDS FISCAL YEAR WITH A SURPLUS

Dover, Del., July 3.—(AP)—Delaware started its new fiscal year this week with enough money in the Treasury to show not only a balanced budget, but a surplus of several hundred thousand dollars.

Notwithstanding economic conditions of the last four years, Delaware has paid all of its bills and has met all of its pay rolls when they were due. Counties, cities, and towns have done likewise. And there have been no reductions in the working forces of the state, county, and municipal governments.

When Gov. C. Douglass Buck was asked today about the budget surplus he said "yes, the budget was balanced, and there would be shown a surplus of something like $100,000, after all bills for the last fiscal year had been paid." He was not sure of the exact amount.

CLOSE NOTORIOUS SUBWAY CAFE FOR LAW VIOLATIONS

Police Charge 2 A. M. Liquor Sales.

The Subway café, a drinking resort at 507-09 North Wabash avenue, which has been under police investigation several times within the last year because of brawls, was closed yesterday on a charge of violating the city ordinance against the sale of liquor in the early morning hours. The café, which derives its name from its underground location, was padlocked by the Chicago avenue police on orders from Commissioner James P. Allman.

Earlier in the day City Collector Louis Rixmann, acting on recommendation of the police commissioner, refused to issue a liquor license to the café for the last six months of the year. Rixmann said he would also refuse licenses to John Patterson, proprietor of the café, for any other location in the city, or to any other person who wanted to run the Subway. The café's cigaret and food licenses were also revoked.

Sales After 2 A. M. Reported.

Allman's action followed a report from Capt. William J. O'Brien of the Chicago avenue station. O'Brien said that two of his men, Matthew F. Brennan and Charles J. Stanger, had visited the café in plain clothes early on the morning of June 16. The policemen informed O'Brien that they had been able to buy drinks between 2 and 2:40 a. m.

The Subway, known as a twenty-four hour honky-tonk, had a "postage stamp" dance floor and a bar which it boasted was the "longest in the world." "Hostesses" always were present for the lonely guest.

The Subway came under police surveilance on Feb. 12 following the death of William Pyper, 49 years old, 6248 South Kedzie avenue. Pyper became ill in the café after drinking with two boisterous men and died as he was being taken to the Henrotin hospital. His companions disappeared.

Case of "Knockout Drops."

An autopsy on Pyper's body disclosed a large quantity of chloral hydrate, or "knockout drops," apparently administered in his drinks. It was learned that Pyper had been carrying a large sum of money when he went to the café. His pockets were empty and his personal jewelry was missing when he was brought to the hospital.

On May 30, Daniel Dore, a bartender at the café, and five patrons were arrested on disorderly conduct charges as the aftermath of a battle over money. One of the patrons was fined in court and Dore and the others were discharged. On June 23, William Rousseau and Edward Kenyon, both of Detroit, complained to police that they had been slugged by employes of the café.

Jean Crompton, sweetheart of Tommy Carroll, slain henchman of John Dillinger, was a "graduate" of the Subway. She was a hostess there, married a waiter, and later deserted him to join the Dillinger gang.

STATE HOSPITAL HALL COLLAPSES IN ELGIN; 13 WORKERS INJURED

Thirteen men were injured, three seriously, in the collapse yesterday of the $100,000 assembly hall at the Elgin state hospital being built by the state on the site of a hall destroyed by fire in 1931.

The most seriously injured are Edward Taylor, 33 years old, 362 South State street, Elgin, a bricklayer; John L. Schaffer, 42, of 2207 East 75th street, Chicago, and Wilfred Hart, 43, of 2640 North Avers avenue, Chicago.

The brick work on the new building had been completed and workmen were installing roof spans of steel weighing eight tons each. Three of the girders that were in place buckled suddenly, pinning workmen beneath them. It was necessary to jack up the girders to extricate several of the men.

Marion E. Wells, a construction superintendent for the state, began an investigation to determine the cause of the collapse.

Taken for Indecency, He Admits Crime.

time to time with their feet to keep him talking.

He pleaded guilty to the local charge of disorderly conduct and was arraigned before Magistrate Adolph Stern. The magistrate found him guilty and remanded him to jail to await sentence on Friday.

Meantime his finger prints were sent to the bureau of criminal identification, where it was discovered that his prints were identical with those of the hunted Goodrich. At police headquarters Detective Raymond Henshaw walked into the room where Goodrich was held.

"Hello, Merton," he greeted him.

"My name is not Merton," the man returned sullenly.

Forced to Admit Identity.

"O, yes, it is," the detective said. "We've compared your finger prints, and we know you are Merton Goodrich."

The defendant thereupon admitted his identity and the slaying for which he had been sought. He also admitted he was committed to an asylum at Lima, O., after raping a young girl.

Goodrich's wife, who came to a police station earlier in the day to inquire about her husband's arrest on the disorderly conduct charge, admitted her identity and complicity in the crime. She was charged with homicide.

She had first said her name was Dorothy Johnson and that she had come to New York from Boston six years ago. She said she was at a loss to understand her husband's arrest yesterday, believing him to be at work at the time.

Body Found in Apartment.

The mutiliated body of the young Detroit schoolgirl was found on Sept. 26, 1934, in the apartment from which Goodrich and his wife had fled. The disc[illegible]y was made six days after Lillian disappeared while selling chances on a punchboard for a parochial school benefit.

Police said at the time that the girl had been choked to death. With a towel knotted around her throat, the body had been stuffed into a trunk along with the punchboard.

In her Detroit home today, the girl's mother, Mrs. Emma Gallaher, was informed that the slayer had been arrested. She dropped a mixing bowl in which she was preparing food for her two sons and sat silently for nearly five minutes.

"Put Him Away for Good."

"What good will it do now?" she said helplessly. "It won't bring Lillian back. But I hope they put him away like they would a wild animal. Lillian can't come back, but other children would be saved. They should never, never let him loose again."

Goodrich was turned loose several times following arrests and detainment on the complaints of young girls. He was seized at Lorain, O., in 1928 on suspicion of having lured a 9 year old girl to his apartment, but was released.

In 1930 he was arrested at Youngstown, O., on a charge of raping another 9 year old girl. That time he was sent to the state hospital at Lima, O., for observation. But he was released in July, 1931, after authorities declared him sane.

In November, 1931, he was arrested again on complaints of two young girls and was returned to the state hospital at Lima. He was held at the institution until August, 1933, when he was paroled.

Called Abnormal But Sane.

In the fall of that same year he was arrested for molesting little girls and was once again returned to the institution. His wife obtained his release Jan. 5, 1934.

Goodrich and his wife then moved to Detroit and Lillian was slain nine months later. Ohio pshychiatrists said that Goodrich was not normal but that in their opinion he was not insane.

Two Detroit detectives arrived tonight by plane to check details of Goodrich's confession. Both Goodrich and his wife were locked up for the night on homicide charges.

STUDIES OTHER CRIMINAL ACTS LAID TO FERRIS

BY EDWIN KENNEDY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., July 3.—[Special.]—The filing of formal charges of murder against William Lee Ferris and his "party girl" associates for the slaying of Howard Carter Dickinson was postponed today by County Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea. He will investigate new information linking the confessed killer with other criminal activities.

Ferris, whose real name is William Schweitzer, was brought into the Recorder's court this morning on the hearing of a petition for a writ of habeas corpus which was sought by his attorney, Ernest Goodman. Judge Christopher E. Stein, sitting in that court, continued the hearing until Friday morning at the request of Prosecutor McCrea. Ferris seemed indifferent.

Asks Writ for Sisters.

Another writ was sought this afternoon by Attorney John Bucerzan for Florence and Loretta Jackson, sisters, who have confessed that they had plotted with Ferris to kill and rob the nephew of Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes. Judge Stein at the request of the prosecutor continued that hearing until Friday morning.

The two sisters, who have been employed as cabaret and beer garden entertainers, presented a contrast in appearance to the dejected Ferris. Neatly dressed, some of their clothes purchased with part of the $134 taken from Dickinson, the girls appeared in court smiling.

The women told Judge Stein they could not afford to retain an attorney. They had not asked Bucerzan to act in their behalf, they said. The lawyer declared he had been called in by friends of their family. He requested that a formal charge be placed against them or that they be released.

Grants Request of State.

The county prosecutor asked for more time to investigate "other criminal ramifications." Judge Stein continued the hearing without further argument.

In the hearing on Ferris' petition for a writ of habeas corpus, Attorney Goodman agreed to the postponement. He asserted he, too, wished to learn more of the facts in the case. Outside of the courtroom he declared that the police had forced Ferris to confess. The prosecutor and police officials denied the use of cruelty.

Ferris was one of the leaders of a "milk bottle racket" which operated in this city several years ago, the prosecutor declared later. According to the official, the ring, which stole thousands of dollars' worth of milk bottles, also engaged in sabotage at that time in the war between large creameries and independent dairies.

Prosecutor McCrea said that following the arrest of one of the principals in that racket two years ago Ferris fled the city and did not return for nearly a year. This was confirmed by Mrs. Violet Ferris, his 23 year old wife. She visited the prosecutor's office today, but did not ask to visit her husband. She maintained, however, that she would not believe her husband had slain Dickinson until she heard it "from his own lips." She expects to become a mother soon.

Says Husband Was Calm.

The federal trade commission is now investigating the Detroit milk situation. She told the prosecutor that on the Thursday morning when Dickinson's body was found, her husband came home and packed his clothing. She said he did not appear flustered or excited. She did not question him about his departure. Dickinson's body had been found in Rouge park, about twelve miles from the city.

Mrs. Jean Miller, who accompanied the Jackson sisters and Ferris on the death ride continued to assert that she did not know that the others had plotted the killing. She admitted, however, that she assisted in searching the lawyer's coat and vest which was taken off after he had been shot.

As yet no attorney has appeared to represent her. Mrs. Miller's husband, from whom she has been separated for two years, has volunteered what assistance he can give.

FIREWORKS KILL BOY AND INJURE SEVERAL OTHERS

Indianapolis, Ind., July 3.—[Special.]—Fireworks killed a boy and injured several other persons in Indiana today.

Robert Forrest Byers, 4, died at Boonville of burns received when a firecracker exploded in a rubber hose filled with gasoline. Robert Paul Mason, 5, was possibly fatally burned at Hope when a firecracker exploded in his hand. A finger was blown off and his face burned. Herbert Boss, 13, suffered serious injuries here when a cracker exploded in his hand.

Elmer Dawson, 9, had a severely burned leg at Fort Wayne when firecrackers exploded in his pocket. Harvey Hanna, 32, was burned by an exploding cracker at Michigan City.

FINED $25 AS GUN TOTER.

Anthony Bayoff, 25 years old, 1231 Burling street, was fined $25 yesterday by Judge Frank M. Padden in the South State Street court for carrying a concealed weapon.

350,000 SALES TAX TOKENS PLACED IN CIRCULATION

Robert M. Stowers, supervisor for the Chicago area of the state department of finance, announced yesterday that 350,000 of the aluminum tokens authorized for the collection of the 3 per cent sales tax now are in circulation in the city. Beginning tomorrow, more than 400,000 of the tokens will be received daily from the finance department offices at 203 West Washington street, for distribution to merchants. Each token represents 1.5 mills, the tax on a 5 cent purchase.

Most of the tokens thus far distributed have gone to chain stores. The large department stores and most restaurants are using a uniform bracket system of prices on which to base the tax collections.

In the meanwhile United States District Attorney Michael L. Igoe was awaiting word from Attorney General Cummings at Washington on the legality of the tokens. A. Bradley Eben, one of Mr. Igoe's assistants, has stated that he believes distribution and authorization of the tokens is in violation of federal statutes covering the coinage of money.

UNION BUSINESS AGENTS TO BE IN SHOWUP MONDAY

CRIMINAL COURT.

Nick Succas, robbery, sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary by Judge John C. Lewe.

Business agents of all building trades unions in western Cook county are to be produced for a police showup Monday, their attorney, William D. Wollesen, promised Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty yesterday.

The showup is planned in an effort to learn the identity of the men who last Thursday invaded the home of Joseph Lid, 55 years old, at 6529 West 29th street, Berwyn, slugged him for protesting, and drove away two plasterers and a carpenter at work there. Two of the men are union members, but one of the plasterers has been unable, because of unemployment, to pay his dues during the last year.

Attorney Wollesen, saying he represented the union men involved, sought to learn what charges would be brought against them, how much bond they would require, and other advance information, which Prosecutor Dougherty declined to discuss. Thereupon Wollesen promised to produce all of the men named thus far, as well as other business agents to be viewed at a showup by Lid and the workmen who were chased from his home.

One of those sought as Lid's alleged attacker is Henry J. Mock of the carpenters' union. Another is Seth Piper of the electricians' union.

ACCUSED SLAYER OF RICH COUPLE IS ACQUITTED

Marion, Ky., July 4 [Thursday].—(AP)—Martin Brown was acquitted here early this morning of the torch slaying of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Yates, reputedly wealthy couple, last April.

The verdict came an hour after the jury had reported itself "hopelessly hung" at 11 o'clock. Judge Charles H. Wilson instructed the 12 men to return to their deliberations and report "a verdict as soon as possible."

Jurymen said the first ballot taken resulted in a judgment of five for conviction and seven for acquittal.

Mrs. Brown, wife of the defendant, who had sat at his side throughout the trial, fainted when she heard the verdict that set her husband free.

Mrs. W. C. Boyden Wins Divorce from Attorney

Attorney William C. Boyden, a member of the firm of Fisher, Boyden, Bell, Boyd & Martin, was divorced in the Superior court of Judge Rudolph F. Desort yesterday by Mrs. Margaret Wacholz Boyden. She testified that Boyden deserted her in 1932, three years after their marriage. The decree orders that Boyden maintain payments on a $15,000 life insurance policy with Mrs. Boyden as beneficiary. Under terms of a settlement, Mrs. Boyden is to receive $2,300 and $300 a month alimony, starting Aug. 1.

BORN IN AMERICA ON THE DAY AMERICA WAS BORN... July 4th

THE happiest fate that can befall a man is to be born an American and to be equal to an American's opportunities. And, if there is one day better than any other day to be born on, it would seem to be the Fourth of July.

Hiram Walker was born in Douglas, Massachusetts, forty years to the day after the Declaration of Independence was signed, born without the handicap of any special advantages.

We pay this tribute to his memory, not so much because he was a world-famous figure at 83, but because in these times it seems of special significance that he was a failure at 41.

His first business venture was a tannery that was wiped out by fire, and his second was a grocery business that was wrecked in the panic of the '50's. But he remained true to the American tradition that failures are the most useful ingredients of success.

In 1857, operating with the faith and vision that survives limited resources, he laid the foundation of a distillery destined to become the largest independent business of its kind in the world.

A Life-long American

Hiram Walker, born an American, lived and died an American citizen. He couldn't forget he was born on the 4th of July... and when one year ago we completed the greatest monument to his memory, the opening ceremonies and the "old man's" birthday naturally came together.

For, the great seven million dollar Hiram Walker Distillery, at Peoria, Illinois, the largest plant of its kind in the world, was dedicated to the memory of the founder on the 118th anniversary of the founder... July 4th, 1934.

Now, it is true, as Emerson says, that a great institution is the lengthened shadow of one man. But it is also the composite shadow of many men, who carry on and perpetuate the heritage of one man's foresight and enterprise and thereby prove how well and true the founder built.

Today, the two great Hiram Walker organizations, one in America and one in Canada... one operating the largest distillery in the world at Peoria, the other conducting the original plant at Walkerville, Ontario, now grown to enormous proportions... testify to the devotion and loyalty of succeeding generations to the faith and principles of the founder.

Birthplace of "CANADIAN CLUB" ...the original Hiram Walker distillery, at Walkerville, Ontario, erected in 1857.

New American Home... HIRAM WALKER'S DISTILLERY at Peoria, Illinois... dedicated on July 4th, 1934. It was built at a cost of over $7,000,000 and is the world's largest, most modern and best-equipped distillery.

COUNTY REPLIES TO SWEITZER IN LIVELY HEARING

Quo Warranto Ruling May Be Given Tomorrow.

Spectators seeking to extract a thrill from the Sweitzer-Gill quo warranto proceedings before Circuit Judge Joseph Burke got a better run for their money yesterday than they did the day before.

They heard the same legal profundities concerning Robert M. Sweitzer's plea to oust Joseph L. Gill, his successor in the office of county treasurer from which the county board ousted Sweitzer, but I. Harvey Levinson, Sweitzer's counsel, was replaced as narrator by Assistant State's Attorney Hayden N. Bell.

For a day and a half Attorney Levinson had read his way through a long row of law books which rested beside him on the counsel table. He seldom raised his voice, but the county attorneys representing Treasurer Gill spoke favorably of the lawyer-like manner in which his case was prepared.

Gill's Attorney Takes Floor.

Shortly after the afternoon session opened Attorney Bell started citing his cases in Gill's behalf, and the drowsy courtroom woke up. A big, bald man, Bell is perhaps as old as Sweitzer. He is a veteran of the Cook county courts, but in his youth was the prosecutor of a rough mountain county in West Virginia. He has a gift for old-fashioned oratory and a stentorian voice. One of his friends' favorite stories is of the occasion when, prosecuting a mountaineer feudist who had threatened to shoot him from the witness stand, he thundered the hill billy gunman into submission and ignominious retreat.

Attorney Bell was in good voice yesterday and made his points with vigor. Frequently, when he came to a case which he held controverted one of Sweitzer's claims, he turned and read directly to Attorney Levinson instead of to Judge Burke.

Bell Cites Jesse James.

Attorney Levinson had cited cases which held that a dereliction in one office did not disqualify an official for election to another. This was in line with his argument that the county board illegally ousted Sweitzer as county treasurer in "punishment" for his alleged $914,129 shortage as county clerk.

"Jesse James was a reputable citizen, incognito, in many counties of Missouri, although he was a highwayman and robber," exclaimed Attorney Bell. "If he had been elected incognito to public office in one of those counties, he might have been removed under a similar statute to the one in this case, although his crimes were committed prior to his election."

Bell cited several opinions in reply to Attorney Levinson's contention that the plea in justification with which Treasurer Gill's attorneys answered Sweitzer's quo waranto action had not been specific in stating the facts which justified the former treasurer's removal.

Says Reasons Are Enough.

"We don't have to plead facts," asserted Attorney Bell. "Removal of an officer is not a common law or statutory proceeding. The law of pleading doesn't apply. We need merely state our reasons, not the facts behind those reasons."

Then, after reading a case which he held was in point in that matter, he turned to Attorney Levinson and said:

"If Mr. Levinson had read that case he would have saved himself that long cruise through the years and the common law."

Attorney Levinson had, in fact, cited the same case among the many which he read, and he so informed the court.

"Then you didn't profit by it," thundered Attorney Bell.

He was still piling up citations from the county's formidable stack of law books as the afternoon session closed. Judge Burke will not have a chance to rule in the case before tomorrow at the earliest, since the courts are closed today for the Fourth of July holiday.

ATTY. GENERAL AND 22 INDICTED IN IOWA INQUIRY

Sioux City, Ia., July 3.—[Special.]—A Woodbury county grand jury today indicted Iowa Attorney General Edward L. O'Connor and his assistant, Walter Maley, on charges involving alleged graft and corruption in public office.

O'Connor and Maley were two of 23 persons listed in four separate indictments returned by the grand jury of seven men. All were charged with being connected with an alleged slot machine and gambling syndicate.

The indictment returned against O'Connor and Maley charges that they violated the state laws by "conspiring together with the fraudulent, felonious and malicious intent, wrongfully to do an illegal act injurious to the public trade, morals, and police, and to the administration of public justice, by agreeing among themselves to the operation of gambling houses and gambling devices in Woodbury county and elsewhere in the state of Iowa, the exact location of said gambling."

Among the persons indicted with the two state officials are Joe Gagen and Tom F. Conroy, both of Des Moines; James Pontralo, Sioux City bondsman, and Jack Kennedy, Clyde E. Mayer, and Gus Vaginas, all of Sioux City. Jack Siegel, night club operator here, was indicted on a separate charge of perjury. Mayer and Kennedy were on a separate conspiracy indictment, and Pontralo and Mr. and Mrs. Tony Curcio on another.

Twelve Sioux City persons who were indicted again today are Tom Taggart, former Sioux City safety commissioner; Phil Dunn, C. E. Stevens, Jack Worten, H. G. Scott, Abe Kroloff, J. E. Brennan, Robert Kroloff, William Texler, Frank Comerfield, Isadore Kroloff, and Ike Sherman.

Bonds for O'Connor, Maley, Pontralo, Kennedy, Vaginas, Mayer and Gagen were reported fixed at $3,000 each, while those of Siegel and the 11 who were re-indicted were reported at $2,500.

Thirty by July 15

Members of the Illinois commerce commission and officials of the Chicago park district inspected yesterday five new single deck buses, with the engine in the rear, received by the Chicago Motor Coach company. They took a short ride in one of them over Columbus drive. The new buses, the first of thirty of the type that have been purchased, will be placed in operation along the Lunt avenue route. Five more to be received next week will be placed on the Sacramento boulevard line, while the last twenty, which will be delivered on July 15, will be used in the depot service from the loop during the day and will supplement the regular buses on the Washington and Jackson boulevard lines in the evening.

THREE BARBERS FINED BY COURT FOR CUT RATES

Plan Appeal Against Price Fixing Writ.

Soon after Superior Judge John P. McGoorty fined three barbers yesterday for violating an injunction against price cutting, their attorney, Abraham Teitelbaum, announced he would fight the injunction in the Appellate court on constitutional and jurisdictional grounds.

The men fined are Paul and Frank Calistro, brothers, of 2016 North La-Crosse avenue, who operate five shops on the northwest side, and Staycho Christoff, who has a shop at 122 South Halsted street. Paul Calistro was fined $200 and the others $100 each for charging only 25 cents for hair cuts and 15 cents for shaves.

Prices Set in Injunction.

All were accused of disobeying an injunction issued by Judge McGoorty last April, fixing the price of haircuts at 50 cents and the price of shaves at 25 cents, with special differentials for department stores and barber colleges.

Before fining the men, Judge McGoorty denied Attorney Teitelbaum leave to file a petition asking that the injunction be vacated. The attorney then gave his notice that he would appeal the ruling to the Appellate court and would ask that court to dissolve the injunction.

Challenges Price Fixing.

His chief point challenges the right of judges to set prices. He asserts that price fixing by a court is not based on any existing law or precedent, but is an assumption of power that is in violation of both the constitution and statutes of Illinois.

The righ of judges to enjoin "ruinous price cutting" was defended by Attorney Bailey Stanton for the Master Barbers' association, who cited the three barbers into court yesterday. The association got the price fixing injunction. Attorney Bailey pointed out that the Appellate court has already held that price fixing in the so called service industries is not in violation of the anti-trust laws.

HOLD CHAUFFEUR OF BAILIF HORAN IN SHOOTING CASE

Paul Morley, 33 years old, chauffeur for Bailif A. J. Horan of the Municipal court, was booked by the police yesterday on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. He was released later in bail of $400 and is scheduled to appear before Municipal Judge Frank M. Padden tomorrow in the central police building.

Morley was arrested by a detective bureau squad early yesterday after he had fired his pistol several times in Jackson boulevard near Kedzie avenue. With him was his brother-in-law, Anthony Zullo, who lives with Morley at 3243 Adams street. Morley fired the shots, according to the police story, at Harold Grimard, 3208 Jackson boulevard, and Eugene Plotke, 1707 North Fairfield avenue. Zullo was charged with disorderly conduct and released on a $25 bond.

Bailif Horan left the city Tuesday and Morley was on vacation. Associates in the bailif's office were certain that Morley was not a drinking man. Morley's story was that while asleep he heard a woman scream and went out to see if she had been attacked. He said he questioned the first man that he saw, who was Grimard. He did not deny shooting at Grimard.

Frank Kellogg in Hospital to Undergo Treatment

Rochester, Minn., July 3.—(AP)—Frank B. Kellogg, world court justice and former United States secretary of state, was in a hospital here today for treatment for an old ailment and general examination. His physician described Kellogg's physical condition as "remarkable," adding "he played a round of golf when he arrived here so there can't be much wrong with him."

Voliva Is Vigorous Witness in Suit Over Zion Industries

Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of the Christian Catholic church at Zion, made a sonorous fifty minute appearance on the witness stand in Federal Judge Holly's court yesterday, combatting enmies who would prevent him from regaining control of Zion Industries, Inc. This million dollar corporation is in court for reorganization under section 77-B of the amended bankruptcy law.

Prophet Voliva while on the stand made no predictions on how soon the world will come to an end nor was he asked to repeat his famous assertion that the world is flat—which he stoutly reaffirmed after completing a trip around it several years ago.

Most of his answers were "Yes," delivered in a ringing tone in answer to the questions of Attorney Paul B. Fischer. Fischer represents 50 Zionists who do not wish Voliva to be the No. 1 man among the trustees who would operate the industries if Voliva's reorganization plan were approved.

Questioned on "Lectures."

Fischer read extracts from speeches —"lectures," the overseer called them —delivered by Voliva in behalf of his plan when he spoke to the members of the sect in Shiloh tabernacle at Zion.

"Did you ever say that you started Zion Industries with 83 cents?" inquired the lawyer.

"Yes," boomed Mr. Voliva. "I started the industries with a plain table, two kitchen chairs, an ink bottle and 83 cents."

Q.—Aside from that 83 cents, did you put any of your own money into them? A.—Yes.

Q.—Where did you get it? A.—From the allowance I received from the church.

Q.—Who fixed your allowance? A.—I fixed it.

The amount of the "allowance" was not discussed. It was brought out, however, that at a hearing in Washington several years ago, Voliva testified that the church was then earning about $800,000 annually.

Admits Autocratic Assertion.

Voliva also admitted that in one lecture on the "capital structure" of the church, he told his people, "I'm going to wipe out the temporary capital structure if I have to wipe out some people with it."

Another quote flung at him and which he admitted was, "I make the by-laws; I run this corporation. There will be no change in the management."

Before Voliva took the stand Ford Wilson, a reporter for a Waukegan newspaper, testified that Voliva "lobbied" vigorously for his reorganization plan in sermons.

Among the assertions credited to Voliva were: "I could blow the reorganization to smithereens in 17 hours," and that if the reorganization were not completed with him at the head, "Zion will become the wickedest city in the world."

"You'll go to hell if you don't approve the plan," Wilson declared Voliva said in another sermon. "The devil will rejoice if the plan is disapproved."

Voliva was followed on the stand by City Judge Theodore Forby of Zion, formerly general counsel for the industries and an avowed enemy of Voliva. He had barely taken the stand, however, when the hearing was adjourned until Monday.

MRS. VANDERBILT LOSES APPEAL TO REGAIN GLORIA

Higher Court Clears Her of Maid's Charges.

New York, July 3.—[Special.]—The Appellate division of the Supreme court upheld today the decision of Supreme Court Justice Carew making 10 year old Gloria Vanderbilt a ward of the state and giving her into the custody of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, the child's paternal aunt.

Gloria's mother, Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, widow of Reginald C. Vanderbilt, had appealed from the decision of Justice Carew. Under the ruling made by the lower court little Gloria spends only week-ends, one full month in the summer, and certain specified holidays with her mother. The remainder of the time she lives with Mrs. Whitney.

Called Unfit as Mother.

Mrs. Whitney, in the suit for the custody of the girl, charged that Mrs. Vanderbilt was an unfit person to bring up her daughter. The trial brought a large amount of sensational testimony.

The opinion of the Appellate division, returned today, upheld Justice Carew's decision in every particular.

The higher court, after saying that Justice Carew "adopted what to us seems the only possible course," remarked:

"In the meantime, if the relator [Mrs. Vanderbilt] shall avail herself fully of her rights under the order she will spend more time with her child than for many years past."

Maid's Charges Denounced.

Although denied complete custody of her child by today's decision, Mrs. Vanderbilt was "completely exonerated" of the most sensational of the charges against her character made at the trial. This came in the course of the testimony of Marie Caillot, a Frenchwoman, formerly employed by Mrs. Vanderbilt as a maid, and linked the young widow's name with that of Lady Milford Haven of England.

As to that, the higher court said:

"We think that the charge which rests upon the testimony of the maid, Caillot, elicited upon cross examination, is so detrimental to the relator and the evidence to support it so unsubstantial that she was entitled to unqualified and complete exoneration."

DROP POLICEMAN PENDING QUIZ ON CONDUCT CHARGE

Policeman Michael J. Fitzpatrick, 35 years old, of the Stockyards station, has been suspended from duty, it was learned yesterday, pending hearing of charges that he is guilty of conduct unbecoming an officer and of violating a criminal law.

Fitzpatrick is accused of having stolen a taxicab belonging to John Rasmussen, 5486 Greenwood avenue, from 47th street and Cottage Grove avenue last Friday. When arrested while driving the cab at 87th and Paulina streets, Fitzpatrick explained he had found the cab abandoned with its motor running at 95th street and Western avenue and that he was driving it to the police station.

POLICE OFFICIALS FACE ARREST ON UNION'S CHARGES

City Judge Says He'll Issue Warants.

Municipal Judge Edward B. Casey announced yesterday that on Monday he would issue warants for the arrest of Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan and for Police Lieutenants Thomas Kelly and Charles Egan, who are attached to the states attorney's office, on charges of unlawfully entering a union meeting at 934 Madison street on May 24 and falsely imprisoning four members of the Chicago Teamsters' union.

Four other Municipal court judges, Eugene J. Holland, J. William Brooks, Thomas A. Green, and Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby, had previously failed to issue the warrants.

The arrest of the police officers is sought by Daniel J. Coluccio, vice president of the Chicago Teamsters Joint council; Thomas Connelley, president of local 705 of the Chicago Teamsters, Chauffeurs, and Helpers' union, and two other members of local 705.

Judge Acts After Hearing.

Judge Casey's decision to issue the warants followed a hearing to show cause for such action. Coluccio and Connelley testified at the hearing that the May 24 meeting was a conference of union officials with a delegation of Railway Express drivers, affiliated with the union. The meeting, he said, was invaded by policemen and the union officials and sixteen express drivers were arrested and held without charge at the detective bureau, 11th and State streets, until May 26.

Coluccio on the stand declared that the express drivers were trying to decide whether they should remain affiliated with the teamsters' union or join the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, a rival organization affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. All those present at the meeting were searched by the police and a gun was found on Steve Rezovinc, a Railway Express driver, Coluccio said.

In announcing that he would issue the warants Judge Casey declared that a showing had been made that the law was violated and the constitutional rights of the complainants invaded.

GLENWOOD PARK TOURIST CAMP TO BE EXPANDED

'Idle' Turn 3 Jungle Isles Into Landscaped Gems.

Decision to expand the Glenwood Park transient camp near Batavia to accommodate 500 men was made yesterday after relief officials inspected the work of the transients in converting three "jungle" islands on the Fox river into a beautiful state park of thirty acres.

Only 150 men can live at the camp at any one time, but during last month about 1,000 obtained food and shelter paid for by federal relief funds. Aside from the cook and four other employes who get about $60 a month, the maximum stipend is $3 a week. Ninety per cent receive $1 a week, and out of this, many are said to have established postal savings accounts.

New Surface Soil Laid.

Working in seasonable weather since last summer, most of the roamers putting in at the camp have labored to improve the naturally scenic spot provided by the islands. The level of the islands has been raised nearly two feet to prevent frequent flooding. Rich earth deposited over all furnishes a foundation for the now complete landscape gardening.

A wood and steel suspension bridge 264 feet long, links the largest island with the east bank of the river. Another span, 70 feet long, connects this island and a smaller one, and a third bridge will soon be hooked up with the west river bank. Only $10 has been spent for outside labor.

Yesterday William Dunning, state engineer for the transient service, and C. K. McNeill, assistant director, watched men quarry native rock nearby, transport it to one of the islands, dress it and fit it into the walls of a pavilion and garden terrace. None of the transients had ever before handled a mason's trowel or cut a piece of stone, Mr. Dunning said.

Ability Attracts an Employer.

The Danish gardener who planned and directed the landscaping has been hired away from the job by a North Shore man who stopped by and admired his ability, but he has been replaced by a young Swedish landscape artist who landed at the camp flat broke.

On one island the men will build a stone canoe harbor, a baseball diamond, tennis courts, a children's playground, rock garden, pavilion, and rest houses. A lily pool, graveled paths, trim lawns and flower beds already have been established on the other islands.

Visitors at the camp who ate noon dinner with the workers marveled at the tastiness of the food. Glenn V. McFarland, camp director, informed them that the shredded beef, mashed potatoes, beets, turnips, coffee, and desert which comprised the meal cost not more than 5 cents for each person.

Costs $15 a Month Per Man.

"A former steward prepares our menus," McFarland said. "He is guided by instructions from the Illinois Emergency Relief commission in Chicago where experts in both food and current market values tell us how to get the most for our money. Except for minor items, the purchasing is done on a large scale by means of competitive bidding at Chicago headquarters."

Including the $1 a week pay given to most of the men, the camp costs the government about $15 a month per man. Expenditures since the camp opened a year ago total $44,704, including tools and project materials not furnished by the local governmental bodies.

The old pool tables and radio which equip the recreation hall were paid for by transients themselves from their $1 weekly salaries through their purchases of tobacco and candy from a canteen. Profits of the canteen go into the general recreation fund.

20 HURT AS REDS IN PARIS ATTACK FASCIST RALLY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 3.—Advance rumblings of possible trouble on Bastile day, July 14, became more audible today.

Edouard Herriot, minister without portfolio, appearing before the parliamentary committee of the Radical and Radical Socialist party was expected to disavow the connection of the left wing Radicals with the Socialists and communists and even to resign as chairman of the party. He backed down and pronounced himself against the "Fascists" which means leagues such as François de la Rocque's Croix de Feu [Fiery Cross].

This evening a fight broke out in the working suburb of St. Ouen where the Fiery Cross planned to meet. Communists attacked the Fiery Cross members, but were in turn charged by the police. In the fighting about twenty were injured.

Flood Perils Hankow

HANKOW, China, July 3.—(AP)—China's mighty Yangtze river, whose raging waters down through the centuries have taken tremendous toll of life and property, rose above the level of Hankow's streets today. While cessation of rains above Ichang caused the river to fall in its upper reaches, rain began again here tonight to augment further the foaming torrents racing down to the sea.

A twenty-four mile long dike inclosing Hankow was the teeming population's defense against the river, which was laden with ten days of uninterrupted downpours in Szechuen province. The Yangtze here was forty-six feet above normal with only four feet of the dike above water. Several hundred coolies began reenforcing the dike with sand bags, raising it two feet in an effort to avert repetition of the disaster suffered in 1931 when the river poured into Hankow.

Large areas about Hankow were flooded, the waters in some places reaching tops of trees to which small boats were moored. From Ichang down to the sea, the great stream continued to rise, threatening Ichang, Shasi, Hankow, Kiukiang, Wuhu, Nanking and many smaller places guarded by dikes. Flood waters already were creeping about these cities and over the unprotected plains. Thousands of farmers were homeless.

CUBA DEPORTS 15 U. S. WRITERS AS RED AGITATORS

Balks Attempt to Probe Social Conditions.

HAVANA, July 3.—(AP)—The Ward liner Oriente sailed for New York tonight with fifteen deported American writers whose "investigation" of conditions in Cuba was confined by the government to a detention camp.

Protesting against the treatment, the fifteen were taken by a police boat to the liner shortly before it sailed at 9 p. m. They had arrived only last night to conduct an investigation into labor and social conditions on behalf of the American Writers' league.

Two New York school teachers whose friendship with members of the commission led to their detention will be held here pending further investigation of their status. The two are Mamie Keselinko and Regina Lazar. They have round trip tickets to Mexico City.

Cited As Agitators.

Immigration authorities in a statement declared the fifteen deported "were perturbing elements" who came to Cuba "for the purpose of causing agitation and altering public order by means of communistic propaganda," and the Cuban government, "considering them undesirables, ordered that they leave the country."

Clifford Odets, leftist New York playwright whose plays, "Waiting for Lefty" and "Awake and Sing," were both acclaimed and suppressed in American cities last winter, headed the group.

Odets declared the commission expects to return to Cuba with a group of 100 prominent Americans—"names they can't bar from Cuba." He declared he came to Cuba "to collect as impartially as possible, material for a play."

Blames U. S. Control.

He protested the twenty-four hour detention, the refusal of entry, and the deportation, declaring "these facts are so significant of the military dictatorship being exercised over the Cuban people that "impartial collection of dramatic material seems hardly necessary. The Mendieta-Batista régime convicts itself by its overt fear of honest, clear investigation."

"Every one knows," he said, "the basic cause of the present Cuban situation arises from the economic control of Cuba by big business interests aided by the United States state department in behalf of those interests.

"The detention of the commission is well known to the American people now and obviously strengthens the necessity of carrying out the work for which we came here."

BRITAIN'S NAVAL CHIEF TAKES SLAP AT LLOYD GEORGE

Defends Nation's Policy Before Commons.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 3.—The return to politics of David Lloyd George, wartime prime minister, was celebrated today in the house of commons by his being given the lie directly and being excoriated generally by Sir Bolton M. Eyres-Monsell, first lord of the admiralty. The setback was delivered in answer to a question dealing with Lloyd George's statement at a public meeting yesterday that the Germans offered to abolish all submarines, but that the British refused.

Eyres-Monsell said that the Germans had all along declared their willingness to abandon submarines if other nations would, and that it was well known that British policy all along had favored such an abolition.

Sees Damage to Britain.

"It is clear from what I have said," said the first lord of the admiralty, "that the report quoted yesterday by Lloyd George was absolutely without foundation. I am not afraid of a mischievous effect so much in this country, because I cannot believe any one but the right honorable gentleman [Lloyd George] is not aware of the true facts of the case.

"I am concerned with the effect internationally because a submerged attack of this kind against the government must tend to damage the credentials of this country in the eyes of the world and so hamper the efforts his majesty's government is making for the preservation of world peace."

Lloyd George tonight issued a spirited reply to Eyres-Monsell's statement. Recalling Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's reichstag speech of May 21 in which he expressed Germany's willingness to abolish submarines in the event of international agreement, Lloyd George said:

"My definite information is that during the Anglo-German naval talks, which preceded the recent agreement, the German delegates expressed readiness to subscribe to a cause the effect of which would be that Germany would support the British government in any attempt by the latter to bring about abolition of submarines, and that this suggestion was not entertained by the British government.

Challenge to Cabinet Official.

"Is this denied?" Lloyd George asked. "Even if the first lord of the admiralty says this proposal never was discussed at all that does not dispose of the matter. If nothing was said about it, then why not?

"Surely it is to our interest as the greatest shipping country in the world and one which suffered more seriously and cruelly than any other from the ravages of the submarine to abolish that monster.

"It is inconceivable that a definite offer made by the head of the German government to join in an effort to abolish it altogether should never be discussed at an Anglo-German naval conference which dealt specifically with the submarine question.

"Is this the way the British government promotes disarmament by international arrangement?"

AN IRONIC SHOUT OF 'HEIL HITLER!' STARTLES M.P.'S

LONDON, July 3.—(AP)—An ironic shout of "Heil Hitler" punctuated house of commons debate today on shipments of airplane engines to Germany.

Frederick Seymour Cocks, Laborite, raised the shout after his exchange with Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, secretary for air, led the latter to remark: "As long as exports go on, it is eminently desirable that British firms should export and British labor be employed."

The labor opposition, which greeted Cocks' irony with laughter, previously had shouted "don't be so mealy-mouthed" when the air secretary responded to an inquiry regarding Aircraft shares by saying he had nothing to do with the shares.

Young Will County Farmer Drowns in Flooded Creek

A searching party last night found the body of Thomas Shepley, 21 years old, a farmer of New Lenox township in Will county, in flooded Hickory creek a mile from the Shepley farm. Shepley, who was unable to swim, is believed to have drowned Tuesday afternoon when he attempted to cross the creek and drive in live stock. More than 100 farmers engaged in the search for the body.

ORDER OF THE BATH INSTALLS NEW KNIGHTS IN ANCIENT CEREMONY

LONDON, July 3.—(AP)—The ancient ceremony of installing Knights of the Bath was performed today in the Henry VII. chapel of Westminster Abbey at the hands of the duke of Connaught, 85 year old uncle of King George and great master of the Order of the Bath.

Twenty-one new knights were installed in the third such ceremony in the past 100 years. The rites today were symbolic of the old days when the neophytes "Satt in the bath all nakyd except for a lynnen breech." The following oath was administered:

"You shall honor God above all things. You shall be steadfast in faith in Christ. You shall love the king, your sovereign lord, and his right defend to your power. You shall defend maidens, widows and orphans in their rights. You shall suffer no extortion as far as you may prevent it. And of as great honor be this order unto you as ever it was to your progenitors or others."

Bashful in Youth, at 83 He Weds Sweetheart, 81

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 3.—[Special.]—Friends at Hastings describe Charles Smith, 83, as a bashful young man in his youth. He courted Ella Dunham, now 81, but failed to ask the important question. They drifted apart and each married, but when Mr. Smith met his former sweetheart in Santa Ana, Cal., the years had overcome his bashfulness. They were married Monday.

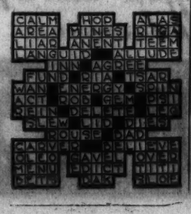
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



SOVIETS CHARGE JAPAN COVETS RIVER ISLANDS

Have Strategic Value to Manchukuo.

TOKIO, July 3.—(AP)—Japanese military ambitions to gain important islands in the Amur river—and Russia's determination to frustrate them—were given today in a soviet explanation of the reasons behind the latest episodes in the three year Russo-Japanese dispute over the Siberian frontier.

A soviet official asserted that the Amur River Islands, which the soviet now holds by virtue of the Sino-Russian treaty, signed at Peiping in 1860, are coveted by the Japanese because of their strategic importance, and because many of the islands are reputed to be rich in alluvial gold.

The dispute centered around the large island in the delta at the confluence of the Amur and Ussuri rivers. Russia insisted that if the Japanese sponsored state of Manchukuo held this island, it would place Japanese troops within a few miles of Khabarovsk, capital of the soviet's far eastern province.

Slight to Emperor.

SHANGHAI, July 3.—(AP)—The Chinese government considered today a new series of demands submitted by Japanese Ambassador Akira Ariyoshi after what was termed a Chinese insult to the Japanese emperor.

The insult allegedly consisted of publication by the Chinese magazine, "New Life Weekly," of an article reflecting unfavorably on Japan's "Son of Heaven." The article was entitled "Gossip About Emperors."

Elopement of Daughter of Warden Lawes Bared

New York, July 3.—[Special.]—The elopement of Chrystal Marion Lawes, 24 year old daughter of Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing, and Jack Stratton Douvarjo of Mount Vernon, a florist, was revealed today when the couple returned to Ossining from a three day belated honeymoon trip to Atlantic City. They were married secretly by the Rev. Joseph D. Osterman at St. Patrick's cathedral, New York City, on May 11, but not until Monday did they reveal their marriage to the bride's parents.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In a story in THE TRIBUNE last Monday it was stated incorrectly that John B. Morgan of Chicago, elected president of the 33d Division War Veterans' association, formerly was colonel of the 108th engineers. During the war Mr. Morgan was a lieutenant in the regiment which was commanded by Col. Henry A. Allen, also of Chicago.

700 DANISH BORN YANKEES REACH DENMARK FOR 4TH

BY JOHN AHL-NEILSEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, July 3.—About 700 Danish born Americans from all parts of the United States arrived here today aboard the Danish liner Frederik VIII. to celebrate the Fourth of July at Rebild American National park.

In brilliant sunshine, more than 2,000 Danish relatives and friends assembled to greet the guests and an official welcome was extended by Moeller Holst, president of the Danish-American club of Copenhagen.

Among the visitors is a representation from the Danish United Evangelical Lutheran Church of America led by the Rev. John M. Jensen of Montreal. The Dana college a cappella choir from Blair, Neb., sent thirty singers for the celebration and for a tour through Denmark led by G. Malmen.

Chicagoans Present.

Chicagoans among the passengers included John Jacobsen, 357 Michigan avenue, Wilmette; Marius Ohlsen, 639 West Pershing road; Dr. Carl Lynge, 4068 North Milwaukee avenue, and Conductor A. Mossberg. In addition there were Mrs. E. Struckman of New York, Fred York of Boston, the Rev. Alfred T. Dorf of Brooklyn, and the Rev. B. Dondo of Minnesota. The Rev. Mr. Dorf was formerly pastor of the St. Angar's Danish Lutheran church in Chicago.

Despite immigration restrictions, the Rebild Fourth of July celebration is linking the United States and Denmark strongly together and annually is drawing an increasing attendance from the United States.

Leave for Park Tonight.

Tonight the guests are leaving for the park, in north Jutland, in preparation for tomorrow's celebrations at which the chief speakers will be Premier Stauning of Denmark; Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, the American minister; Dr. P. Munch, Danish foreign minister, and Andrew Jensen, Mormon church historian.

The orchestra of the royal guards with the royal ballet corps will appear on the program which, it is estimated, will be given before 40,000. The celebration will be broadcast to the United States.

AUSTRIA RETURNS HAPSBURG RICHES SEIZED IN 1919

Path to Power Eased for Archduke Otto.

VIENNA, July 3.—(AP)—The way to wealth and power stretched smoother before handsome young Archduke Otto of Hapsburg tonight after the Austrian cabinet voted to restore Hapsburg properties seized when the dynasty was ousted in 1919.

If the federal diet meeting July 9 approves the cabinet's action—and it almost invariably does—the 22 year old pretender to the Austrian throne will be the better off by some dozen castles, valuable business property, vast forests, and rich farms.

Jubilant at what they termed another long step toward early restoration of the monarchy, several Royalist leaders left tonight for Steenockerzeel castle in Belgium where Otto is living with his mother, former Empress Zita, and his brothers and sisters.

Discretion Advised.

The impression obtained in some quarters that Otto would be advised not to let the prospect of sudden wealth lead him to any unwise move toward getting the throne back, until the attitude of other powers toward his ambitions be clarified.

The league of nations, it was learned, was intensely interested in the cabinet's action, while ministers of the little entente—Jugo-Slavia, Czechoslovakia, and Rumania—had long telephone conferences with their capitals. They offered no immediate comment, however.

While monarchists were openly gleeful, some neutral observers voiced the opinion it was significant that the cabinet, officially at least, tried to avoid the appearance of moving toward restoration.

Old Wrong Righted.

Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg repeated the remark he has often made before—revocation of the confiscation laws merely rights an old injustice. He said all Austria had been aware of this injustice for years, and the cabinet embraced the opportunity to right the wrong done after the world war.

No popular reaction was apparent at once, but some expressed the fear that the outlawed Socialists, who are bitterly opposed to the monarchists, might stage demonstrations.

In revoking part of the confiscation law of 1919, the cabinet specified that theaters and museums expropriated should remain the property of the state.

LIVES WITH MOTHER.

The Archduke Otto, only 22, lives quietly with his mother in an almost inaccessible castle in Belgium. Although he was only 6 when his late father, Emperor Karl, was swept from the throne, Otto has been carefully groomed since to become a king. His mother, the Empress Zita, has worked unceasingly toward that end.

Handsome, Otto also is dignified and scholarly. He received a doctor's degree only four days ago from the University of Louvain. Austria's peasantry was the subject of his thesis.

Otto is reported unofficially to be engaged to Princess Maria, youngest daughter of the king and queen of Italy. Such a union would be a tremendous boost to his chances of restoration because of the Italian government's great influence over Austria's present Fascist leadership.

COURT TO HEAR ELIZABETH'S SUIT AGAINST EX-KING

BUCHAREST, Rumania, July 3.—(AP)—The annulment proceedings instituted by former Queen Elizabeth of Greece against her husband, former King George II., will probably reach a climax here Saturday when the Court of Appeal meets for the final hearings.

The public in general regarded the annulment as an accomplished fact last March 1 when the former queen resumed her Rumanian citizenship. Under Rumanian law, the wife has the citizenship of her husband, but on that date the Rumanian Supreme court granted Elizabeth Rumanian citizenship. Elizabeth, who was married to George in 1921, is 41 and the daughter of the Dowager Queen Marie.

Ever since George was deposed in 1924, his paths in exile and his wife's have strayed apart, but recent reports that he might be called back to Greece, in case that republic decided to return to the monarchy, had caused rumors of a reconciliation.

HITLER EXTENDS WARM WELCOME TO POLISH LEADER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 3.—For five hours today Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and Col. Josef Beck, Polish foreign minister, discussed means of tightening Polish-German relations and the general European situation. Hitler's first meeting with the Polish statesman was marked by the greatest cordiality, which was reflected in the comments of the German press.

A state banquet was given by Hitler in Col. Beck's honor tonight. It was attended by members of the cabinet and other dignitaries.

Detachments of the reichsfuehrer's own bodyguard presented arms to Col. Beck when he arrived early today to return a visit paid to Warsaw by Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, premier of Prussia and Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda.

Switzerland Bans Sale of All German Newspapers

BERNE, Switzerland, July 3.—(AP)—Switzerland today banned the sale of all German newspapers in this country and suppressed the Nazi organ published in Zurich. The action of the federal council closely follows a similar move by Germany against Swiss newspapers.

Ecuador's War Ministry Purchases 12 U. S. Planes

QUITO, Ecuador, July 3.—(AP)—The war ministry today announced the purchase of twelve airplanes from the United States. Three of them, it said, could fly to Ecuador in the near future from Los Angeles.

AWAITING STORK

FRANCES DEE.

Hollywood, Cal., July 3.—[Special.]—An approaching blessed event in the home of Frances Dee, motion picture actress, and her husband, Joel McCrea, movie actor, was made known here today by McCrea to his intimates in the movie colony. The event is expected the latter part of this year. The McCrea's have a son, Joel Dee, aged 1 year, and this time hope for a daughter.

NAZIS BEHEAD 2 MORE IN DRIVE TO ERASE TRAITORS

17 Executed or Jailed for Espionage.

BERLIN, July 3.—(AP)—Two more Germans too eager to learn or too willing to divulge Germany's precious military secrets died under the headsman's axe today, bringing to seventeen the number of persons executed or sentenced for espionage during recent months.

Heads to roll today were those of Egon Bresz, 28, convicted of trying to procure armaments secrets, and Bruno Hindemann, 63, convicted of betraying military information.

Wilhelm Battesch, 48, who was tried with them in the dread People's court, was sentenced to life imprisonment for revealing military information.

More Await Trial.

Semi-official quarters disclosed that several more persons were awaiting trial, and little hope was held that mercy would be showed them in view of the reich's determination to keep its rearmament secrets.

Oddly enough, today's double executions came just when somewhat mysterious booksellers were pressing sales of an interesting, bulky volume, "Espionage During the World War," to the "right persons."

Persons visiting the permanent world war exhibition in Hermann Goering strasse, near Potsdam platz, who appear to be German, moderately prosperous, educated and interested in the world war relics are approached by an attendant who asks if they are interested in the book. It sells for about $25.

Given Thorough Quiz.

The visitors are given an opportunity to place orders, but before delivery is made their past records, families, acquaintances, position, and financial standing are thoroughly investigated. The reasons given for this are two: The book must not fall into the hands of foreigners, and it must go only to those Germans who can put its contents to good use.

"Espionage During the World War" explains, simply enough, the workings of various intelligence services, particularly the German. Its readers get reasonably good knowledge as to how those services function.

While there has been no official explanation of the purpose of the volume, the suggestion has been put forward that purchasers might offer their services, or be called upon, should occasion arise, since the sale of the book and the accompanying investigation provide good "leads" for the government.

ITALY TO PRESENT ITS STORY TODAY ON AFRICAN ROW

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SCHEVENINGEN, The Netherlands, July 3.—The Italo-Ethiopian conciliation commission resumed its session today after a five day adjournment. It decided to begin taking testimony and hearing arguments tomorow on the responsibility for eight frontier incidents in Africa since last December. These incidents are alleged to be the cause of Premier Mussolini's desire to annex Ethiopia.

Prof. Silvio Lessona of the University of Florence will present Italy's arguments, and Prof. Gaston Jeze, French jurist and legal expert for the Ethiopian legation in Paris, will present the Ethiopian thesis on what happened. Following the presentation of arguments and whatever evidence is available the commission will try to reach agreement before July 25 in an effort to settle the dispute.

The Italians appear to be dominating this meeting. They have succeeded in holding meetings in a hotel parlor instead of the Peace palace in The Hague. They also have been able to cloak all proceedings with complete secrecy. Premier Mussolini's men issued a so called official communique after the meetings and it says nothing. The Italians appear to have fears for their safety. Three Dutch detectives are stationed at their hotel today to guard them.

NAZIS THREATEN CUSTOMERS IN 2 JEWISH STORES

BERLIN, July 3.—(AP)—Two anti-Jewish incidents have been reported here in the last 24 hours.

The windows of a confectionery in Neukoln, a suburb of Berlin, were plastered with anti-Jewish signs and customers were threatened for patronizing a Jew. The customers fled.

A similar scene took place in the Berlin Bayerischerplatz last night when a band of youths threatened to smash the windows of a confectionery with rocks. The customers, who had been eating ice cream in the confectionery, fled into the street while a crowd of more than 1,000 persons watched the demonstration.

INDEPENDENCE.

Among the peoples who might well join Americans in celebration of today are all those of the British dominions and the home British themselves. Saratoga and Yorktown won their independence. Was it coincidence that on July 4, 1926, on the hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the American Declaration of Independence, there came the British Declaration of Equality? Was the day selected in appreciation or did the event fall to it by happenstance? Historical logic was served in either case.

On this anniversary Great Britain and the British dominions agreed and declared that they formed an association of self-governing communities "within the British empire, equal in status, in no way subordinate one to another in any aspect of their domestic or external affairs though united by a common allegiance to the crown."

If either Howe or Cornwallis could have rounded out a campaign with a complete victory and taken Washington to England in chains to be hanged, drawn and quartered for treason, as Harry Vane and Hugh Peters of Massachusetts were for their share in the Cromwell revolution, what would have happened to the British themselves? Their Hanoverian king repeatedly asserted to his obliging ministers that he'd either rule or he'd get out. If the great Pitt wanted to come to him submissively he might come, but not otherwise. He would have no dealings with traitors and great rascals, would have no interference with his prerogatives, and would have a parliament well in hand, bought, paid for, and delivered.

If the American rebels of George III. had failed and if the heads of their leaders had been evidence of it in London, the willful king might have stamped absolutism on the British constitution or have prepared the way for another to do so. When a man persuaded of his own virtue regards autocracy as a duty he can use corruption as a means without shame to his sense of decency. Although Great Britain had nourished the great liberals of the day, Pitt, Fox, Burke, Barre, etc., they were stopped by the force of patronage, pilfering, and perquisites. A British constitutional king was a petty figure against the regal absolutism prevailing in continental Europe. George thought the foggy island needed a sun king and knew it would be a pleasure to be one.

The American Declaration of Independence was the challenge of a free people when corruption had weakened the defenses of liberty in the country from which they had derived their freedom. We must say for George that he saw the situation with a gift of prophecy. Lord North frequently complained that nothing gained in the war would pay its expense. That the king, in a letter to North, conceded, anticipating, if you will, Norman Angell's great illusion: "I owne that let any war be ever so successful, if persons will set down and weigh the Expenses they will find as in the last that it has impoverished the State, enriched individuals and perhaps raised the Name only of the Conquerors." But the king could not compute in those terms. The success of the American rebels meant the spread of their idea and of the frontiers of independence: "The present Contest with America I cannot help seeing as the most serious in which any Country was ever engaged. It contains such a train of consequences that they must be examined to feel its real weight; whether the laying a Tax was deserving all the Evils that have arisen from it, I should suppose no man could alledge that without being thought more fit for Bedlam than a Seat in the Senate; but step by step the demands of America have risen—independence is their object; that certainly is one which every man not willing to sacrifice every object to a momentary and inglorious Peace must concurr with me in thinking that this Country can never submit to; should America succeed in that, the West Indies must follow them, not independence, but must for its own interest be dependent on North America; Ireland would soon follow the same plan and be a separate State, then this Island would be reduced to itself, and soon would be a poor Island indeed, for reduced in Her Trade Merchants would retire with their Wealth to Climates more to their Advantage, and Shoals of Manufacturers would leave this Country for the New Empire; these self-evident consequences are not worse than what can arise should the Almighty permit every event to turn out to our disadvantage; consequently this Country has but one Sensible, one great line to follow, the being ever ready to make Peace when to be obtained without submitting to terms that in their consequences must annihilate this Empire, and with firmness to make every effort to deserve Success."

On the economic side he was, of course, wrong, and although right politically within the world as he saw it, he could not have foreseen that it would require a hundred and fifty years for the Declaration of Independence to work through the empire of his successors and come to fruit in the declaration of equality in 1926. Things come slowly to people who will not struggle for them, if they come at all, and, too, may be quickly lost if they lose defenders.

GLORY OF A NATION.

At Soldiers' field tonight there will be a show we wish every one in the city could see. We have had brilliant and inspiring pageants in that great arena, but this one has an appeal that is stronger than any other—the appeal of our love of our country and of pride in its glory.

The details of the extraordinary program, provided under the auspices of the Cook county council of the American Legion, will be found in the news columns. They include music, parades and military maneuvers by regular army and navy units and by the National Guard, air maneuvers of military and naval aviators, and, true to our ancient tradition of the glorious Fourth, fireworks of the spectacular kind made possible by modern pyrotechnics. There will be reënactments of scenes from three of the great battles of American history, including the action at Hamel in which our own 33d division took a gallant part.

The American people have heard more sour criticism and detraction of America in the last three years than any past generation of our citizenship has had to put up with. It is a service to patriotism and to truth that the Legion has prepared this celebration and it will be gratefully appreciated by all loyal Americans. It is well to be reminded of the glory of our nation at this time when demagogs and charlatans, rabble rousers, and advocates of alien schemes of government are trying to undermine the American people's loyalty and faith in their own institutions.

THE OLE HOSS COMES BACK.

One of the noises which is fast ceasing to be a problem, for those to whom noises are problems, is the beat of iron shoes on brick pavements. Where is the horse of yesteryear? Weeks go by without one catching sight of a single steed. If children are able to recognize a horse it is because it has the shape of a familiar animal cracker. There are adolescents in this community who think that a neigh is just a vote against the President. A recent chart on the financial page showed that trucks and automobiles had almost completed the job of chasing horses off the streets. Of 100 thousand hairy tails which used to swish the flies of Chicago around on a summer's day only 7,000 are left.

The displacement began in 1890 when electricity took over the horse's job pulling street cars. But the change in motive power which took the market away from oats created a demand for gasoline rather than coal. Automobiles and trucks are now more numerous than horses and mules ever were in Chicago. No horse has carried a TRIBUNE since 1928. And the ultimate fire engine was galloped to the scene of a conflagration in 1923.

But though the nose bag is now but a figure of speech, the horse is not going the way of the dinosaur. The horse walked out of the shafts into the money. A study by a University of Chicago sociologist has just disclosed that more people are spending money on horses than ever put hay in mangers. The animal husbandmen of Chicago greatly exceed in number the truck drivers, auto mechanics, and chauffeurs combined. And they think they're good. The city horsemen have such confidence in their expertness that they pay a daily registration fee for the privilege of registering their judgment of the relative merits of animals which they have never seen and have no desire to see.

The evaluation of bangtails which may be as far away as Agua Caliente, by Chicago's 150 thousand hippologists, few of whom know a hame from a breeching, has become a matter of the greatest importance. The state legislature has passed a law authorizing licenses for offices where horse experts may file their opinions. And the city council is shortly to pass regulations for the institution. The mayor talks of using the revenue arising from this widespread interest in horses to pay school teachers. Others believe that the fund should be employed to retire the municipal debt. For the old fashioned experts who feel that they can best judge a horse by seeing him, six establishments on an elaborate scale have been erected in this community. There a million a year is spent on exhibition prices and 25 million by the experts.

It is said that the gross turnover of the horse business is a million dollars a day in Chicago. This is a sum which equals the combined business of department stores, public utilities, and movies. It is equal to the gross receipts of all food and drug stores. The horse has even displaced sex as the dominant motif of the stage. The one play which has been able to keep a theater open this summer in Chicago is entitled "Three Men on a Horse."

May we remind the animal husbandmen of Chicago that the original use of a horse was as a beast of burden? To that primitive employment of the animal THE TRIBUNE has devoted a considerable amount of attention. The horse pulling contest at THE TRIBUNE experimental farm last month attracted a large number of city hippologists as well as gentlemen and plain dirt farmers. The attendance and the interest shown in this ancient service of horses have encouraged THE TRIBUNE to make it an annual affair. The facilities will not permit all of Chicago's horse experts being at the farm the same day. Soldiers' field wouldn't hold them.

THE MASSACRE.

More than eight thousand men, women, and children have been killed and wounded in Chicago alone because the taxes that should be spent to build safety into the streets are used to pave streets and roads for specially favored citizens.

A SAFETY MEASURE.

A kilted Highlander playing the bagpipes paraded up and down the street alongside a theater queue.

"Why do they always walk up and down when they're playing?" asked a man on a passing bus.

"'Cos it's harder to 'it 'em that way," said the conductor.—Exchange.

THAT'S EASY.

"Jane," said a lady to her servant, "you have broken more than your wages amount to. What can be done to prevent this?"

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

IT'S THE GLORIOUS FOURTH! Quick, into the storm cave! Here's one holiday where I don't hasten away to the woods and streams far from the city's rush and roar. Anyhow, there's laws in the cities (more or less observed) against banging off fireworks, but out in the sylvan dells they're as liable to tie a bunch of firecrackers to your coattails and set 'em off as not. And I hate to have people celebrate this historic day by touching a match to my gasoline tank. A patriotic American youth, lineal descendant of the Revolution, and determined to celebrate the natal day of this glorious republic, tried that a year ago, but I shooed him away in time. His name was Analouskka Feodorvitchsky. I admire patriotism, but there's such a thing as carrying it too far. Besides, Analouskka Feodorvitchsky had never heard of the Revolutionary War. He had never even heard of the Civil War, the Spanish-American War, or the Great War. And he spoke the English language with great difficulty. But he spent the dime I gave him to desist from making a pyrotechnical display out of my car by going over to a fireworks stand and buying firecrackers, which he stuck in his ears and then touched them off. Glorious indeed, such patriotism in the youth of our land, but just the same, today I stay in the storm cave.

MILAN INN.

The halls are still, and overhead
Full two-score guests are safe abed.
What slow feet mount the marble stair?
Beyond the wall one wild white rose
Nods to the place it only know;
The earl lies buried there.

The red-cheeked landlord, sleeping well,
Has many a tale that he might tell.
What slow feet mount the marble stair?
O, it is better a man should sleep
When the wind moans soft in the mossy keep!
The earl lies buried there.

Through the chilly length of the marble hall
What slow feet mount the marble stair?
The garden is gone, but the Saint Anne's Lace
Still blossoms there with an antique grace.
The earl lies buried there.

IT LOOKS BAD this year for corn and wheat and the other things the AAA used to make the farmers plow under. What about bread next winter? But I expect a cheering message from Secretary Wallace very soon saying, "Yes, yes, much water this year. Well, well, well, that will give us plenty of watermelons. And what is finer than a big red, luscious watermelon?" Yes, yes, true enough. Even if we are a little shy on bread we can have watermelon and watercress and things like that to eat. And water lilies in the window boxes and watered stock in which to invest. Ah, how true it is that there is always a bright side to the picture if we but hunt for it.

AND WE STERNLY INSIST to the world at large that we Americans are the most intelligent people on the face of this great globe. And yet, tonight people will walk around the streets and shoot pistols into the air. And what goes up must come down. Including bullets. We are indeed the most intelligent people on the face of the globe! Except on the Fourth of July and at election time.

AND NOW SHE won't even have to know how to do that. About all brides know how to do nowadays is to cook fudge. They can't boil water or cook an egg, but they usually know how to make fudge—they learned it at school. But look how this machine age is making mollycoddles of us! The groceries now have a ready prepared fudge in cans and bottles. All you do is to dump it into a stew pan on the stove and the stuff is ready. And I read the other day of a bride receiving two hundred cook books. Cook books, bah. All the modern bride needs in the way of necessary household equipment is can openers. Oodles of can openers. I'm looking for the jewelers to bring out special golden and silver can openers set with precious gems for wedding presents.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO YOU.

Twenty-eight, and nothing done;
What can be the matter here?
Nothing ventured, nothing won;
Twenty-eight, and nothing done;
Not a single strophe spun
Brings me in a sou a year;
Twenty-eight, and nothing done;
What can be the matter here?

Thirty-one, and not a dent
In the cosmic atmosphere;
I shall never earn a cent,
I shall never pay the rent,
Time and I will both be spent
Ere we know it—weh ist mir!
Life's a literary Lent;
What can be the matter here?

Eighty-one, if I'm a day;
How Time flies, the vulgar blighter!
Let him fly as fly he may;
I was never in his pay;
I went calmly on my way
As a bishop in a mitre. . . .
What's to show for it, you say?
Well—I could have been a writer. . . .

SUMMER SKIN DISEASES.

Part III.—Prickly Heat and Impetigo.

PRICKLY HEAT, or heat rash, usually follows profuse sweating and, as a rule, appears on the covered surfaces of the body and in folds of the skin. The tiny red raised areas are at first due to congestion of the sweat glands. Later there may appear to be an even, reddish blush due to the fact that the inflamed points are so numerous and so close together.

The principal symptom is marked tingling, smarting, or burning of the skin that continues for a few days or even a much longer period. The condition is particularly troublesome in individuals who are overweight and in those who perspire freely.

Soap aggravates the symptoms and hence should not be used on the affected parts. An excellent remedy is a simple dusting powder that contains equal parts of boric acid, zinc oxide, and starch. Before the powder is applied the skin should be thoroughly cleansed with a 25 per cent solution of grain alcohol. Extract of witch hazel will serve the same purpose. The alcohol and the powder should be used several times daily if the smarting is noticeable.

IMPETIGO is another common skin disorder, the occurrence of which is increased during the summer months. It is said to be responsible for 20 per cent of all the ordinary skin eruptions. The condition may be readily recognized by the appearance of a small round blister that is sometimes called the "mother blister." This "mother" promptly proceeds to rear many children and the lesions spread, the blisters break, and hard crusts form. Sometimes the blisters become pustlike and discharge their yellowish semi-liquid contents. Unless properly managed the disease can become extensive and stubborn.

The exact cause is not known. It is particularly distressing when it breaks out in nurseries or families, as it may spread to all the other members of the household unless proper aseptic precautions are observed.

There are many varieties of the disease, but the so-called contagious form is most prevalent. Many observers believe that the infection will not fasten itself upon individuals who are in normal health and that normal skin is sufficiently powerful to resist the causative organisms.

In young infants the eruption may appear between the thighs, on the buttocks, the chest, the arms, or the face. In adults the lesions are frequently noticed about the mouth, the nose, and on the forehead.

The treatment consists in removing the crusts, scales, and loose skin by means of bits of cotton soaked in alcohol. Soap and water will serve with equal efficiency. Because of its extremely contagious character, articles employed in cleaning the infected areas should be destroyed. The cleansed lesions may then be covered with ammoniated mercury ointment. The percentage of mercury in the ointment varies with the age of the patient and the location of the lesion.

Scrupulous cleanliness and attention to general health will ward off this infection. Should a case occur in the household, towels, wash cloths, and eating utensils used by the patient should not be handled by other members of the family until they have been thoroughly boiled. Children especially should avoid contact with other children who show the characteristic crusty scabs about the mouth and on other parts of the face. Picking at the sores spreads the infection.

"Lest we forget" a reminder should be dropped that firecracker burns and wounds may require attention. Clean all wounds with soap and water and cover only with sterile gauze. If the skin has been lacerated and dirt has entered, a physician should be called to administer tetanus [lockjaw] antitoxin.

DIGESTIVE FLUIDS.

B. O. writes:

1. What part does saliva take in digesting food?

2. Are gastric acid and hydrochloric acid the same?

REPLY.

1. Very little. It contains a small amount of a starch enzyme called ptyalin. Chew a bit of dry bread or toast and you will note, in a moment or two, a slightly sweet taste that comes from a partial digestion of starch to sugar.

2. The acid in gastric juice is hydrochloric acid.

TRAINING NEEDED.

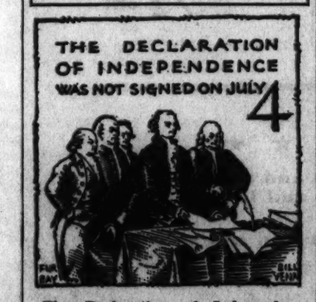
W. J. M. writes: My 12 year old boy picks his finger nails off until they are sore and the skin is growing up over his nails. He is very thin and pale.

REPLY.

This is a nervous habit that may be corrected by training. Give him something to do with his hands. Keep the ends of the fingers covered with a light coating of vaseline and he will have difficulty in disturbing his finger nails. More attention should be given to training, talking to him, and diverting his mind than to any mechanical device. As a last resort you might have him wear light cotton gloves.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.



The Declaration of Independence was passed by the continental congress on July 2, 1776, and the preambles to the declaration were adopted on July 4. Thus, July 2 is the true Independence day in the United States. The actual signing of the Declaration of Independence did not take place, however, until Aug. 2, 1776, when fifty-three members of the congress affixed their signatures to the parchment. Absentees and others signed later, the last signature being affixed on Nov. 4 of the same year. This parchment is on display in a sealed case in the Library of Congress at Washington, D. C.

CAN DEMOCRATS READ.

Chicago, June 29.—It is deeply regretted that this column could not exclude such innuendoes as appeared over the signature of O. K. Swanson in your issue of June 28—"How many of the Democrats from the south do you think know how to read?"

In Mr. Swanson's miserable, pitiful attempt to be "funny" he cast a scurrilous insinuation at a people noted for their intelligence and culture. For the information of this self-styled erudite I wish to remind him that the first public school in America was organized in Columbus, Ga.; that the first chartered college in the world to confer a degree upon women was Wesleyan Female college located at Macon, Ga.; that the first chartered state university in the United States is located at Athens, Ga., and out of the halls of this noted institution have come such peerless statesmen as Ben Hill, Alexander Stephens, Henry Grady and scores of others.

Yes, the Democrats of the south—all of them—know how to read, and a noted writer recently made the statement that of all the English speaking people of the world the purest English is spoken by the people of the south. FAIRPLAY.

FLAGS ON A PICNIC TRUCK.

Chicago, June 27.—In regard to "Bystander," who had his say about the change of flags on our picnic truck last Sunday [June 23], may I say the following: That we who were on the truck, myself in particular, for I was driving, were most appreciative of the officer's interest in having our error corrected before we went any further. Secondly, the officer himself was Italian and his was not a reprimand but a kind gesture, which in the future will be always remembered, even in the haste of departing for another picnic!

CARMEN J. CACO.

UNFULFILLED PROPHECY.

Chicago, June 25.—Mr. Roosevelt forecast a collapse with the nullity of the NRA. On the contrary we are enjoying a marked improvement in sentiment all over the country and the stock market has displayed the greatest strength in two years. Is this not proof enough that we can get along very nicely without the NRA, and even more nicely without Mr. Roosevelt and his disastrous threats, in the 1936 election? Yes or No?

GRANT JOHNSON.

BUS ROUTE.

Chicago, June 28.—Before the officials of the Chicago Rapid Transit company make formal application to the Illinois commerce commission to run "L" feeder buses on the streets of Chicago it would be wise for them to reconsider the reasons for the opposition that the residents near Loomis boulevard have to them, because without the good will of the people they serve the plan will be a failure.

As for the benefits of the transfer privileges they all are in accord, but using Loomis boulevard as a route, their answer is "No." Here are their reasons: It has taken years to build up this fine residential district and to secure Loomis boulevard, and they do not wish to make it a transfer line over night. The buses are not a necessity but an additional transportation accommodation in this district. Besides the damage to the pavement, the vibration to the surrounding buildings and the hazards to the moving trafic on the boulevard are added reasons against the use of Loomis boulevard.

Here is an alternative route that would remedy those objections: Instead of the buses turning east at 55th and Ashland coming from the north, they should continue south to 63d street and then east to the "L." From there south to 64th, then back west to Ashland avenue and then south to 95th street, instead of 87th street as the plan now reads. The added revenue from the residents of Beverly Hills and Brainard Park will be more than sufficient to warant the additional mile.

POLITENESS.

Chicago, June 27.—A word of commendation for motorman No. 6,099 on southbound Cottage Grove avenue car No. 5,825. At Roosevelt road an elderly lady alighted from the car, and even though the light was in her favor she was fearful about crossing. The motorman, noticing her hesitancy and, being on the red light, stepped off and guided her across. This very simple act might seem almost provincial. But is politeness ever small?

Chicago, June 27.—Seeing and reading your cartoon of today, I couldn't refrain from sending this letter to remind you that Il Duce Mussolini is the greatest man in the world, and not a word of your newspaper will touch his great reputation among the civilized people of the world.

As for the Italian soldiers, I like again to remind you that only they won the world war, and I was among them, while you and your protectors were in Chicago getting rich with your vain words.

My English language is poor, but surely you will get my ideas and understand my feeling. If you have a small space in your greatest newspaper [as you say] for real news, I should like to have this letter published.

I am very proud of Mussolini and my mother country, as I am very proud of U. S. of America, my adopted country.

Deadwood, S. D., June 27.—I must protest against the outrageous writeup on Tuesday of the Piquett examination. It was not only grossly unfair to a man whose liberty was at stake, dangerous and prejudicial to his rights to an impartial trial, likely to affect the minds of the jurors adversely, but an impudent contempt of court.

Season Offers Wide Choice of Stylish Trims

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Midsummer trimming gadgets and ideas! Tie these huge flat buttons in place with ribbon, tape or narrow strings of the same material as the dress.

Besides providing a decorative as well as amusing anchor for these outsize buttons with large holes, it's an easy way to help the laundress. All you do when you send the dress down for the tub is to untie the buttons. Then you tie them on again after the dress comes back smooth and fresh.

Nothing looks as crisp and cool and fresh as the tiny edgings of white or contrasting colored rickrack braid. For dotted swiss dresses and suits, for dimities, and all other sheer summer clothes it seems to be the most effective of trimmings.

Even the summer party frocks of net and organdy have their ruffles and flounces outlined with this old-fashioned and now new fashioned braid.

Dots in all sizes from tiny pin points to spots as large as a quarter are tremendously decorative in collars, ascot scarfs, cuffs, belts and as cuffs on separate white gloves. With plain colored silks, with one color cotton costumes, with linen and with net, dotted material serves as the delightful contrast.

You can buy belts and a matching three cornered scarf in practically every white dotted colored material you need. You can even buy white dotted handbags to complete this contrast idea.

Still another very tricky trimming . . . tiny printed flowers cut out and used as lei around the neckline of evening gowns. Or the same floral motif carefully cut out and sewed onto a gown at wide intervals from the shoulder line to the hemline.

Yards of contrasting colored stitching mark the newest of summertime thin silks, across the flaps or tops of pockets, outlining necklines, around collar and cuffs, belts and to hold inverted pleats in place.

By fall you'll see all kinds of decorative braiding, more stitching and frogs used on street wools, on after-silk crepe dresses, on swanky velveteens and velvets. Trimmings will be featured on all the fashionable outfits for early fall, especially the very smart and distinctive first showings of street and daytime clothes.

Great Throng Hears Concert at Grant Park

BY EDWARD MOORE.

That the popularity of the Chicago Symphony orchestra in the open air is well established was proved by another pleasant evening which brought another great throng to the band shell in Grant park last night.

Once again Eric DeLamarter conducted a program of agreeable offerings — Wagner's "Rienzi Overture," Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony," the ballet music furnished by Borodin in "Prince Igor" and Massenet in "Le Cid," Chabrier's "Espana," Saint-Saëns' "Danse Macabre"—in other words, two hours of greatly and audibly appreciated music.

The soloist was Joseph Vito, the harpist of the orchestra. It is hard to imagine a person better suited to make a solo performance out of this soft toned instrument, even in the vast open spaces, than he, and in Thomé's "Fantasia" he was at his best. An encore was demanded and played.

For the holiday concert tonight Mr. DeLamarter is scheduling a first half of American compositions. Included in the list are Henry Hadley's "In Bohemia," Victor Herbert's "Irish Rhapsody," Saunders' "Hill Billy," Schubert's "Moments Musical" as orchestrated by Frederick Stock, Leo Sowerby's "The Irish Washer Woman," and Frank van der Stucken's "March on American Airs."

The second half will consist of Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Capriccio Espagnol" and Tschaikowsky's "1812," in which latter special effects of gunpowder and fireworks are promised.

The American Conservatory of Music recital at Kimball hall yesterday afternoon consisted of a joint program by Rudolph Reuter, pianist, and Edward Eigenschenck, organist. Mr. Reuter, a learned and accomplished artist, made a brilliant impression with some excerpts from Bach's "Well Tempered Clavier," Schumann's "Symphony Etudes," and a pair of works by Chopin, playing a modern group later in the program.

Mr. Eigenschenck was heard in a Bach group which was played with exceptional smoothness and clarity. He, too, played music of this generation somewhat later.

Rudolph Gans and Leon Sametini will play sonatas for piano and violin at the Sonotone theater this morning at 10:30 o'clock.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MR. AND MRS. WALTER GARRITT SMITH are giving a family dinner at their home on Greenwood boulevard in Evanston tomorrow night to announce the engagement of their daughter, Roslyn McLennan Paine, to Paul Lyon Fentress, so they did not intend to make the formal announcement until after the dinner, but since the interesting news leaked out yesterday they are announcing it this morning.

The news will come as somewhat of a surprise to Miss Paine's and Mr. Fentress' young friends, for he has been living in Philadelphia since he left college last winter, so it hasn't been as easy to keep track of the progress of the romance as it would have been if he had been at home. He is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fentress of Hubbard Woods.

Miss Paine, the dark-eyed attractive daughter of Mrs. Smith, prepared for college at Rosemary Hall in Greenwich and was graduated from Sarah Lawrence college in 1933. She made her debut two years ago at a garden tea at the Smith residence, where she will become a bride in September.

She spent the latter half of last winter in Bermuda and most of this summer she will be at Green Lake, Wis., where Mr. and Mrs. Smith have a charming country place, modeled after Ann Hathaway's cottage at Stratford-on-Avon, but greatly enlarged so that it will accommodate the Smith family and their many summer guests.

Mr. Fentress Here for Dinner.

Mr. Fentress prepared for Princeton at the Berkshire school. He did not finish his college course, preferring to enter business instead, and for the last few months he has been living in the Pennsylvania city where he and his bride will reside after their marriage.

He flew home last Tuesday to spend a week with his family and his fiancée and to be here for the announcement dinner. His marriage will be the third in his immediate family this year, for his sister, Emily Fentress Stocking, was married to John Nash Ott Jr. in January, and another sister, Harriet, became the bride of Bruce Benson on April 27.

Mr. and Mrs. Ott, by the way, returned around July 1 from their wedding trip around the world and are spending the summer in Minocqua, Wis. Mr. Fentress has another sister, Mrs. Burwell Dodd of Hartford, Conn., and two brothers, Calvin Jr. and Dr. Thomas, both of whom are married and live on the north shore.

Country Clubs Hold Special Events Today.

The usual Fourth of July golf matches will be the chief attraction for men at the various country clubs around the city today, and tonight at most of them there will be fireworks for children, whose bedtime will be advanced several hours so that they can be up late enough to enjoy the brilliant displays.

If the day is fine the swimming pools and tennis courts will be put to good use today by the younger members and the sons and daughters of older ones, and no doubt on the club verandas there will be many a bridge foursome composed of wives and mothers whose husbands and children are enjoying more active sports.

The Indian Hill club is opening its new pool today and tonight it will have a buffet supper dance. The official opening program, exhibition swimming and diving, preceded by a buffet supper, will be given next Monday.

The Glen View club has planned a full day for children with swimming contests in the morning and a marionette show and other entertainment in the afternoon. Tonight there will be the regular Thursday night dinner-dance. The Exmoor club is having fireworks tonight, preceded by a children's party in the afternoon at which there will be a dog and pony circus and magicians to delight the young guests.

Onwentsia to Hold Party for Children.

The Onwentsia club has planned much the same program as its Highland Park neighbor for the children of members, for there will be a party this afternoon with a Punch and Judy show as the main feature and tonight there will be fireworks. This club also has a Thursday night dinner-dance every week.

A barbecue supper and dancing will entertain the members of the Knollwood club tonight, and in Wheaton at the Chicago Golf club there will be an exhibition of fireworks and a dance. Northwest of this club, at the Dunham Woods club in Wayne, there will be a buffet supper tonight, followed by a fireworks display.

The Skokie Country club is having a children's party this afternoon and out south at the Flossmoor Country club there will be a dinner-dance tonight following a day of golf for men and a bridge party this afternoon for women.

Chicagoans who happen to be in Berlin today will celebrate their national Independence day by attending a reception and garden party Ambassador and Mrs. William E. Dodd will give this afternoon at their residence, 27a Tiergarten strasse.

Dennehy Family to Hold Picnic.

Every year on the Fourth of July the junior Thomas C. Dennehys have a family party at their farm near Waukegan and this means a very large party, indeed, for Mrs. Dennehy has a sister, Mrs. Edison Dick, and a brother, Ezra J. Warner Jr., both of whom are married and have children; and Mr. Dennehy has two brothers, Charles and John, who have wives and children, and four sisters, Mrs. Ralph N. Isham, Princess Galitzine, Mrs. Hempstead Washburne and Mrs.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

TWO attractive girls stood in front of a loop bookstore and their eyes were caught by a display of Christopher Morley's latest book, "Hasta la Vista, or a Postcard from Peru."

"'Hasta la Vista,'" said one of them, "wonder what that means."

"I'll bet it means 'Wish you were here,'" suggested the other.

SEVERAL successful authors have the habit of reading aloud the manuscript of a new book before it goes to the publisher—not to a group, but to one person, for the purpose of getting a reaction. The late Henry Kitchell Webster did that. So does Janet Ayer Fairbank and Margaret Ayer Barnes. This is by way of preface to a story that came to light recently when Mrs. Fairbank and her sister, Mrs. Barnes, were discussing new books each is completing.

Mrs. Barnes dedicated her Pulitzer prize winning novel, "Years of Grace," to her husband, Cecil Barnes. The dedication read "To C. B., who listened to this book." A Canadian reviewer confined his criticism to a sour paragraph. His sympathy, he said, was not for the book, but for C. B., who had listened to it.

* *

MRS. FAIRBANK is contracted for serial publication in a magazine of her novel "The Smiths," which she is working on at the Fairbank country home, The Butternuts. It deals with the life of the grandson of the "Smiths." Her sister, Mrs. Barnes, is writing the concluding chapters of a new book, which also is to appear serially in a magazine before it is out in book form.

Lusch Estate to Be Camp of Teen Age Girls

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Through the generosity of the late Harry B. Lusch, Chicago paper manufacturer, high school girls whose vacations have been few and far between will enjoy the woods and waters on a 260 acre estate near Lemont this summer.

In his will Mr. Lusch provided that the income from his holdings, estimated at $1,000,000, should be distributed annually to at least ten charitable institutions. The distribution is being made by the Chicago Community trust.

This week the directors of the trust decided that the 260 acre farm which is a part of the estate should be used this summer by the Young Woman's Christian association. Yesterday Mrs. William L. Hodgkins, Y. W. C. A. president, announced the acceptance of the gift as a camp for girls of high school age.

Now Mrs. A. M. Houser Jr. of River Forest, chairman of the association's Y Girl Reserve department, will take charge of the preparations for the first camp season of two weeks beginning July 14. Only a limited number of girls can be accommodated this summer, but the weekly charge has been set at $8 to put the camp within reach of girls who have little to spend on vacations.

If further plans materialize, it is expected that the association will take over the farm as its permanent camp for younger girls. Camp Millhurst near Plano had to be abandoned four years ago because of sanitary conditions. The Community trust already has provided funds for some necessary equipment on the Lusch farm at Lemont.

A large portion of the farm is devoted to wild flowers since their culture was one of Mr. Lusch's hobbies. There is a small lake fed by underground springs which will afford both swimming and boating. There are woods and forest preserves on three sides. The two cottages now on the farm will be used to house this summer's campers and a temporary recreation hall will be erected.

Sally's Guests Have Glorious Party at Hotel

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Today may be the glorious Fourth for most people, but yesterday was a glorious third for a number of boys and girls I know!

The Hotel Sherman was simply blossoming with youngsters yesterday afternoon, and they were having the grandest time of their young lives. We'd been invited to see the ice carnival there, and had one section of the College inn al lto ourselves with tables all around the skating rink.

Never have entertainers worked harder or had a more enthusiastic audience. They spun and twirled and glided and turned—all to tuneful music furnished by Maurie Sherman and his orchestra—who even played special numbers for our party. I think the other people having luncheon there had almost as much fun watching my young guests as they did seeing the show. With eyes and mouths wide open the youngsters watched the skillful young Roy Shipstead do his marvelous skating—breathless as he turned speedy revolutions with great ease.

I had told my young guests about the horse—and did they love him! Shipstead and Johnson in the guise of a horse do the most marvelous skating act—in fact, their masquerade was so skillful that the youngsters were calling — "Here horsie," and patting him gently but rather timidly.

Bobby McLean, who skates in kilts and jumps over a huge pile of chairs, was so good we almost feared for him. He sped by us so quickly we thought surely he'd never be able to stop himself.

Mr. Duke greeted us at the door, and then pretended he couldn't skate—he fell down and clowned beautifully. The youngsters loved him enough for that, but when he came around and presented all with beautiful little pins in the form of silver skates he was practically mobbed with affection and "thank you's."

The final thrill occurred when Frank Bering, who made our good time possible, appeared with waiters in his train bearing fancy hats, horns, balloons, and noise makers—and then pink strawberry ice cream, with three kinds of cookies! Maybe 100 youngsters in Chicago aren't grateful to him!

All in all it was an exciting party.

Good Morning!

To the Rim of
The Earth—northern rim . . .
In SEARCH of
The FLAME of IMMORTALITY!
That's the ADVENTURE undertaken
By the HUMANS of this story.
[Adapted from Rider Haggard's "She."]
SPURRED on their way by a
YELLOWED DOCUMENT written 500 years ago, the DESCENDANT of a man who had FOUND that flame—but had DIED,
For reasons the picture reveals, starts forth. He is ACCOMPANIED By a SCIENTIST.
The two pick up on their JOURNEYINGS
A trader and his DAUGHTER.
An AVALANCHE does for the former.
Those left, after SURMOUNTING
All SORTS of difficulties, arrive finally in
The PALACE of a
STRANGE WOMAN. A woman who has lived
And remained BEAUTIFUL for CENTURIES.
A CRUEL woman who stops at NOTHING
That she may ATTAIN for her own
The one she DESIRES. A woman who——
For reasons you're left to GUESS
PERISHES in the FLAME which had imbued her
With what she THOUGHT was ETERNAL LIFE.
The DEATH of "SHE" releases the adventurers
From her TOILS and BELIEVE you THEM, they're all
Perfectly CONTENT to enjoy HENCEFORTH what MERE MORTALITY has to offer.
The film is a SPECTACLE, striking in some spots,
Disappointing in others. You'll WONDER as it
Unreels, IF Edgar Rice Burroughs didn't GET
Some of his "TARZAN" ideas from the story
And if, PERHAPS, James Hilton who wrote
"Lost Horizon," hadn't read Haggard's yarn thoughtfully.
Of course the whole thing is UTTER IMAGERY.
"She" is ADMIRABLY acted—and if you don't think
That lovely Helen Gahagan has the most THRILLING
SURPRISED.
LIBERTIES have been taken with the original
Which was LOCALED in An IMAGINARY Africa.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. — [Special.] — You don't need us to tell you that beautiful women are absolutely commonplace in Hollywood. The humblest extra is apt to be a breathtaking creature. Which is probably why casting directors are surfeited with mere beauty and cry to high heaven for movie finds who are different. The merely beautiful woman might as well be content to be an extra; in any case, that's about all she'll ever be. The casting man's dream is a woman who has an inner spark that sets her apart. If she has that and if she's photographic—not necessarily beautiful, mind you—she's practically got her name in lights.

They feel around the Metro lot that they have found such a white hope—a tiny, taut little brunette named Luise Rainer, imported from Austria to play the beguiling, Cinderellaish rôle in "Escapade," a Viennese romance.

There are extras all over town more beautiful, strictly speaking, than this youngster. She's a flashing personality, with nothing stereotyped about her art or her appearance. During an actual "take" she dominates a scene. Directors knock on wood and pray that this isn't too good to last. Until that moment when the "ready" call comes she's merely a cute kid. She's afraid of people she doesn't know and follows one woman—Lillian Rosini, the makeup director—around like a child scared to death that her mother will get out of sight. Lillian speaks German; Luise can tell her all her troubles in her own language. But there is nothing babyish about her when she goes into her rôle. She is fiery then and a joy to watch.

There is nothing artificial about her appearance. Her mouth is the one nature handed her. No need to change it, on screen or off. Her hairdress is hoydenish almost, but it suits her. She is, to put it simply, a unique personality, and unusual looking, but not by design. She copies no one. Off the set she's hardly even makeup conscious. She's just Luise Rainer, who loves to act. She doesn't have a notion yet that some day she'll have ten thousand imitators. Thank the Lord for that. ELEANOR NANGLE.

'Four Aces' of Bridge Sue Culbertson for Attack on System

New York, July 3.—[Special.]—Defining contract bridge as "a game of skill and amusement," David Burnstine, Michael T. Gottlieb, Oswald Jacoby and Howard Schenken, known as "the four aces," today sued to enjoin Bridge World, Inc., Ely Culbertson, writer, and Richard L. Frey, contributor, from attacking their reputation as "the best players in the world."

The "Aces" also asked for damages to be fixed by a Supreme court justice to compensate them for the alleged damage done by articles in Bridge World.

The petition alleged that reputedly false statements "had wide circulation and caused great damage to the plaintifs in the sale of their book on the system, and in obtaining radio, lectures and writing contracts."

Relief Band Gives Concert at Independence Day Fete

The Illinois Emergency Relief band of fifty pieces gave its first public concert last night at Winnemac park, Damen avenue and Argyle street, as part of an Independence day celebration sponsored by business men of the neighborhood. Previously the band had performed in institutions such as the county hospital and at relief shelters and camps. Last night's free show included performances by troupes of actors also drawn from the relief rolls. A few of the musicians who played last night are not on relief but it was said their services were necessary to complete the band.

Rushes to Aid Woman; Finds Private Fight

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 3.—[Special.]—Monroe Owsley, film actor, was driving home from the studio after midnight when he heard a woman scream. He stopped his car and followed the sound until he came to a parked automobile, discovering a girl with blood running from a cut on her face. There was an almost equally mussed young man in the parked coupe.

Opening the coupe door to inquire the trouble and offer help Owsley was informed the fight was a private one and with that the girl slammed the auto door on his left thumb. Now the thumb is three times normal and he's minus a thumbnail but the gainer by a lot of experience.

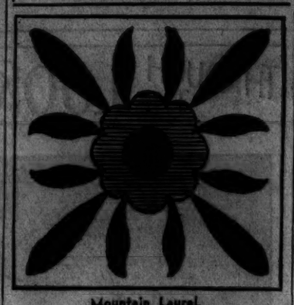
There are two European film actresses with almost similar names, Anny Ondre, German movie star who became Mrs. Max Schmeling on July 6, 1933, and Anna Andre. The latter, a Russian refugee girl educated in England, is the fiancée of Scenarist Rian James. She will be married to James in April, 1936, when the latter's interlocutory divorce from Diane Corday of the Follies, becomes final.

James found it necessary, today to identify his fiancée as a 23 year old Russian girl and a brunette, to distinguish her from the German actress because of a report that he had been paying attention to the German exchampion's spouse. Miss Andre resided in England from the time she was 5 years of age and played a bit in "Catherine the Great" with Elizabeth Bergner. "I want to make one thing certain," James says. "I do not go courting wives of heavyweight boxing champions." James has just finished his thirty-fourth movie scenario in three years in Hollywood. He used to be a Brooklyn newspaper column writer.

Mountain Laurel Theme of Lovely Applique Quilt



Mountain Laurel.

BY NANCY CABOT.

One of the simplest yet most beautiful of applique blocks is the lovely "Mountain Laurel." It is only about 50 years old, but it has the same charm and appeal found in quilts three times as old. This pattern comes from Butte, Mont., from a friend whose grandmother, born in Chicago, went to Butte to live shortly after her marriage here. Whether "Mountain Laurel" was original with her is not known. However, it was her favorite pattern among 25 others of almost equal beauty which she made with her own hands.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

The Ortega Feud

By Marie De Nervaud

SYNOPSIS.

Chris Jackson is sent by Bill Benton, new sheriff of Monterey county, to put an end to the Ortega-Alvado feud, which has resulted in numerous murders. Both families believe California to be still Spanish and want Americans kept out. On arrival Chris encounters Guido Ortega, Ramon, his dare-devil son, and Ysabel, his beautiful, sad-eyed niece. He falls in love with Ysabel at first sight and has a quarrel with Ramon and publicly spanks him. Chris outfits himself for a supposed lion hunting trip. He receives a note sent by messenger from Ysabel Ortega hinting of a mysterious danger, begging his aid and asking him to meet her in a fortnight. Chris camps in a canyon on the northern boundary of the Alvado ranch. A shot from an unseen hand gives him warning to leave. He is saved by Rocky, an old Indian hunter, who advises him to leave the country. Next day Chris meets Francesca Alvado, flirtatious Spanish beauty, who warns him her father welcomes no strangers. Chris tells her of his encounter with Ramon Ortega. It gains him entrée to the Alvado ranch. Guido Alvado invites Chris to a rodeo to be held in a week. During the rodeo the warring families hold a traditional three day truce. Ysabel Ortega is facing a forced marriage with her cousin Ramon. Her uncle refuses to tell her the secret of her birth, as he had promised to do on her eighteenth birthday. She tries to escape from the ranch, but every road is guarded. She meets Rocky and appeals to him. He promises to delay the priest's coming until after the rodeo. Ysabel returns home, trusting in Rocky's assistance. Chris, masquerading as Rocky, comes to the Ortega ranch. He is seen by Ysabel. Ysabel rescues him. She warns him all exits from the ranch are guarded. He manages to escape after an encounter with two of the vaquero guards, in which he picks up one of their knives. He calls at the Alvado ranch.

INSTALMENT XXII.

A DIRE THREAT.

At last Chris seemed to be on the verge of really finding out some of the inside history of the feud. "Where was he found?" he gently prodded the señor, as he ignored his last question, and seemed about to sink back into his dark brooding silence. "How do you know he was killed from ambush?"

"Because that is their way." Señor Alvado flashed back. "That is the way they killed my son. Madre di Dios! They shall get as good as they give!"

"Padre!" Francesca interrupted with a second warning call.

"Muy bien!" Señor Alvado lapsed into Spanish and broke off his tirade against the Ortegas as abruptly as he had begun it.

For a moment his face worked with the passions that shook him, but almost instantly he had his expression under control, and turned a bland, impassive front to Chris.

"Yes!" For the first time, Roberto Gomez injected himself into the conversation. He straightened up, his languor gone, and his eyes flashing as he pointed to Chris' belt. "Yes! Why trouble a stranger! Especially when he carries an Ortega's knife in his belt!"

All eyes followed the accusing finger he pointed at Chris, and Francesca gave a cry, as Chris's hand flashed to his side, where he had stuck the knife that had so narrowly missed him in the canyon.

"You mean this?" He held it out to Señor Alvado. Inwardly cursing his carelessness for having forgotten all about the knife and leaving it in such a conspicuous place, Chris rapidly gauged in his mind the best way to deal with this awkward situation and keep himself in the good graces of the Alvados.

Concluding that the only line to take was one of complete frankness, at least up to a certain point, he plunged into a description of his encounter in the canyon, as Señor Alvado took the knife and examined it closely.

"I couldn't understand why they had a guard there," Chris ended, "but now I see. They were preparing against possible reprisals for the murder of your vaqueros. Having heard so much about their hostile attitude to strangers, I wasn't taking any chances, when I found the guard there. So I got the drop on them, and you have the whole story of what happened, and how I came by the knife. I hope you believe I'm telling the truth?"

Chris's eyes searched his audience, as he flung out this direct challenge. He could feel that all except Gomez believed the story he had told. The suspicion had faded from the eyes of Señor Alvado and Guido, while Francesca's eyes gleamed with amusement and unwilling admiration at his handling of the Ortega vaqueros.

Gomez, alone, was frankly unbelieving and scornful. He reached over and took the knife from his uncle.

"An exact duplicate of this knife was found in Manuelo," he announced. He fixed a mocking look on Chris, after a quick glance at Francesca to gauge the effect on her of Chris's tale, then went on in a challenging tone, "You have a good imagination, señor; only there is one point you haven't made clear. "Why were you on the Ortega ranch in the first place?"

Roberto Gomez brought out his question with a triumphant air.

"That is true," Señor Alvado looked inquiringly at Chris, "you have not told us that."

Chris suppressed with difficulty the angry retort that rose to his lips, about its being none of their business. He longed to give Roberto Gomez the same lesson in manners that he had administered to Ramon Ortega, but such tactics would hardly serve his purpose. It was apparent that the instinctive dislike he felt for Gomez was mutual, but for the moment it would be folly to come to an open break with him.

"You'll have to put it down to curiosity, I reckon. You got me all stirred up with your accounts of this feud, and I kind of thought I'd like to get a line on the 'party of the second part.' I found out one or two points that might be useful to you, if you could call off this bloodhound of yours!"

"Always ready for a quarrel, aren't you, Roberto, mio? She leaned back in her chair and touched his arm with a gesture half tender, half mocking, wholly provocative.

Gomez flushed a dull red as he jerked his arm away and stumped into the house.

In a flash Chris realized one reason for Gomez's antagonism to him. He was madly in love with Francesca, with all the Spaniard's capacity for jealousy and hatred that can accompany that emotional state.

It was equally obvious that Francesca was only playing with him, and that she took delight in rousing his passion.

Apparently unconscious of this by-play going on about him, Señor Alvado eagerly sought to pin Chris down to more details.

"What did you find that would be useful to me? I will be glad to hear anything you have to tell." He motioned to a chair. "Why not sit down and tell us all about it? Roberto is a hot headed boy! You must not mind anything he says."

Guido and Francesca both seconded their father's invitation and Francesca added an invitation to supper.

"You can get it with much less effort than it took to get your lunch!" she laughed up at him, her black eyes studying him under half closed lids.

"But also with much more danger!"

To Chris's surprise, she flushed and lowered her eyes at his light, gallant answer, but before she could reply her father broke in impatiently.

"That is settled, then. You will stay and spend the night, too. It is folly to go to your camp so late."

Chris hesitated a moment. Was he wise in accepting the Alvado hospitality? It was tempting to think of a good supper and a comfortable bed! Yet——

A sudden picture of Ysabel Ortega rose before him, and impulsively, without stopping to reason out his reaction, he refused the invitation, and rose to his feet. "I'm sorry I can't do that; I must be getting on my way. You couldn't make any use of my information before the rodeo, anyway, and I'll drop in some time tomorrow to tell you about it."

If he had thrown a bomb into their midst, Chris couldn't have been more amazed at the effect of his words.

Señor Alvado and Guido both sprang to their feet and faced him with eyes ablaze with renewed suspicion.

"Perhaps Roberto is right, and you are really in league with the Ortegas?" Señor Alvado flashed at him.

"I assure you I'm not." Chris tried to meet the implied accusation as normally and frankly as possible, but this time Señor Alvado was not so easily appeased.

"If you do not stay I shall feel that you are an Ortega spy." The señor gave this ultimatum with a set, stern look. "And if I believe that, there is only one answer: you will never live to reach your camp."

There was a tense, breathless moment of surprise before Chris replied. He could feel Francesca's eyes darting with a horrified fascination from him to her father and brother, and back again.

Her expression, even more than her father's words, convinced Chris of the reality of this moment, which seemed so like a crazy nightmare.

Roslyn Paine Is Engaged to Paul Fentress

Wedding Will Take Place in September.

Charles F. Clarke, all of whom have husbands and children.

Mrs. Warner Sr. is in Lane Forest this summer, also, and Mr. Dennehy Sr. is spending the summer at his Winnetka home, so the entire family will celebrate Independence day with a picnic and fireworks.

Prince and Princess Galitzine and their baby, who were with the Ishams in town after they returned from the west, have moved out to Winnetka to spend the summer with Mr. Dennehy Sr.

Miss June Cornell, whose engagement to Kellogg Fairbank Jr., was announced recently, is leaving Sunday for her home in New York. These attractive young people, who have been entertained extensively since their engagement became known, plan to be married some time next winter. They are spending today with Mr. Fairbank's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fairbank Sr., at their Lake Geneva home. Benjamin Fairbank, the other son, is there, too, having flown from the west to spend his vacation with his family.

Mr. and Mrs. Fairbank have several house guests for the long week-end and today they are having a number of their friends from Chicago and places nearer Lake Geneva join the house party for luncheon. Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster will be among those motoring up from town for the day.

John R. Winterbothams to Spend Day at Wayne.

The John R. Winterbothams will spend the Fourth at their tiny country place in Wayne, which they do not use very often for over night but where they spend long days in the summer. They have visiting them just now their niece, Miss Katharine Buchanan, who spent the winter in Louisville with her father, Thompson Buchanan, and who next week will be going to Sugar Hill., N. H., to spend the summer with her grandmother, Mrs. John R. Winterbotham.

Miss Buchanan is delaying her departure so that she can see her cousin, Mrs. Patrick C. Hill [Ginny Carpenter], and her little daughter, who arrive tomorrow from Fort Worth for a visit with their Chicago relatives. The Hills are on their way to Charlotte, Vt., where they will spend the summer at the old Joseph Winterbotham place. Mr. Hill will join his wife and daughter in the late summer.

The Norman Millers of Evanston are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son last Saturday at the Evanston hospital. The young man has been named Norman Carlile. Before her marriage, Mrs. Miller was Eleanor Carlile Case of Baltimore. Her father was the late Col. Frank L. Case of the United States army. On the paternal side the baby's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Amos C. Miller of Evanston.

Luncheon Saturday for Mary Garden.

Mrs. Rudolph Ganz is giving a luncheon Saturday at the Tavern club for Miss Mary Garden who is spending the summer in Chicago to conduct a master class in operatic singing at the Chicago Musical college.

The board of governors of the Tavern decided yesterday to have music at the club every Thursday night during the summer so that members who dine there on "cook's night out" may enjoy dancing on the cool upper deck.

Mrs. Horace H. Martin is entertaining at luncheon today in her Lake Forest home for her guest, Mrs. Charles D. Norton of New York, who arrived yesterday. Mrs. Norton formerly lived in Lake Forest and her arrival there always is the signal for the start of a round of gay parties. Tomorrow Mrs. Slason Thompson will be a luncheon hostess at the Shoreacres club for Mrs. Norton.

The William B. Hales are giving a supper party tonight at their Winnetka home for Robert Stevenson and his bride, Eleanor Brown Husband, who are spending the summer in Milwaukee.

Goodspeeds-Swifts to Sail Tomorrow.

Recovered from the illness which caused a cancelation of their plans for sailing last Saturday on the Europa, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed and her husband and Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Swift are leaving today for New York to sail tomorrow on the Bremen.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Ryan of Wheaton left Tuesday evening to visit Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Field in a country home on the shores of the Niagara river, several miles below the falls. The Ryans will arrive at home Monday. The Fields were formerly residents of Chicago and a few years ago moved to Buffalo.

The fashionable Post and Paddock club at the Arlington Park race track was crowded again yesterday with large and interesting parties. Attracting a major share of attention were two sub-debs, Miss Narcissa Thorne, striking in a pale blue sports dress, and Miss Sylvia Peters who wore deep blue with snowy white. Miss Thorne's mother, Mrs. Robert J. Thorne, accompanied the girls.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

DOUBLE DUMMY PLAY.

South was an incurable optimist in the bidding, and pessimist in the play. Having pole-vaulted into his small or grand slam contract, as the case might be, and finding that he needed only one or two finesses to make the contract, he would gloomily decide that neither finesse would work. The only solution was a squeeze or the prettier play of a Vienna coup.

South's eyes nearly popped out when he saw those nine hearts. He restrained himself admirably by bidding only one, but when North bid two clubs over West's spade overcall he leaped at once to six. Everybody passed.

The opening lead was the king of spades. South won in the dummy, discarding a club from his own hand. He then played the jack of hearts, overtaking with the queen. The break disclosed, South decided two things. The first was that Old Man Jinx had not given up camping on his trail. The second was that, since the heart finesse was tentatively on, neither the club nor the diamond finesse would work.

He played the ace of hearts and gave East the king. East returned a spade, which South ruffed. He then ran down five trumps. West was not especially disturbed. He found that he could still keep the queen of spades and the king, doubleton of diamonds. Dummy had the nine of spades, a diamond, and the aces of clubs.

The killer play was the club. West found himself in the vise. If he blanked his king of diamonds, South would drop it. On the other hand, the discard of the queen of spades would set up the nine spot on the board.

Not only must West hold the four top honors in spades for this squeeze to work, as well as the king of diamonds, but dummy's only entry, the ace of clubs, must not be removed until every last trump has been laid down. Ordinarily, one opponent begins to feel the pinch around the play of the seventh trump.

Since South might find a bit of difficulty in reducing his trump length to that of East, in order to coup the hand, a club opening will defeat the contract.

Every Girl Can Create a Magic Change in Self

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Whatever may be said for the older women, and there's much to be said for her chances, too, you younger ones have no one but yourselves to blame if you don't register pictorially somehow. If you can't do yourselves over from head to toe, providing you need doing over, and make a name for yourself in your own group, you can just set it down as downright laziness on your part.

I am reminded of this fact by the recent appearance, on my horizon, of a 23 year old girl who, a couple of years ago, was a fat, coarse, and spotted skinned individual with hair that was what you young ones certainly would have called a mess. Her clothes were terrible. There wasn't a thing, seemingly, about the girl to recommend her as a fair escort for any occasion.

She simply bowled me over the other day with her appearance, and not only granted me permission to tell all about her former appearance, but begged me to do it. "As a challenge," she said, "to young women who don't believe they can work magic changes in their appearance." Minus pounds and pounds of "grease" was the girl's own term. The nasty, oily skin that goes with it [also her expression] absent. Teeth repaired and whitened. A make-up that was a classic performance. Hair as smartly cut, waved, and dressed as anything you ever saw on any one.

And clothes! The whole outfit, including bag, shoes, and hat, costing her less than $25. She looked like something out of the snappiest fashion magazine! And radiant! As one is deluged with compliments! The snap with which she walked was something to talk about.

No need to go into the details here of how she did it. She DID it. That's all that matters. Just as you, and you, and you can turn yourselves into perfect little masterpieces if you care enough!

Display of Bad Disposition No Measure of Love

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Do you like 'em scrappy, boys? Or, how can they please you most?

"Pat" reports that her boy friend says she has no spirit because, so far, she has controled herself whenever an argument has arisen.

"I do not like to fight, and therefore refuse to do so and he gets angry when he sees I will not lose my temper," she says.

Pat adds that the chap reads indifference toward him in this failure of hers to argumentative heights with him.

All of which just goes to prove there is no pleasing everybody. We know countless numbers of men who would get down on their knees and send up thanks for providence's kind disposition of an amiable tempered woman. And countless more petitioning the same source for the granting of just such a favor. Single men and married men both on their knees, figuratively speaking, asking no other blessing than the peace that comes with an even tempered companion!

Well, Pat, if the young man wants a scene and craves a scene as endorsement of your affections, you'd better give him one. One such scene might just cure the man, providing you rehersed it well and put it over with gusto. It might just settle all future wrangling, for we can't imagine a chap so much in love with an even tempered girl getting other than a sobering shock seeing her in an opposite character rôle.

We assume, of course, Pat, that you are willing, even anxious, to continue on in the sweetheart relationship. Otherwise we'd suggest giving the boy friend the air rather than spoil a happy disposition. As hinted, we don't think you'd have any difficulty getting a substitute suitor if a reputation for calm in any emergency has been broadcast about you.

Are we right or are we wrong, young men, in suggesting that the average one of you would prefer the maid without a temper? Or, do you like the occasional flareup, just to prove that you're bound up in the emotions of the flare-ee? After all, our guess that you like the even tempered one is mainly hearsay, but we've hear-say-ed it often enough to arrive at a conclusion, heaven knows. Yet, we may be wrong. Maybe you like the verbal sparring partner? Yes or no?

BY MARY MEADE.

Since most diners-out, and diners-at-home for that matter, are interested in how artful hotel chefs achieve their subtle blends and dashing flares of flavor, you may be as intrigued as we were by a wine survey conducted recently. A questionnaire, peppered with questions like "Do you use wine in cooking?" "What is your favorite recipe in which you use wine?" "Why do you use wine?" was circulated among the leading chefs all over the country.

About a third of these chefs returned the questionnaire, it seems, and the results have been tabulated in a most interesting booklet. In the first place, out of the 102 replying, 96 of them avowed the use of wine in their cookery. The rest sidestepped the question in one way or other, or mentioned state prohibition laws.

Most interesting of all, at least to us, was the list of favorite dishes in which they used wine, and the types of food they considered best suited to cooking with wine. The two leading favorites were Chicken à la King and Lobster Newburg. (This might be something to remember if these two dishes are at-home favorites of yours.)

Meats led the list of the foods which best lend themselves to the addition of wine as a flavoring medium, according to these cooking masters. Sea foods and fish came in a close second naturally, and chicken and game were well at the top of the list. However, the other votes were full of tips to the aspiring home cook. Here are a few of the places that wine flavors are added for professional zest: Sauces, frozen desserts, soups, stews, and casserole dishes, fruit cups and punch, soufflés, aspics, appetizers, all mushroom dishes, and chafing dish foods.

Now for a few of the reasons why these chefs, representing thirteen different nationalities, use wine in their cooking. Flavor and aroma seemed to lead in importance, stated in a dozen ways. Most stimulating to the home cook was the reason, variously stated, that wine added a "professional finish and zest which distinguished inspired food from plain cooking."

As to the origin of the wines preferred, these chefs varied quite decidedly in opinion. Almost half of them preferred imported wine, with reference to its superiority of taste, flavor, bouquet, and smoothness. On the other hand nearly that many spoke for domestic wines, stating that they found it entirely satisfactory and that its lower price made for freer use.

The types of wines used most frequently in cooking varied even more greatly. Sherry topped the list by a big margin. Wines classified as merely "white wine" and "red wine" had the next lower number of votes, while specific wines mentioned a number of times were claret, sauterne, Burgundy, and Madeira.

Child's Fears Often Traced to Ill Health

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Before discussing ways to avoid the arousing of children's fears I should say this: That the child who is below par physically or who is in a generally nervous condition may be more prone to fears than the child in perfect condition.

In dealing with fears that seem to us unwarranted it is always well, then, to look into a child's physical and nervous condition, if we can speak of them separately. In curing one you often cure the other.

A child who is generally undernourished and fatigued, or who has some physical defect that needs clearing up will be more easily made apprehensive, timid, or actually afraid than the child who is in robust health. This may also be true of the child who is convalescing from a serious illness, or who may be recovering from an operation in which an anesthetic has had to be used.

In one case, the child should be taken to a doctor and his advice followed in a building up process. In the other, the case of the little convalescent, the process is a slow one, and the mother must be patient and especially vigilant to avoid strain and fatigue. Fears—vague or concrete—often vanish with the return of high physical tone. This is an important and often a comforting fact to be aware of.

Now as to the relation that fears bear to differences in temperament: The child who is imaginative, highly keyed, sensitive is more prone to fears than the child who is more matter of fact, more easy going, more "objective," more stolid. So the mother of the former may expect many things to disturb her child which would not disturb the latter. She will try to avoid causing fears and to rout them when they do appear.

Nervousness and fears often go hand in hand. "Helping the Nervous Child," a fully written leaflet, will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self addressed envelope.

Maude Adams Will Return to Broadway in New Play in Fall

New York, July 3.—[Special.]—Maude Adams will return to the New York stage in the fall, under the direction of John Golden, in a new and as yet untitled play, it was announced today by the producer's office. Mr. Golden's representative was emphatic in the statement that this is a promise and not, as similar forecasts during recent seasons have been, a false alarm.

Miss Adams has not played in New York in something like two decades. During thirteen years of that time she was in absolute retirement. She returned to the stage in the autumn of 1931, making an extended tour in "The Merchant of Venice" under sponsorship of the Erlanger office.

No announcement of the probable date of her return was made by Mr. Golden. The play is by Adelyn Bushnell, a former stock actress, and Miss Adams is reported to have rewritten it extensively. She is at present in her Long Island home, but will go to Thomaston, Me., soon to discuss her rôle with Miss Bushnell.

CHICAGO LEADS NATION SOLVING CHURCH NEEDS

Plan to End Competition Wins Leaders' Praise.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Lake Geneva, Wis., July 3.—[Special.]—Chicago, with its church federation program to do away with denominational competition in overchurched areas, leads all cities of the country in church coöperation, Protestant leaders of forty denominations in session here found after exhaustive study, it was announced at sessions today.

The working leaders of every phase of Protestant action throughout the country are present at this meeting, said to be the first of its kind ever held.

Walter R. Mee, executive secretary of the Chicago church federation and president of the national association of federation secretaries, presented a survey of religious Chicago which represents cumulative investigations begun six years ago under joint auspices of the federation and the various theological seminaries throughout Chicago.

19 Join Equalization Program.

Graphically depicted on charts and maps were the "over churched" and "underchurched" districts, which Mr. Mee said the federation is seeking to equalize through its comity commission. Nineteen denominations have signed a working agreement to that end. This agreement aims not only at alloting unchurched districts to denominations best able to administer religious activities in those areas, but also the elimination of competition in over churched areas.

Where denominational competition is involved, "no other force than common sense based upon careful study of the situation" will be used to eliminate a denomination or another from the field, Mr. Mee declared.

Following Mr. Mee's presentation, the Rev. Dr. Roy Guild of New York, secretary of the federal council of churches, declared that Chicago's church federation represents "the most comprehensive and positive illustration of concerted efforts to do away with competition in overchurched and underchurched areas, and that other cities of the country are beginning to recognize that Chicago has more exhaustive and practical religious data for study of its situations than any other."

New Functions Outlined.

Dr. F. Ernest Johnson of New York, head of the department of social service of the federal council of churches, today defined the churchs modern function. He pointed out that the federal council now believes the church to be the sole teacher of Christian social ethics; that its earlier works such as hospitalization, general social welfare and charity, and general higher education should be turned back to the community and socialized.

BRIDE OF BRUNO IS ALONE AGAIN; YOU GUESS WHY

Bruno Austin is in jail again.

On Jan. 20, as Austin was leaving the Russian Holy Trinity cathedral at 1121 North Leavitt street after marrying Miss Marie Brenko of 2332 Augusta boulevard, he was arrested on a charge of robbery. The honeymoon was delayed by this unfortunate occurrence, but a jury acquitted Austin in late March.

Then the United States government seized upon Austin and took him to St. Paul to stand trial on an indictment charging him with conspiring to kidnap Edward G. Bremer. Again he was acquitted and in late May returned to his bride.

Yesterday afternoon Sergt. John Kelly of the state's attorney's police took Austin into custody at Roosevelt road and Independence boulevard and sent him to the detective bureau. The action, the sergeant said, had to do with theft of an automobile.

JUDGE REBUKES CHURCH'S CLAIM AGAINST ESTATE

Rockford, Ill., July 3.—[Special.]—On a ruling in which he denied the Broadway Methodist Episcopal church's claim of a $5,000 share of the estate of Miss Minnie S. Budlong, Fred E. Carpenter, Probate judge, criticized churches for seeking from wealthy elderly women large subscriptions, payable upon their death.

"It is against public policy and should be held so," he declared.

The judge expressed the hope that some day a law will be enacted making it illegal for "an old lady who is a strong member of a church to be inveigled into making a big subscription payable from her estate."

The Broadway church had been given a note for $5,000 from Miss Budlong. It was stipulated that the money was to be paid to the church building fund a year after her death on the condition that $20,000 in subscriptions be raised first for the building fund. Judge Carpenter held that the conditions of the note had not been met by the church.

Controler Is Found Dead in Garage; Ignition Is Off

Walter Warbinda, 40 years old, 5762 Lake street, controler for the Stewart Die Casting company, 4535 Fullerton avenue, was found dead in his garage at 5733 Midway park yesterday. The doors of the garage were closed but the ignition of Warbinda's car was switched off, evidence that death was not due to engine fumes, so an autopsy was ordered. Warbinda's widow, Emily, who found the body, said she knew no reason why her husband should have taken his own life.

Gore's Daughter Divorces E. L. Vidal, Air Trade Head

Reno, Nev., July 3.—[Special.]—In a ten minute hearing Mrs. Nina Gore Vidal, daughter of United States Senator Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma, today obtained a divorce from Eugene L. Vidal, director of the commerce department's bureau of air commerce.

News of The Tribune Experimental Farm

By Frank Ridgway

Fine Beeves Pay

July 3, 1935.

THE fourteen Tribune experimental farm steers that recently topped the market in their weight class in Chicago have been sold in the Chicago market, according to a report that reached the farm today. Men at the farm have set out to produce more high grade beef for the market next winter.

Apparently they will have an abundance of feed with which to finish cattle this winter. The outlook is favorable for all kinds of pasture, hay, and grain crops now growing at the Yorkville farm.

A sixteen acre field of early oats is practically all headed out and will be ready to cut between July 15 and 20. This field of the Gopher variety of oats is not expected to lodge. Clarence Thurow, manager at the Yorkville farm, says he has the best oats crop in years. He expects some damage from lodging of the late oats.

The harvesting of the first cutting of alfalfa will be started at the Yorkville place this week. Flush bars will be put on the mower to avoid killing any of the nesting pheasants in the meadow. There are about 88 acres of alfalfa and more than 75 acres of timothy and clover meadows to be harvested at the farm this season.

The farm at Yorkville has demonstrated that it pays to hold wool for the summer market; at least it paid this year. The season's clip was sold last week at 28¾ cents a pound. The 398 pounds of wool from the flock of Southdowns and Shropshires brought $92.77.

Men at the farm are now fighting morning glories in the corn fields. All the corn has been cultivated once. During the recent rainy weather cultivators pushed by tractors stayed in the fields from 5:30 o'clock in the morning until at least 6 o'clock in the evening every day the ground has been dry enough to work. The cultivators will be kept in the fields from sunup to sundown if it is necessary to keep ahead of the weeds.

Cherries are ripening in The Tribune experimental farm orchards. If the men at the farm followed the practice of the man whose "life has been wasted in a morning bed" there would be no cherries to pick. On both farms they begin picking cherries about daylight each morning to keep the birds from eating all the fruit that ripened during the night.

Answer to last week's question follows:

"Minonk, Ill., June 25.—In today's TRIBUNE you asked about the best way to get rid of morning glories. To me it also was a puzzle until I started to pasture by hand and found it to be the best method.

"I started with a mixture containing sweet clover, alsike clover, and timothy, but after I plowed it under at the end of two years pasturing I still found vines in small patches and found out the reason. The sweet clover would grow tall, and after it became too tough for the cattle and other stock to eat the morning glory vines would spin around these stalks and would not be eaten off.

"After I tried two fields in this manner I quit using sweet clover in my mixture and used alsike and red clover or lespedeza and timothy which is kept eaten down lower. I have almost completely got rid of my trouble. However, I think three years' pasturing would be still better. Besides ridding the ground of troublesome morning glories, it helps to produce better crops and cleans out fence rows of many other weeds and grasses. GEO. E. IOERGER."

FAIRBANKS BACK; LADY ASHLEY IS LEFT IN CANADA

In a chartered seaplane, Fairbanks arrived this afternoon a few hours after the liner Empress of Canada docked at Victoria, B. C., with his companions, including Lady Ashley, on a recent cruise to the south seas.

Lady Ashley remained in Victoria.

"That's taboo," Fairbanks said in response to inquiries about her. "We won't talk about that."

Doug said he would be returning very shortly to the orient to launch a large producing affiliation in Tokio. The Japanese, he said, "are going for pictures in a big way, with Japanese actors speaking English lines."

5,000 VISITORS UNWELCOME, BUT THERE THEY BEE

'Raid' on Suburban Home Looks Like a Honey.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Meeg, 722 William street, River Forest, hadn't intended to take a holiday outing on the Fourth of July, but they will. The outing will be forced upon them by four men, armed with nothing more cogent than boxes and burning tobacco, who will combat about 5,000 yellow-brown honey bees which have taken up their abode in the Meeg home.

Mrs. Ethel Farnham, sister of Mrs. Meeg, hates bees, but bees, strange to say, like Mrs. Farnham, because every summer when she comes to occupy her sister's home a swarm of bees flies up and moves in with her.

Swarm Blots Out Sunlight.

Yesterday Mrs. Farnham was sitting quietly in the sunparlor of her sister's home when she heard what seemed to be an airplane droning overhead. Then the room darkened, as a black cloud drifted past.

"Janice," she called to her small niece, who was playing in the yard. "Come in! Those bees are here again!"

The swarm swirled to the back of the Meeg home, where a small drainpipe jutted from the wall. Beside the pipe was a hole, and into this hole they went, a proceeding requiring the rest of the day.

Mrs. Farnham called the River Forest police department. No help. The police department called the fire department. No help.

Finally the park commission of Oak Park rounded up four beemen, who today will attack the busy bee retreat.

In the meantime, however, the bees fill the entire side wall of the house, and their buzzing almost drowns out the sound of the electric motor in the basement.

NAPLES, Italy, July 3.—(AP)—Mount Vesuvius thundered and spat flame through a newly opened throat tonight after alarming citizens of Naples and nearby towns with a terrifying eruption at dawn today. However, scientific observers at the Vesuvius observatory spent the day assuring the populace there was no danger.

This evening, therefore, the roaring flames spouting from the volcano whose lava and ashes buried the ancient civilization of Pompeii became an impromptu and unfeared pyrotechnic display for hundreds of thousands of Neapolitans and tourists in the Bay of Naples district.

The observatory reported that this morning's explosion merely opened a new fissure within the giant crater of the volcano, helping the two already known to exist to blow off the tons of accumulated gas, steam, and dross in the big volcano. There was no danger, the observatory said, because the lava flow remained within the volcano's crater and did not begin to flow down the sides of the mountain. Prof. Malladra of the observatory was quoted as estimating the eruption would continue five days.

ROCKFORD TRADE ZONE FLOODED BY SUDDEN DELUGE

Trafic Crippled, Cellars Filled with Water.

Rockford, Ill., July 3.—[Special.]—A storm that broke out of an almost clear sky, poured more than an inch of rain down upon Rockford in less than an hour this afternoon, flooding streets in the business districts and crippling trafic.

Harry Howard, 35, a workman at the Atwood Vacuum Machine company plant was struck by lightning as he was rolling a piece of steel near a window in the factory. His condition was reported serious at Rockford hospital.

The water in the East State street business district in some spots lapped over the curb onto sidewalks.

Trafic Is Stalled.

Buses, street cars and automobiles were stalled throughout the city. Hundreds of basements were flooded.

An accurate rainfall reading was impossible with water knee deep around the weather instruments in the yard at the home of Frank W. Knowlton, government weather observer.

Pecatonica, hit by a cloudburst Tuesday which swept away three highway bridges and a railroad bridge, isolating the town, escaped the storm which struck Rockford today. Fair weather was reported there as the village began the work of repairing the damage caused when Kerr creek surged from its banks following the cloudburst and swept everything before it.

Trafic on state route 2, known as the Blackhawk trail, was blocked between Oregon and Dixon. District highway engineers were today directing the replacement of tons of earth swept from underneath the roadway late yesterday.

Storm Hits Galesburg.

Galesburg, Ill., July 3.—[Special.]—The heaviest rainfall of the year for a 12 hour period was recorded in a series of storms last night and early today when 1.45 inches of water fell.

Three Dead in Iowa.

Justin C. Johnsen, Wittenberg, Wis., salesman, was killed late last night when his automobile plunged over a washed out bridge approach into 12 feet of water east of Madrid.

Four Die in Northwest.

St. Paul, Minn., July 3.—(AP)—Four persons lost their lives late today as severe electrical and wind storms brought temporary relief to parts of the northwest from the blistering heat of the past three days.

The dead:

Alice Fey, 10, daughter of Thomas Fey of Turton, S. D., killed by lightning in Pine Crest Park at Deadwood, S. D.

Eugene Pucher, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan G. Pucher, drowned in the Mississippi river in St. Paul.

MAJOR AIR LINES KEEP SPEEDS ABOUT ON PAR IN FASTER SCHEDULES

July schedules for the major airlines as disclosed in detail yesterday reveal that, as in the case of competing railroad companies, the air transport operators are gradually working out their time tables until all are flying similar distances in virtually the same time. This means that competition between the lines is stiff and that all of them are scrambling for business.

The situation is illustrated over the Chicago-New York air routes flown by American Airlines, Inc., the Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., and the United Air Lines.

During the remainder of this month TWA will fly four daily trips from Chicago to New York, three of them in four hours and 12 minutes, and the fourth in four hours 19 minutes. The line has abolished its two nonstop flights which were scheduled for three hours 58 minutes.

United, flying eleven trips to New York from here via Toledo and Cleveland, has set a schedule of 4 hours and 17 minutes for some flights and two minutes longer for the rest. American Air Lines will make five trips eastward each day. Two of these flights will be made in 4 hours 20 minutes, two in 4 hours 40 minutes, and one in 4 hours 42 minutes.

Any of these trips is faster than the speediest service offered the public by any of the lines prior to Jan. 1.

PHELPS PITCHES WHITE SOX TO 5-3 VICTORY

DISCOVERY RUNS TODAY IN $10,000 STARS AND STRIPES

WORLD RECORD HOLDER RATED AT 6-5 TO WIN

Faces Challenge of Handicap Stars.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Some of the flag waving and fireworks at Arlington Park this afternoon will be in honor of Discovery, young Alfred G. Vanderbilt's sensational colt, which will make his first appearance of the year in Chicago in the $10,000 added Stars and Stripes handicap.

When he was last seen here just about a year ago the only accomplishment of which Discovery could boast was that he had been finishing at the heels of the champion Cavalcade in one race after another. He was dubbed the greatest "second" horse in the world.

Since then Discovery has moved far out of that category, and when he goes to the post this afternoon, giving away many pounds to each of his rivals, a lot of the people in the holiday race track throng will point him out as the fastest horse in the world.

Holds Two World Records.

And right well they may, for since Discovery made his final Chicago appearance last July he has shattered two world's records, one at a mile and three-sixteenths and the other at a mile and an eighth. He and Man o' War are the only two horses in the annals of American racing to hold two world's records.

Discovery arrived at Arlington Park yesterday morning from Detroit, where he won the challenge cup last Saturday by a margin of 30 lengths.

He soon found out that his sensational triumph in that event and the two world's records he brought to town had failed to cause the handicap stars already quartered at Arlington Park to run for cover. He no doubt was quite surprised that he was just one horse in an overnight field of ten named to strive for this afternoon's rich prize.

Runs Well on Any Track.

Discovery's attitude toward track and weather conditions was one of absolute unconcern. On a muddy track in the Challenge cup at Detroit last Saturday, he tied the track record made by Cavalcade on a lightning fast track a year ago. His two world's records were made on fast tracks so he is one horse that doesn't have to carry his own track around with him.

Overnight Discovery was the top heavy favorite in the betting, the odds quoted against him being 6 to 5. This was due of course to the weights assigned by Racing Secretary McLennan. A lot of the players were of the opinion that some lightly weighted horse or perhaps two or three of them will give Discovery all that he bargains for in this mile and a furlong struggle.

The field is the most representative gathering of topnotch horses in Chicago this year. West Main, Calumet Dick, Evergold, Chief Cherokee, and Watch Him will be the Chicago colorbearers. Late Date hails from Tennessee, Discovery from New York, Azucar from Detroit, Riskulus is the champion of California, and Stand Pat comes from Canada.

Riskulus a Contender.

Riskulus, as the overnight betting indicated, is generally regarded as the most formidable of Discovery's rivals. The Californian has just rounded into top form, his race in the Washington Park championship handicap of last week indicated.

He showed dazzling speed while he made the pace for a mile and a furlong.

Stand Pat, the invader from Canada, is another strong contender. He, too, came in from Detroit at about the same time Discovery arrived. Stand Pat rolled up victories this year in the Philadelphia handicap in Maryland in which he defeated Head Play, and in three other stake races.

Track Is Drying.

Azucar, the winner of the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap, goes into the race with a revenge motive in mind. This is the horse which Discovery defeated by 30 lengths in the Detroit challenge cup. Azucar gave away weight to Discovery in that race. Today Discovery must give Azucar eight pounds.

The track was drying rapidly at Arlington yesterday, and if there is no more rain it will be good and possibly fast when the Stars and Stripes is run. It will be very muddy in the event of showers this morning.

The Stars and Stripes is the sixth race on the program and the post time will be at 5 minutes after 5 o'clock.

Rush on for Bear-All-Star Game Tickets

BY ARCH WARD.

Chicago's response to the announcement that the College All-Americans of 1934 will play the Bears for charity at Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 29 has been overwhelming.

The first official notice that the game which last year drew 80,000 to the lake front gridiron would be repeated this summer was made in Tuesday morning's TRIBUNE. Twenty-four hours later applications had arrived for 13,250 seats. The demand constitutes a record, as far as this department is concerned.

The number of ticket requests received the first day was sufficient to fill one side of Soldiers' field between the goal lines. Allowing for a decline after the opening day's business, it is not unreasonable to predict that all seats in the $2.20 section will have been disposed of in two weeks. Thousands then will be wondering what became of the choice seats. If you are planning to attend the most colorful game ever scheduled, don't delay your order. This is not a sales talk. It is a friendly tip to save embarrassment both to you and to this department later. The prices are $2.20, $1.65, and $1.10, tax included. Mail your application to Football Ticket Manager, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

The most extensive newspaper tieup in the history of sport has been arranged for the national poll that will determine the coach and the players who will represent the colleges against the Bears. One hundred and six newspapers in 34 states will solicit expressions from the fans. Several journals are offering prizes to those who come closest to naming the winners. It is predicted that the total vote will approximate 2,000,000. Every section of the country is reached by a newspaper connected with the game.

The voting for players begins Sunday and will continue for two weeks. The two players for each position who lead the balloting will be invited by THE TRIBUNE to join the squad which will report for practice at Northwestern university Aug. 10. The squad will be quartered in the Wrangler house and will drill at Dyche stadium.

In addition to the twenty-two chosen by the fans, this department will invite at least thirteen additional players. It is necessary to have a squad of thirty-five for scrimmage purposes and for protection against injuries.

EIGHT RECORDS FALL IN NATIONAL JUNIOR TRACK

Owens-Metcalfe Duel Tops Senior Card Today.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lincoln, Neb., July 3.—Eight meet records and one world record were broken and two meet marks were tied this sultry summer afternoon in the National A. A. U. junior track and field meet at the University of Nebraska stadium. All this was a prolog to tomorrow's 47th annual senior meet, which will be featured by the clash between Jesse Owens, Ohio State's phenomenal athlete, and Ralph Metcalfe, three time National A. A. U. champion.

It's 95 and No Shade.

Owens, undefeated this year, who tied the world 100 yard mark and broke three world records in the Western conference games, is favored to defeat the veteran Metcalfe. The Marquette runner, lacking competition, is not in the best of condition, although he has not advanced any such alibi.

Three thousand sweltering spectators baked under a corn belt sun during the first part of today's program. The temperature reached 95 degrees in the shade but there was no shade. As the meet started at 4 o'clock the crowd had some relief as the sun slowly sank behind purplish-blue clouds.

In general it was understood that records compiled in runs with the wind would not count. This eliminated the 14 2-10 second 110 meter high hurdle mark of Leroy Kirkpatrick of San Francisco's Olympic club. This was 6-10 faster than the meet record and 1-10 of a second faster than the world record.

Goes Again Today.

It was a beautifully run race regardless of favoring breeze and the Montezuma High school boy, who was trained by Pat Page, former Chicago coach, will have another chance today in the senior meet. Then he will face Percy Beard, world record holder, and Sam Allen of Oklahoma Baptist, who is the national collegiate champion.

The Olympic club won the team championship with 49 points, as predicted. Denver A. C. ran up 71½ and Salt Lake City was third with 16.

The list of records broken and tied this afternoon follows:

110 meter high hurdles, Leroy Kirkpatrick, Olympic club, 14 2-10 seconds [also betters world record].

In Action Again Today.

These record breakers and other winners will perform in the big show tomorrow. A throng of 20,000 is predicted, but distant thunder and rain held a threat to contestants and spectators.

Summaries of the junior events:

100 METER DASH—Won by Ralph Sickel, Leavenworth, Kas.; Milton Holt, Olympic club, San Francisco, second; Donald Dunn, Kansas State Teachers, Pittsburgh, third; Carson Shoemaker, Olympic club, fourth. Time, :10.4 [equals meet record established in 1933 by James Johnson of Illinois State Normal].

200 METER DASH—Won by Bob Packard, Rockford, Ill., high school, Paul Phillips, Marquette, second; H. Neal, Maryville, Mo., third; John Kunitzy, New York A. C., fourth. Time, :21.4. [New meet record; former mark of 21.6 established by James Johnson of Illinois Normal on straightaway in 1933 and tied by Foy Draper, Los Angeles, around one curve in 1934; this year's race run around one curve.]

400 METER RUN—Won by James Cassin, Olympic club, San Francisco; Ralph Brown, Kansas State Teachers, Pittsburg, second; Les Wisler, Olympic club, third; Timethy Ring, New York Curb Exchange, fourth. Time, :49.1.

800 METER RUN—Won by Howard Borck, 69th Regiment A. A., New York; John Woodruff, Connellsville, Pa. High school, second; John Headley, University of Mary-

STOP—WAIT FOR THE CROWD!

Promoter Joe Foley steps between King Levinsky (left) and Joe Louis just in time to prevent some sparring. The two fighters met at a loop hotel yesterday to discuss arrangements for their bout. They are scheduled to meet in an outdoor match at Comiskey park Aug. 7.

Louis and Levinsky Agree to Box Aug. 7 at Comiskey Park

The heavyweight bout between Joe Louis and King Levinsky will be held at Comiskey park on Aug. 7, Joe Foley, the promoter, announced yesterday at a meeting at a loop hotel. The distance will be ten rounds or less.

Foley, who was assisted in completing arrangements by his matchmaker, Soldier Mickey Farr, and Mike Jacobs of the Twentieth Century Sporting club, said that originally it was planned to offer the match Aug. 13, but Jacobs, whose club has an option on Louis' services for a bout against Max Schmeling or Max Baer in September, advised against it.

John Roxborough and Julian Black, joint managers of Louis, signed for the former Chicago Golden Gloves champion yesterday. Levinsky's signed agreement was obtained Tuesday from Harold Steinman and Mrs. Lena Levy, representatives of the Kingfish. Nevertheless Levinsky attended the meeting accompanied by his handlers. So did Louis, in company with Roxborough, Black, and Ald. Louis Anderson, who serves as Joe's attorney. In the background were Chairman Joe Triner of the Illinois boxing commission, Senator George Maypole, and Sheldon Clark, millionaire Chicago sportsman.

Levinsky Goes North.

After the fighters and others involved posed for photographers Levinsky headed for Tomahawk, Wis., where he will do preliminary training for two weeks by chopping down trees and going on long hikes. The schedule thus provides for three weeks' boxing drills in a camp to be established near Chicago. Manager Steinman said he has received several offers, but the camp will not be selected until each is weighed.

Louis made preparations to board an airplane for Detroit last night to spend a few days with his mother, Mrs. Lily Brooks, before starting workouts. He will return the middle of the month. At that time he will open training at a camp to be erected on the south side, probably at White City.

Prices of tickets, which will go on sale within the next ten days, will be $2.40, $3.60, $6, and $10, including tax. At these prices a capacity crowd will gross approximately $375,000. Fans numbering 68,000 will have to pay this sum. It is planned to have at least 20,000 chairs in addition to the permanent seats in the grandstands and bleachers.

Negotiations Are Involved.

A contest between Levinsky and Louis has been in the making for several months. Prior to his knockout conquest of Prima Carnera June 25 Louis agreed to a scrap with Levinsky under Chicago Stadium auspices. The King's handlers, however, believed the Chicago slugger deserved more than the $15,000 guarantee offered at that time and declined. Though that was the main reason, another was the fact that Levinsky was in the midst of a successful tour of the hinterlands during which he compiled a record of thirteen consecutive victories, ten by knockouts. He will be paid a percentage of the net gate receipts for this match. It is said this will be in the neighborhood of 20 per cent.

Louis also is taking his chances on the gate. He will be paid about 30 per cent. This is almost double the percentage he was given for his battle with Carnera, a percentage that earned for Joe close to $50,000. One year ago today the colored heavyweight contender received $50 for scoring a one round knockout over Jack Kracken, former University of Illinois student, at Bacon's arena on the south side in his professional debut.

Lombardi Makes Winning Hit Off Bryant.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., July 3.—Ernesto Lombardi's No. 8 homer, a great tenth inning smack off Clay Bryant which all but dismantled a sign pitched in the middle of a laundry across the street from the left field wall, this afternoon gave Paul Derringer and the Reds a 4 to 3 victory over the Cubs in the final of the series.

Despite the fact the Cubs made only three hits to twelve for the Reds, the Cubs were ahead three times in the contest, 1 to 0 in the first half of the third, 2 to 1 in the first half of the fourth, and 3 to 2 in the first half of the eighth. The first Chicago run came home on an error, the second was produced by Chuck Klein's No. 12 homer, and their third was an unearned counter in the seventh.

Lee Escapes in Time.

Lucky Bill Lee, for the second successive time in four days, escaped the loss after leaving the game in more or less of a mess, just as he did in the Pittsburgh final Sunday. It took heroic measures on the part of Roy Henshaw and Bryant to hold the game to a tie with the bases full and one out in the ninth, the state of affairs when Lee left.

It was Derringer's eleventh victory of the year, no mean total at this date for a performer on a sixth place ball club which has won a total of only 30 games and is eight games under the .500 mark.

The Cubs managed to cling to second place, though both the Pirates and Cards, who were idle, gained a half game. Tomorrow's double headers here and in Chicago, however, can give the standings a big shuffle.

Herman Makes First Hit.

Babe Herman made the first hit of the game when he led off the second inning with a single to center. Babe sank in a double play with Bottomley. Kampouris was safe on English's high toss, but Lombardi was called out on strikes.

The first run of the game, a spurious one, was made by the Cubs after two were out in the third inning. Galan doubled to right for not only the first Cub hit but the first Chicago smack beyond the infield. Augie scored when Goodman dropped Bill Herman's fly. Cavarretta flied to Goodman.

The Cubs scored in the fourth and the Reds again tied it up in their half. Klein knocked his No. 12 homer with two down, then Myers threw out English. In the Red half, Lombardi tripled to the wall in deep right cen-

RELEASED

See Us, Sox Wire Released Kiki Cuyler

Kiki Cuyler, the outfielding veteran given his unconditional release yesterday by the Cubs, may have a chance to join up with the White Sox. A telegram saying, "See us when you return to Chicago," was dispatched to him at Cincinnati yesterday by Harry Grabiner, vice president of the Sox. Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Browns and one of Cuyler's former bosses, declared he wouldn't hesitate making the unemployed fly chaser an offer if the club treasury department wasn't slightly weak.

CUBS DROP KIKI

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., July 3.—The Cubs today fired Kiki Cuyler, veteran outfielder and the club's leading hitter last season.

In a surprise move Vice President-Manager Charley Grimm gave Cuyler his unconditional release, without even a wrist watch as balm to his feelings. When Riggs Stephenson, another old Cub favorite, was given his release last winter, Owner P. K. Wrigley presented him with a watch which he claimed retailed at $350.

The action is said to be another step in an effort to get the playing department on a cheaper basis and thereby balance the budget.

Professes to Be Stunned.

Cuyler, though he has known for some months that he was no longer one of Grimm's favorites, professed to be stunned when he was called to Grimm's quarters here this morning and handed his unconditional release, signed by John O. Seys, one of the Cub vice presidents. Ki had expected to be traded prior to May 15, but when that date passed, he said, believed that because of his long and spectacular service with the Cubs and his present excellent physical condition, he would be retained until the end of the season.

As soon as it became known that Ki had been given his release, the veteran player got offers from several clubs, the first of which came from Gerry Nugent, president of the Phillies. Cuyler also communicated with several American league managers and had a conference billed for tonight with officials of the Cincinnati Reds. He was to return to Chicago on the same train with his former teammates.

Cuyler said he plans "to sell my services to the highest bidder."

"There are only a half dozen players in the National league who are faster than me right now," he said. "I hate to leave the Cubs as I have been with them so long and our relations have been very pleasant. They have no need of six outfielders now that they have two youngsters coming along, and Lindstrom is out there, so I had to go. That's baseball."

Makes Opening for Pitcher.

Cuyler has received overtures from the Boston Braves in addition to the Sox and Phillies. He hopes to hear from Joe McCarthy of the New York Yankees.

Grimm told Cuyler and later repeated to interviewers that "with Stainback and Demaree around I figured I didn't need Kiki for extra duty any longer and his place could be Error Leads to All St. Louis Runs.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Raymond [Babe] Phelps, whose chief stock in trade is a sort of butterfly delivery, showed it yesterday to Rogers Hornsby's Browns from St. Louis and they had to admit it was pretty good. After giving the trick windup a battle for nine innings the visitors were in possession of only five hits. Meanwhile the White Sox, after being handicapped by three runs at the start, did some fancy hitting and captured the final of the series, 5 to 3. It was the Browns' fifth loss here in as many games this season.

A doubly satisfying feature for the fourth place Sox was that their afternoon chores netted them a decision over Dick Coffman, a nemesis of long standing. They used up five innings retrieving the three runs which the Browns accepted as gifts in the opening session. Then they relieved him of the necessity of further work in the sixth by scoring two runs, one of which was Vernon G. Washington's third homer of the year.

Error Embarrasses Phelps.

Phelps' bid for his fourth victory in five starts was endangered at the start principally because Rip Radcliff lost a fly ball that might have kept the enemy runless. Phelps' contribution to this unhappiness was two passes, but there was only one hit involved. Thereafter the Browns were completely subdued except in the seventh when another fly ball fell safe in left. They also created a slight flurry with a double and a wicked liner in the eighth, but Mule Haas happened to get his hands around the latter after a dash from deep center. It was easily the picture play of the battle.

At one point Manager Dykes of the Sox became so aroused over a point of order that he notified the umpires he was continuing the game under protest. He was ahead at the time. After the two winning runs had scored in the sixth, Radcliff popped to Bejma and was called out. Bejma held the ball momentarily, then juggled and finally dropped it. Dykes insisted the ball had not been held long enough, but the umpires wouldn't agree with him. By refusing to lose his lead Phelps saved his boss the trouble of going through with the protest.

Browns Open With 3 Runs.

The first of the series of incidents that caused Phelps to be shaken for three runs in the opening inning was a pass to Lary. West was thrown out by Piet after the latter had slipped on the heavy infield and lost a possible double play. Lary stole third as Phelps completed a pass to Solters. Coleman lifted a tall fly to short left, and this was where Radcliff blundered by permitting the ball to trickle through his hands, Lary scoring. Burnett then doubled to right center, Solters and Coleman scoring. Phelps had no trouble with the next two batters.

As soon as the Sox had a chance to take a whack at Coffman's pitching, Radcliff made partial amends for his error. He led off with a double to right, and it started two runs. Piet slipped a single through short, Radcliff moving to third. When both Haas and Bonura filed out it looked as if the two hits had sounded nothing more than a false alarm. But Washington was nicked by a pitched ball and Appling knocked a trick bounder past Bell for a double. This scored Radcliff and Piet. Dykes was thrown out.

Tie Score in Fifth.

Both Phelps and Coffman kept things in control for a few innings after the first, but the Sox induced the latter to slow down in the fifth. The Sox picked up one run at this stage, tying the score. Radcliff was involved in this to the extent of a two bagger against the right center field score board with one out. Piet was safe at first when Bell neglected to keep his foot on the bag as he took a throw from Lary. Haas lined a single into center to score Radcliff. The Sox subsided quickly when Bonura grounded into a double play.

The hilarity that dropped two runs and a 5 to 3 lead into the Sox bag

WISE DAUGHTER, TORO LEE WIN AT ARLINGTON PARK

Big Crowd Sees Mars' Horses Triumph.

Horses from the stable of Mrs. Ethel V. Mars, Oak Park, were in the limelight at Arlington Park yesterday, where a big week-day crowd of racegoers gathered.

Toro Lee, a 2 year old daughter of Toro-Nancy Clay, conquered a fashionable band of 2 year olds. She raced past the winning post under an energetic ride by Jocky Arcaro one length in front of Miss Prudence to score the first victory for the Oak Park owner.

In the next race Wise Daughter, from Mrs. Mars' stable, all but made a show of her field when she led all the way to beat Cloud D'Or by four lengths. The crowd had great confidence in the two winners, and both were favorites. Toro Lee paid $5.00 and Wise Daughter returned $4.40 to her backers.

Eddie Arcaro, who rode Toro Lee, came back in the La Salle purse, the best race on the program, and piloted Wise Duke, sensational 2 year old at the winter tracks, to victory.

This son of Wise Counsellor was matching strides with the spectacular Coldstream, Dnieper, Night Play, and Shining Hour, all eligibles to the Hyde Park stakes to be run Saturday.

Wise Duke broke on top and enjoyed the lead for a furlong until Arcaro took him back to give him a breathing spell. Night Play and Coldstream started fighting for the right to make the pace. Half way down the stretch Wise Duke started running again. He soon passed both leaders and went on to win by half a length. Night Play was second and Coldstream, in need of the race, was third.

Racing Secretary Charles J. McLennan has arranged a strong program in support of the Stars and Stripes handicap today. Sweeping Light, Sun Captor, Prince Torch, Watch Him, Gay World, Mad Frump and Noahs Pride are entered in a mile handicap. Entered in a three year old race at three quarters are Pantouffle, Tabitha, Corinto, Born Happy, Board Trade, Toro Nancy, Chief Cherokee, Slim Rosie and St. Bernard.

Wayne Wright, leading in the national jocky race, will arrive at Arlington Park Saturday to remain until the close of the meeting. He will report to Dan E. Stewart, trainer of the Joseph E. Widener and Mrs. P. A. B. Widner horses.

Nellie Flag, leading two year old filly last season, and a member of Warren Wright's Calumet Farm stable, showed up yesterday with a filled tendon in her right foreleg and had to be scratched from her race. She probably will be out of racing for some time.

Bulstrode, winner of the sixth race at a mutuel payoff of $144.80, romped home when hardly any one was aware he was in the race. His name was placed in the entries strictly "according to Hoyle" yesterday morning, but the entry clerk forgot to print it. When the mistake was discovered hours later the horse was permitted to go to the post. Bulstrode turned out to be the longest priced winner of the Arlington season.

M'MILLEN FACES KIRCHMEYER IN RETURN MATCH

Jim McMillen of Antioch, Ill., tonight will attempt to avenge his only defeat in more than a year when he meets Roland Kirchmeyer of Stillwater, Okla., in the windup of the wrestling show at Western stadium. Western and Devon avenues. Kirchmeyer was awarded a decision over McMillen at Western stadium a week ago, when the latter entangled his foot in the ropes and was counted out by Referee Tony Hadjich. In their first meeting McMillen was held to a draw by Roland. Johnny Hepner, Milwaukee, Wis., and George Mack, Chicago, will meet in a supporting match. Others will include the one between Fred Grobmier and Olaf Oleson.

Harris Beats R. Ball in Net Tourney

Reds Defeat Cubs, 4-3, on Homer in 10th

After Myers had fanned to start the fifth, Slade singled to center, Goodman popped to Jurges for the third straight time, then Babe Herman knocked a single, his second and the Reds' sixth hit, Slade stopping at second. Bottomley grounded out to Bill Herman.

Byrd, who had heard that Kiki Cuyler had been made a free agent, knocked his third straight hit with two out in the sixth. Derringer ended the inning with a tap to Lee.

Lindstrom led off the seventh with the Cubs' third hit, a single to center as a terrific windstorm blew across the field. Klein walked and the bases were full when Kampouris fumbled English's grounder. Jurges flied to Byrd, Lindstrom scoring, Klein reaching third and English second. Lee was called out on strikes. Galan flied to Goodman.

Lombardi Hits Homer.

Bottomley doubled to left with one out in the eighth then Kampouris walked and Lombardi loaded the bases with an infield single. Byrd forced Lombardi, Bottomley scoring the tying run. English threw out Derringer on a close play after colliding with Jurges.

After one was out in the Reds' half of the ninth Slade was safe on English's second poor throw of the game. Goodman singled to center, putting Slade on third and reached second when Lindstrom juggled the ball. Babe Herman was given an intentional pass, filling the bases after which Henshaw replaced Lee. Bottomley tapped to Cavarretta and Slade was forced at the plate, Cavarretta to Hartnett. Bryant replaced Henshaw. Kampouris fanned on four pitches.

At the start of the tenth Lombardi took two strikes and a ball, then whanged his decisive homer.

Talking It Over

[Copyright: 1935: By The Chicago Tribune.]

RUSSELL BALL, Northwestern university's sophomore tennis star, gives himself a pep talk whenever he makes a bad return. . . . Indiana devoted much of its two months' spring football practice to a forward pass defense against Ohio State. . . . Bo McMillin hasn't forgotten that Ohio last year gave his players the worst defeat the former Center college hero has suffered as a coach. . . . The score was 33 to 0. . . . Herman Gundlach, Harvard's 1934 football captain, is spending the summer at Houghton, Mich. . . .

Joe Louis can sign his name on a contract [or your chin] with either hand. . . . Frank Boucher, New York Rangers' center who has won the Lady Byng sportsmanship trophy seven times, has asked the National Hocky league committee to ignore him in future selections. . . . Several years ago a man appeared at the pass gate of Comiskey park every day for two weeks carrying a large paper bag, the contents of which, he explained, were for William Ananias Buckner, then the Sox trainer. . . . Bill Chamberlin, custodian of the pass gate, finally became suspicious and mentioned it to Buckner. . . . The trainer knew nothing about the gentleman, so when he showed up next day he was watched. . . . After passing through the turnstile he went to the back of the grandstand, deflated the large paper bag, folded it up, put it in his pocket for future use, and sat down to enjoy the game. . . . When he came back next day the trick didn't work. . . .

Wilcey Moore, former Yankee, is starring in a relief rôle for Kansas City. . . . The average pay of an American jocky is $10 a race. . . . Vito Tamulis, Yankee pitcher, hopes to play the outfield some day. . . . Barney Ross is on a fishing trip in Wisconsin. . . . Smead Jolley, former White Sox outfielder, is hitting nearly .400 in the Pacific Coast league. . . . Freddy Miller, featherweight champion, has made more than $125,000 in his tour of Europe. . . . Bill Tilden, who probably has earned more money than any man in tennis, spends it as fast as he makes it. . . . Two young men who grew up within the shadows of Notre Dame's football stadium are expected to bolster Northwestern's gridiron forces next fall. . . . They are Kovatch, quarter back, and Wegner, center. . . . Jack Chevigny, Texas football coach, is spending the summer with relatives in Hammond. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—The Cubs defeated the Cardinals twice in the holiday double-header. . . . Little Ceit won the $7,500 handicap race before 20,000 at Hawthorne. . . . The New York A. C. won the National A. A. U. track and field championship at San Francisco. . . . The Illinois A. C. team was second. . . . Ty Cobb of Detroit was leading the American league in hitting with an average of .414 and Hornsby was heading the National league with .430.

Frick Informed Braves Await Definite Offer

Boston, Mass., July 3.—(AP)—While acting as a liaison officer during some apparently fruitless dickering for the Boston Braves, Ford Frick, president of the National league, today learned that a definite offer has yet to be made for the controling interest in that financially distressed club.

Frick, at the request of Emil Fuchs, Braves' president, made a flying trip from New York to confer with Charles J. O'Malley, head of a Boston group that has been negotiating for the club. After going over the ground with Fuchs and O'Malley, he visited Charles F. Adams, the Braves' majority stockholder, and learned that a controling interest, free and clear of all debt, could be purchased for less than $500,000.

"I told Frick," Adams said, "that any reliable purchaser who could assure me that he had the best interests of the Boston Braves at heart could purchase control at a bargain. There are 9,400 shares of the total issue of 14,000 odd shares of Boston Braves' stock in my safe, but I have yet to receive a definite offer for the club's majority holdings. If any group is interested in purchasing the Braves it must do business with me, for I am the only one empowered to sell the club."

Frick later had another conference with Fuchs and the O'Malley group and returned to New York.

SMITH RUNS OUT OF WINDUP AT KERWIN'S ARENA

The first of a series of professional boxing shows at Kerwin's new outdoor arena, 1414 West 79th street, was held last night, but without the main attraction, a scheduled eight round bout between Jimmy Smith, Philadelphia middleweight, and Ernie Kirchner, Peoria, Ill. Kirchner was willing to go through with his agreement despite the small attendance, but Smith refused to don his fighting togs unless financially reimbursed first. When Promoter Pep Kerwin refused, Smith left the arena, thus leaving himself open to suspension by the Illinois boxing commission.

Nestor Bruggman, Catholic Youth Organization welterweight, whipped Al Pahl, Minneapolis, Minn., in six rounds in the final match. Other results:

Tony Michaels beat Joe Wiley [4].
Willie Ross beat Art Donovan [4].
Bill Reardon and Joe Richards drew [4].
Frank Schultz beat Augie Mandel [4].
Bill Hall stopped Lou Bartel [4].

Phelps Beats Browns, 5-3; 4th Victory

in the sixth started simply enough. Washington drove Coffman's first pitch into the right field seats for a homer. Next came a single to center by Appling. Dykes bunted along the right field line and beat the throw for a hit. When the ball was knocked out of Bell's hands Appling tried to go to third, but was caught. Shea singled to right, putting Dykes on third. Dykes scored while Shea was being forced by Phelps. The inning closed with Radcliff's pop-up, which Dykes insisted Bejma didn't hold.

A mixup in left field caused Phelps some annoyance in the seventh, but he refused to let it get him down. The inning opened with a walk for Bell, who was forced at second on Dykes' throw of Bejma's bounder. Heath popped to Piet for the second out. Pepper batted for Coffman and sent a high fly to short left. Appling went back for it and stopped. Radcliff also stopped after sprinting in. The ball plunked down between them for a double. Bejma stopping at third. Burns then batted for Lary and flied to Haas.

The Sox went to St. Louis last night for a visit which involves a double-header with the Browns there today. One of the games will be pitched by John Whitehead, who has reason to remember his last appearance there. The Browns beat him June 5 by 2 to 0 for the first defeat of his present six game losing streak. The other game will be handled by Les Tietje. The Browns' starters will be Fay Thomas and Jack Knott.

If anybody is giving away medals for a hole in one Catcher Merv Shea of the White Sox would like to hear from them. On Tuesday he scored an ace on the 172 yard first hole at Jackson park.

SCIENCE MUSEUM MAY ADD EXHIBIT OF MICRO LIFE

Minute World of One Cell Creatures Unfolded.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Visions ranging from the whirling galaxies of the stars, millions of light years away, to the worlds within a drop of water—the greatest and the smallest things in the universe—may soon be added to Chicago's educational opportunities.

Plans are under consideration for the construction of a permanent microvivarium, a projection on screen of microscopic living matter, at the Museum of Science and Industry in connection with its new medical section. One could then travel from the great world of the macrocosm exhibited in the Planetarium in Grant park to the little world of the microvivarium in Jackson park in a day.

Plan Used in German Schools.

Dr. Georg Roemmert, formerly of the biological laboratory of Munich and of Teachers college, Columbia university, who popularized the microvivarium in the biology exhibit at A Century of Progress Exposition, has been in consultation with officials of the museum and with Chicago scientists, who are enthusiastic over this method of education. It has already been applied in schools in Germany.

The microvivarium was first brought into popular use in Berlin twelve years ago. The projection process used there led Dr. Roemmert to the building of a permanent exhibit of living, microscopic creatures. This was a difficult job, because the small, tender living forms perish rapidly in the focus of the strong source of light which is an essential of effective projection. Or, if they were not killed, the little creatures fled from the field of vision of the microscope. Detailed knowledge of optics was required as well as knowledge of how each of the living subjects could be assured of oxygen and food.

See One Celled Life in Action.

"In the microvivarium more than two dozen living one celled animals could be followed in full activity: Slipper animals [Paramecia] in natural movement and under the influence of stimuli in division and conjugation, Didinum nasutum devouring Paramecia, green Stentors inclining now this way and now that their splendid spiral of cilia, and other fantastic forms of ciliated infusoria.

"Many of the spectacles presented are as exciting as a Jules Verne tale or the adventures of a Gulliver. In one drop of water, round, kettle shaped creatures, with a trunk at the fore end, thronged in hundreds. Restlessly, as though seeking something, they dashed hither and thither, and if anything crossed their path they stopped for a moment and seemed to sniff at it.

Eat or Be Eaten Is the Law.

"We now added to this drop of water a large number of Paramecia. Then the incredible happened. The kettle animalcules, or 'nose animalcules,' although smaller in size, threw themselves on the considerably larger Paramecia and devoured them.

"The biological law of eat or be eaten, which runs like a red thread through the whole of living nature, was followed up further. I had put some hungry trumpet animalcules, together with some nose animalcules, in a watch crystal. These trumpet animalcules were now projected. In their transparent greenish bodies we discerned one, and sometimes two, nose animalcules which had been swallowed."

ANDRE CITROEN, FRANCE'S HENRY FORD, DIES AT 57

Failure of Auto Firm Speeds Death.

PARIS, July 3.—(AP)—Andre Gustave Citroen, 57, once Europe's automobile king, died today, six months after his $130,000,000 enterprise collapsed. He had entered a hospital several weeks ago, too late for an intended stomach operation.

Through his last lingering illness the dapper little engineer whose mass production methods won him the name, "Henry Ford of France," watched the efforts of others to reorganize his huge companies. Among his last words was an expression of joy that the vast factories, which employ 30,000 workers, were again running.

Weighed Only 70 Pounds.

Worry over the receivership into which the enterprise was forced Dec. 21, 1934, combined with the wasting effects of his illness to cause his death. He weighed only 70 pounds, half his usual weight, when he died.

Citroen was born in Paris Feb. 5, 1878. As an obscure engineer he was associated with the pioneer Mors automobile works before the war. He was supposed to have become wealthy manufacturing munitions during the war. In 1919 he turned his fortune and his quick brain to manufacturing cheap automobiles in France, applying American methods, and thereafter his career was meteoric.

Planned Roads in Sahara.

Until he was forced to ask a receivership for his financially crippled company, Citroen—who once dreamed of a tourist route across the Sahara desert—refused steadfastly to accept any outside control of his affairs.

A great gambler, Citroen is said to have wagered so heavily once that the Bank of France warned him "not to forget" that he was "an industrialist with heavy responsibilities." There are stories that in two weeks he won 12 million francs—then $500,000—at baccarat and lost 13,000,000 francs in one night playing poker.

WILLIAM ROCHE, DEAN OF THEATER MANAGERS, DIES

William D. [Billy] Roche, widely known as "the colonel," dean of Chicago theater managers and one of the most popular and prominent figures on the old Randolph street rialto, died Tuesday in the American hospital after a long illness, it was learned yesterday. Col. Roche made his home in the Hotel Sherman. He was 61 years old.

W. D. ROCHE.

Starting as an usher in H. R. Jacobs' old Academy of Music at Madison and Halsted streets, Roche worked his way to manager, and later took over the management of the old Bijou, Haymarket, and Star theaters. Early in the century he moved into the loop as manager of the Columbia burlesque, then in turn the old Palace, Majestic, State-Lake, Erlanger, Harris, and Selwyn theaters.

Then came the decline of the "road," with many darkened theaters, and finally the depression. Roche suffered financial reverses and became ill. Last fall many old friends of the stage, screen, and radio joined in a benefit for him at the Erlanger theater.

In 1929 he remarried his divorced wife, Mrs. Jeanne M. Woods, whom he first married in 1906.

Formerly known as the "golden princess of Broadway," the actress was forced to go to a city supported charity ward in Bellevue June 18.

NEW DEALERS WILL 'ACCEPT' BANKING BILL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 3.—[Special.] — Administration acceptance of the Glass banking bill as "a substantial improvement over the existing situation" was indicated today by Gov. Marriner S. Eccles of the federal reserve board. The administration, however, will fight to change the Glass bill "in less fundamental respects," while it is being debated on the senate floor and while it is in conference between the house and the senate, Gov. Eccles intimated.

This acceptance, in the main, of a bill which is regarded as curbing many of the centralized banking controls which Gov. Eccles demanded for his board, postpones until the next session of congress any knock down fight over radical New Deal banking theories such as government ownership of the reserve banks as suggested by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and endorsed by President Roosevelt.

Several Changes Wanted.

Provisions in the Glass bill which the administration will accept if necessary but will endeavor to have changed include the requirement that not more than four federal reserve board members shall come from one party, participation of reserve board governors on the open market committee, the requirement that five board members must appear, approve a change in reserve requirements, restriction of new real estate loan privileges to national banks, and penalties on rediscounting of other than "eligible" paper.

Although changes in any of these features of the Glass bill would go far to restoring the original Eccles plan, the reserve board governor apparently regards them as "less fundamental," and will not insist upon them. He listed five features of the Glass bill which he regards as "a distinct advance" over existing law.

Signalling administration acceptance, for this session of congress at least, of most of the Glass bill, Gov. Eccles said, in a formal statement:

Lauds Title II.

"As rewritten and reported by the senate committee on banking and currency, Title II [of the banking bill] represents a significant and important recognition of the fundamental principles and purposes of the banking bill as proposed. Therefore, I believe that, in its most vital respects, it is a distinct advance in the direction of centralized responsibility and authority for the exercise of monetary powers.

"First, open market powers are concentrated in a central body, composed of the entire federal reserve board together with five governors of the reserve banks who must be representative of the various sections of the country. Complete authority is given to this body to initiate and enforce open market operations; whereas, at present, the board has no power either to initiate or enforce, and only the negative power of veto.

Given Broad Authority.

Second, the board is given a broad authority to change reserve requirements of member banks. Under existing law, this power can only be used after the declaration by the President of an emergency every time a change is necessary, for all practical purposes, an unworkable arrangement.

"Third, the power to determine and make effective discount rates remains with the board.

"It is evident that this represents a substantial improvement over the existing situation. It would make it possible for the board and the open market committee to function in the national interest by using these powers so far as they may be effective towards the achievement of stability in our economic system and the avoidance of disastrous inflationary and deflationary cycles. This is a long step in the direction of intelligent management of our monetary system.

Needs Recognized.

"Furthermore, the bill, as reported by the senate committee, recognizes the need for broadening and liberalizing the eligibility provisions of existing law which are entirely unsuited to meet present day conditions. Likewise, the real estate loan provisions of the national banking act are substantially improved.

"In addition, the board which now has no voice in the selection of the governors of the reserve banks, is given the authority to approve or disapprove of their appointment.

"In less fundamental respects, I believe that Title II, as reported by the senate committee, could and should be improved upon in the interest of practical administration and greater efficiency. As between the bill, as enacted by the house and as proposed by the senate committee, I have every reason to believe that a reasonably satisfactory measure will be worked out."

UTILITY FIGHTS WITH TVA FOR RURAL BUSINESS

Knoxville, Tenn., July 3.—(AP)—The Tennessee Public Service company, Knoxville, has started construction of a new rural electric line less than 15 miles from Norris dam which the Tennessee Valley authority is building on Clinch river.

R. W. Lamar, general manager of the company, said the 14 mile line is the first of an extensive rural network the company may build. He said his company "is desirous of building lines in rural areas wherever business will warrant such extension."

The Tennessee Public Service company has obtained a temporary injunction here preventing Knoxville from building a municipal power distribution system using TVA power. The TVA has embarked on a rural electrification program in northern Alabama and Mississippi.

Chicago Banks Cut Federal Bond Holdings

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Opposing the treasury's policy of loading up commercial banks with large quantities of government bonds, a group of leading Chicago banks have quietly demonstrated their independence during the last four months by selling a large number of such bonds.

The change of front on the part of Chicagoans is disclosed in the statements published by banks in response to the quarterly national and state bank calls, which show that between March 4 and June 29 a number of big Chicago banks reversed their previous policy of accumulating increasing amounts of "governments" and started selling.

* *

This is not the first time that Chicago banks have run counter to policies advocated in Washington and New York. During the last decade the Chicago group stubbornly resisted the program of cheapening money rates, fostered by the New York Federal Reserve bank and by authorities in Washington. Bankers here figured that the "easy" money rates of the '20s would lead to uncontrolable credit inflation and an abortive boom, and history proved the accuracy of their predictions.

The First National bank, headed by Edward Eagle Brown, and the City National Bank and Trust company, whose chairman is Gen. Charles G. Dawes, former vice president of the United States and former head of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, cut their holdings of government securities in two during the last four months, and those that they still retain consist largely of short term paper.

* *

Excluding government paper required to be held as security for special deposits, such as public and trust funds, the First National now holds less than 90 million of government securities, mostly short term. From Dec. 31, 1933, to March 4, 1935, this bank's total investments in government paper rose from 83 millions to 277 millions, but by June 29 they had been reduced to 144 millions.

The City National's statement does not itemize the amount of government securities held as security for special deposits, but the bank's total holdings were reduced from nearly 30 millions four months ago to half that amount now, and the securities kept are understood to be of short maturity.

Excluding 69 millions of short term "governments" held to secure special deposits, the Harris Trust's investments in such securities has been reduced to about 9 millions. The Northern Trust company has cut its government bond holdings from 118 millions to 103 millions since the end of last year, and the bulk of those remaining in its portfolio is understood to bear early maturities.

* *

Following the opposite policy regarding government bonds are the big New York banks—the Chase, headed by Winthrop W. Aldrich, and the National City, with James H. Perkins at the helm, the Guaranty Trust, Bankers Trust, Central Hanover, and others—and the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company of Chicago, whose chairman is Walter J. Cummings, former assistant secretary of the treasury under William Woodin.

There have been no published opinions from the bankers explaining the reasons for this divergence of policies regarding government bonds. Officers of Chicago banks that have been disposing of their bonds, however, complain that the treasury has forced the interest rates on long term bonds down to unreasonably low levels and that the yield on short term bonds is so infinitesimal that it is just about as profitable to hold cash.

Chicago Banks.

[Total holdings—in millions.]

Of New York group only the First National has failed to make large additional purchases of government bonds since 1933.

BANK STOCK PRICES ADVANCE AGAIN ON CONTROL BILL CHANGE

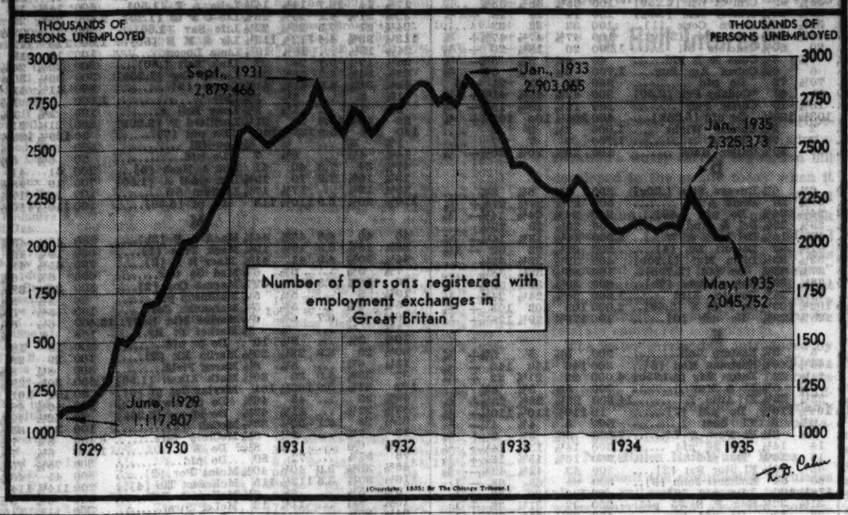
Chicago and New York bank stock prices advanced again yesterday, reflecting the encouragement given banks by the modified banking bill and the favorable reports on banks' condition. Gains ranged from ½ to 35 points, some stocks reaching new highs for 1935.

After modest gains during the last several days, First National and Continental Illinois of Chicago yesterday soared 12 and 5 points, respectively, the former closing at 123 bid, 127 asked, and the latter at 52½ bid, 54½ asked.

Northern Trust, which has been steady recently at $450 a share, rose 5 points. Harris Trust was unchanged at 210. In the trust division, Chicago Title and Trust showed another gain of 2 points to close at 94 bid, 96 asked. The only decline among Chicago banks was in the City National stock which dipped 3 points to a bid of $80 a share.

First National of New York jumped 35 points more to 1,620 bid and 1,660 asked, making a gain of $100 a share since last Saturday. Guaranty Trust rose 7 points to 278 bid, a net gain of $18 a share since Saturday. United States Trust moved up 25 points to 1,665 bid, 1,715 asked.

Unemployment in Great Britain Is Lowest Since 1930



Public Service to Sell Issue of 16 Million

Stockholders of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois at a special meeting yesterday approved a proposal submitted by James Simpson, chairman, for the refunding of $15,650,000 of series H 6½ per cent bonds maturing in 1952 and $350,000 series G bonds retired some time ago. This will produce an annual saving in interest charges of about $200,000.

Under the plan approved $16,000,000 of series I bonds, bearing interest of about 4½ per cent and due July 1, 1960, will be issued. It is expected that the series H bonds will be called and the new series I bonds will be sold this month.

Saves More Than Million.

This refunding operation and other refinancing undertaken since the management headed by Simpson and George A. Ranney took control of the company in 1932 will result in a total annual saving of interest charges of about $1,300,000. However, of this saving about $180,000 will have to be paid to the federal government in additional income tax, leaving a net saving of approximately $1,120,000.

A new supplemental indenture to the company's first lien and refunding mortgage, under which the new series I will be issued, provides that the company commencing in 1931 will retire annually $240,000 of the series I bonds, with the result that one-fourth of the principal amount of the bonds will be retired prior to their maturity in 1960.

Refunding of the Series H bonds constitutes the third step in a refinancing program planned by the Simpson management. The first step was the refunding of about $10,712,000 series G bonds on May 1, and the second was the refunding of $10,650,000 of 7 per cent debentures early in June. When the Simpson management took control of the company it was forced to pay in excess of 8 per cent in its financing operations.

Houses That Will Sell Issues.

The banking houses expected to handle the series I bonds include Field, Glore & Co.; Halsey, Stuart & Co.; Lazard Freres & Co.; Lee Higginson corporation, and Edward B. Smith & Co.

In outlining the company's financial plans to the stockholders, Simpson reported on current business conditions as follows:

"Kilowatt hour sales, exclusive of sales to other utility companies, for the first five months of this year show an increase of 6 per cent over the corresponding period of 1934. Therms of gas sold, exclusive of sales to other utility companies, for the first five months of this year show an increase of 34 per cent over 1934. The large increase in the therms of gas sold is due to gas furnished to industries on an interruptible basis and to additional sales for space heating purposes."

Simpson said that while the results for the remainder of the year naturally will be affected by the trend of business, earnings may be affected by the 3 per cent state sales tax imposed on utility companies for the period July 1, 1935 to Jan. 1, 1937.

AMERICAN BANK DECLARES FIRST DIVIDEND OF $2

The American National Bank and Trust company yesterday declared a $2 dividend on the bank's 10,000 shares of common stock, the first payment since the bank was organized in 1933. The dividend will be disbursed in two payments of $1 each. The first payment will be made on July 15 to stockholders of record July 10 and the second will be made Oct. 15 to stockholders of record Oct. 10.

Laurance Armour, president, said that net earnings from operations for the last six months have been satisfactory, despite the low interest rates that have prevailed on loans and investments.

Armour said that the surplus account increased $250,000 during the last six months and that undivided profits as of June 29 stood at $105,000. Reserve for contingencies was $325,000. He said that the bank will continue to deal conservatively with its earnings, the policy being to build substantial reserves and to continue to add to surplus.

Wheeling Steel Recalls 300 Workers to Open Mill

Wheeling, W. Va., July 3.—(AP)—The Wheeling Steel corporation announced today it is calling back 300 workers next Monday to reopen its Creek mill, which has been idle for six months. Officials said this will bring their operations to almost 100 per cent capacity.

AGREEMENT TO AID GOLD BLOC ADMITTED BY RESERVE BOARD

Washington, D. C., July 3.—[Special.]—Confirmation that the Federal Reserve bank of New York, in association with the other federal reserve banks, made an arrangement on Nov. 28 with the Bank for International Settlements at Basel, under which the New York bank would consider the extension of advances up to $50,000,000 secured by gold, to gold bloc countries of Europe, if international exchange emergencies called for such aid, was given today in the annual report of the federal reserve board.

The proposal opening the way for the extension of such credits was approved by the reserve board, and no time limitation was placed on the offer, it is understood. The board's report said that no use was made of this credit during 1934. So far as could be learned, no extensions have since been made.

The arrangement followed closely the action of the Federal Reserve bank of New York in making advances early in November to Belgium in an effort to prevent abandonment of the gold standard by that country, and to end disquieting exchange disturbances.

The understanding is that the arrangement by which the reserve bank of New York expressed readiness to consider applications for aid to the extent of $50,000,000 was not a definite commitment, but that the bank was prepared to give sympathetic consideration to any requests.

DOLLAR RISES AGAINST LEADING GOLD CURRENCIES

New York, July 3.—[Special.]—Dollar values improved against European gold bloc currencies today, but were slightly easier against the pound, which rose ½ cent to close at $4.94¼. French francs dipped ½ point to 6.63⅝ cents, which is approximately parity with the dollar.

With the dollar at parity it compared with 99.92 cents yesterday, and based upon the old parity of the franc the dollar was worth 59.06 cents today, against 59.01 cents yesterday.

Swiss francs eased 3 points to 32.81 cents, and Dutch guilders were 7 points lower at 68¾ cents. Italian lire were up ½ point at 8.30 cents. Scandinavian moneys rose 1 to 2 points in sympathy with sterling. Hongkong and Shanghai dollars were off 22½ and 5 points, respectively, due to the decline of ⅛ cent an ounce in foreign mined silver in New York. The London price was unchanged. Bar gold in London declined 1 penny to 141 shillings 6 pence a fine ounce, equivalent to $34.93.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported the receipt of $1,130,800 gold from Canada and the release from earmark here of $213,500 gold previously set aside for foreign account.

Pressed Steel Car Company Gets $4,000,000 Contract

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 3.—(AP)—The Pressed Steel Car company today received a $4,000,000 contract to build 250 steel passenger cars for the New York subway. Officials said they will allot 150 of the cars to the Pullman Car and Manufacturing company of Chicago and will build the rest at the company's McKee's Rocks plant.

Power Output Sets New Peak for Late June

Electric power output last week showed a less than seasonal decline of 0.1 per cent from the preceding week, but was 5 per cent above a year ago, reaching the best level for the last week in June on record. The total for the nation, reported by Edison Electric institute, was 1,772,138,000 kilowatt hours.

In the preceding week of this year the marginal gain over 1934 amounted to 6 per cent and a new high record for a summer week was established at 1,774,654,000 kilowatt hours.

Chicago Area Strong.

In the Chicago area the total for the week at 97,837,000 kilowatt hours was less than seasonably below the preceding week, when output reached 99,021,000 kilowatt hours and was also 1.7 per cent below a year ago due to the abnormally high load carried at that time because of the World's Fair, the Commonwealth Edison company reported.

June 29	97,837	99,526	−1.7
June 8	97,113	99,382	−2.3

As in the preceding week, production increased more in the Rocky mountain states than in any other major geographic region. For the week ended June 29 production increased over the same week in 1934 by 28.4 per cent. The increase for the week ended June 22 over the same week last year was 28.7 per cent.

Southern Sales Increase.

The southern states showed the next highest production increase. For the June 29 week the rise was 6.8 per cent. New England states followed with a 6.7 per cent increase, the middle Atlantic states with 4.4, the west central states with 3.3, the central industrial states with 2.3 per cent, and the Pacific coast states with 2.1 per cent.

The Associated Press adjusted weekly index of electric power production advanced 0.4 of a point for the last week to 99.3, a new high for 1935. The level for the week ended June 29 also was above a year ago when the index stood at 97.0. The index, based on 1929-'30 as 100, is adjusted for seasonal and long term trends. The range of recent years follows:

WALGREEN CO. AGAIN BOOSTS DIVIDEND RATE

Directors of the Walgreen company yesterday declared a quarterly dividend of 35 cents a share on the common stock, payable Aug. 1 to stockholders of record July 15.

The dividend paid for the preceding quarter was 30 cents a share prior to which the quarterly payments amounted to 25 cents.

At the time the rate was increased from 25 cents to 30 cents a share it was stated that if business was maintained on the same level then prevailing another 5 cent increase would be made.

Holiday Cuts Steel Production; Upturn Expected Next Week

Steel mill operations declined sharply this week in anticipation of the July 4 holiday, dropping 6 points from a week ago to 32 per cent of capacity. With some plants remaining closed until Monday the average this week will probably fall as low as 30 per cent, the magazine Iron Age reported yesterday. Independence day is the only holiday outside of Christmas when there is 100 per cent cessation of production.

A substantial upturn is looked for next week, the journal says, although the rate may not reach the 38 per cent level maintained in the last two weeks of June. A low operating rate during July is in line with seasonal expectations but prevailing views in the industry are that the summer recession will be shorter and less severe than in 1934.

"The automobile industry," says the review, "in keeping with its plan to start production of new models in September, will doubtless resume the placing of substantial steel orders in August. Agricultural buying power, because of ample rains, is the best in four years. Farm equipment plants remain active though in a between-season period, while tractor manufacturers are still falling behind in their efforts to catch up with back orders.

"Unusually large canning packs, together with expanding demands for filling station oil cans and a brand new market for beer cans, point to a continuation of high operations among tin plate makers."

Scrap, which is considered a sensitive barometer, also points to early trade improvement, the journal adds. Its scrap composite rose from $10.71 to $10.75 a ton. The composite prices for pig iron and finished steel are unchanged at $17.84 a ton and 2.124 cents a pound, respectively.

Pig iron production in June amounted to 1,552,514 tons, or 51,750 tons daily, compared with 1,727,095 tons or 55,713 a day in May, making a decline in daily rate of 7.1 per cent. Furnaces in blast numbered 91, a loss of 6 points since June 1. Pig iron output during the first six months of the year was 9,799,000 tons, compared with 9,798,313 a year ago.

STOCKS RALLY LATE IN DAY BUT CLOSE IS MIXED

Pre-Holiday Slack Checks Trading.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 3.—Pre-holiday influences dominated stock prices and prospects in Wall street speculative circles today and the result was a pretty drab performance on the market floor. Prices were marked up a fraction or so here and there—in some instances as much as a point—but the closing table was marred with a good many minus signs. Turnover amounted to 720,450 shares.

What strength the list exhibited was ascribed to last hour covering by disappointed bears, with steel shares leading the rise. Gains of fractions to a point or more occurred in a number of the steel issues, and in most other sections the steel rally was accompanied by fractional improvement.

Capital News Unchanged.

The Washington situation presented no great change from yesterday. Preholiday comment disclosed a rather widespread disposition to view recent developments as highly encouraging, principally because they are held to show the direction the wind is blowing. Hopes are beginning to be expressed in many quarters now that a sound banking system and a law regulating public utilities without the use of capital punishment may yet grow out of the present confused tangle.

The view was reflected in the continued buying of both bank and utility stocks today.

A feature of the utilities division was a rise of a point in American Water Works, which suffered a little sinking spell yesterday on omission of the company's dividend. Consolidated Gas was strong and most of the stocks of the group edged a bit higher.

Rail Shares Under Pressure.

Railroad shares were rather depressed. Union Pacific was heavy and Rock Island slipped into the penny class for the first time. Southern Pacific, which found the going so rough yesterday before officials issued their denial of the reorganization rumor, was easy in early dealings, but firmed up toward the last.

Industrials developed a firmer tone after early hesitancy, but the improvement of the group was negligible. Automobile equipments met with some demand on anticipation of orders from the motor trade over the next few months. Briggs Manufacturing moved up nearly a point on reports that a $1 extra will be announced in the near future. Another issue to benefit from good business reports was Timken Roller Bearing.

Prices Rise in Last Two Months.

The extent of the stock market's advance during May and June may be gauged by the addition during those months of more than two and three-quarter billion dollars to the value of the 1,200 issues listed on the stock exchange. The June figures, released today by the exchange, show an increase of $1,678,306,714 in aggregate worth following a gain of $1,100,414,467 in May. As a corollary, only forty stocks on the big board established in June new lows since July 1, 1933.

On July 1 there were 1,184 issues listed, aggregating 1,304,145,173 shares with a total market value of $36,227,069,618. This compares with 1,189 issues listed on June 1, aggregating 1,303,596,329 shares and having a total market value of $34,548,762,904.

Aggregate borrowings against collateral by members of the exchange on July 1 were 2.23 per cent of the market value of all listed shares, compared with 2.29 per cent on June 1, a decrease of 0.06 per cent.

'LIBERALS' PLAN TO FORCE FARM LOAN BILL VOTE

Washington, D. C., July 3.—(AP)—A group of house "liberals" pledged themselves today to oppose adjournment until congress votes on the Frazier-Lemke farm refinancing bill and higher tax rates on inheritances and gifts.

Simultaneously Representative Lemke [Rep., N. D.] and a delegation of house members reported they had been virtually assured by President Roosevelt that he would do nothing to interfere with a house vote on the measure to refinance farm mortgages with $3,000,000,000 of new money. Furthermore, Lemke said the President felt it was right that the bill should be disposed of in the open and not be held up in committee.

Referring to a petition pending on the speaker's desk to force the bill out of committee, Lemke said: "We'll get the signatures by Friday which will force a vote on the bill."

The house agriculture committee has reported the bill which would refinance mortgages at 1½ per cent interest annually but the rules committee has refused to let it come to a vote. Advocates of the measure last week neared the 216 signatures necessary to force a vote on the measure when Democrats began taking their names off.

First Ship Clears Norfolk for Chicago Since War

Norfolk, Va., July 3.—[Special.]—With 15,000 bags of Cuban refined sugar on board, the Norwegian steamer Bjerkli sailed from this port today for Chicago. The vessel arrived here with 20,000 bags and left 5,000 at this port. The Bjerkli is the first foreign ship to sail from Norfolk for Chicago since the world war.

Damage Claim Made in Gold Payment Suit

Washington, D. C., July 3.—[Special.]—In an attempt to meet conditions laid down by the Supreme court in the gold clause case, John M. Perry of New York, whose original suit in the Court of Claims to recover at the rate of $1.69 per dollar on a $10,000 Fourth Liberty bond was involved in the high court's ruling, filed in the Court of Claims today an amendment to his petition. He alleged that he had suffered actual damages.

Perry fixed $20,000 as a reasonable value for his $10,000 bond, and $1,912.50 as the amount he should have received in payment of interest, and asked judgment of $21,912.50. He charged breach of contract by the government, and based his plea for damages on the contention that the dollars offered him by the treasury had not the same purchasing power as those he should have received.

Had Not Claimed Damage.

In his original suit Perry, whose $10,000 bond was called for redemption on April 15, 1934, did not specifically seek to prove actual damages through decrease in purchasing power. His case at that time was based on the contention that the government, having made a contract to pay principal and interest at the old gold value of the dollar, was compelled to do so.

After challenging the constitutionality of delegation of power by congress in the gold reserve act of 1934, and recounting that payment at $1.69 to the dollar had been refused by the treasury, the amendment filed today made the following allegations:

"That the failure of the defendant to redeem your petitioner's bond according to its tenor, and defendant's offer to pay your petitioner only the face amount of said bond in currency depreciated below the value, both in terms of gold and in purchasing power, of the medium which defendant promised to pay to your petitioner, and the action of the defendant in deliberately attempting to reduce the purchasing power and the gold content of the dollar, as aforesaid, constituted a taking of your petitioner's property for public use without just compensation.

Places Value at $20,000.

"That the fair and reasonable value of your petitioner's property so taken was the sum of $20,000, which sum is now due and owing by the United States to your petitioner, and no part of which has been paid.

"That the attempted redemption by defendant under said call for redemption, of petitioner's said bond, by the offered payment on May 24, 1934, of $10,000 in legal tender currency, in direct violation of the tenor of said bond, was of no force and effect and invalid to stop the running of interest on said bond until maturity."

Congress now has pending a legislative proposal that would shut the doors of the Court of Claims to tests such as Perry has now instituted, and would void pending claims.

BOSTON EDISON 53 MILLION ISSUE GIVEN APPROVAL

New York, July 3.—[Special.]—The Massachusetts utilities commission granted approval today to the application of the Edison Electric Illuminating company of Boston for authority to issue $53,000,000 first mortgage bonds, the proceeds of which would be used to redeem $55,000,000 of notes maturing in 1937. A registration statement dealing with the issue was filed with the securities and exchange commission June 12.

Before public offering of the bonds can be made it will be necessary for the company to reconvene a meeting of the stockholders and to file an amendment registration statement. TEen the company must give one week's notice of its intention to receive bids on the issue from investment bankers, following which sale, another amended statement must be filed.

HOLC TO ISSUE NEW BLOCK OF 2¼ PCT. BONDS

Washington, D. C., July 3.—[Special.]—The Home Owners' Loan corporation today announced it will issue 2¼ per cent bonds, dated July 1, 1935, and due July 1, 1944, to pay off distressed mortgages on homes.

The new bonds will be issued in exchange for mortgages involved in applications filed between May 27 and June 27, 1935. During that period the corporation received about 125,000 applications for an aggregate amount which the HOLC estimates will be around $400,000,000.

Refunding of mortgages based on applications filed prior to May 26 will continue to be carried out through issuance of 2¾ per cent fifteen year bonds.

Zinc imports into the country in May totaled 40 tons, against 101 tons in April. May exports were 25 tons, against 224 in April.

CANADA DROPS PLAN FOR WHEAT 'DICTATORSHIP'

New Bill Requires Sale of Surplus.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., July 3.—The revised wheat board bill which advances to third reading in parliament tomorrow is regarded here as marking a complete repudiation of the wheat policy adhered to by the Bennett government since 1930. It eliminates many of the drastic features contained in the first drafts which would have given the government dictatorial powers over the trade.

Under the bill as now written a policy calling for as speedy liquidation as possible of surplus wheat is set forth. For five years the dominion, through its pool, has been holding up prices by means of government purchases.

Main Object Is Selling.

The proposed statute specifically asserts that the first objective of the new wheat board will be to force Canadian wheat into foreign markets. The holding policy of the last few years has piled up a surplus of 225 million bushels on which the government stands to take a big loss.

The cessation of stabilization efforts on the Winnipeg exchange is also provided. What wheat the new board purchases must be taken directly from producers. A new minimum price will be established but the price will have no connection with the quotations on the futures market. Farmers will be free to sell through the market or to board as they desire. All the present marketing machinery, including the Winnipeg market, will be retained under the new set-up.

Government to Supervise.

Provision is made for the supervision by the government of all operations of the new board. Not only the operations but the policies of the new board will be directly under the Ottawa government. Under the present system, John I. McFarland, general manager of the wheat pool, has had a free hand in his job of supporting prices.

The manner in which the new board will attempt to sell Canadian wheat abroad is not defined in the bill. However, it is assumed that Canada will cut her prices to meet the competition from Argentina and other foreign countries.

The first drafts of the bill would have put the government up as the supreme arbiter over the entire industry. It would have bought and sold wheat on a grand scale. Under the new bill, it appears, the new wheat board will be primarily an agency to liquidate the holdings accumulated by the present pool.

Exchange Members Pleased.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 3.—[Special.]—Winnipeg exchange members were jubilant today at the reversal in the Canadian government's wheat policy as indicated in the revised wheat bill. The exchange has steadfastly opposed the move for compulsory government control of all marketing machinery.

PARKS AWAITING APPROVAL OF REFUNDING BILL

The Chicago Park district yesterday was awaiting the signature of Gov. Horner on enabling legislation which will refund all defaulted bonds of the 22 old park districts, including the $1,747,702 in principal and interest of four park districts which was defaulted Monday. The necessary bills were passed May 22 by the general assembly.

The July maturities of these four parks which were not paid are:

	Principal.	Interest.
Lincoln park	448,000	122,100
West park		265,512
Calumet park	3,000	1,490

In announcing this default, officials of the park district declared the necessary funds for retiring the bonds are not on hand. Collections of 1935 taxes will not be completed for another 18 months, said the announcement. On previous maturity dates, the necessary money to retire bonds falling due has been obtained by borrowing from operating funds, but the park officials declared that the available money at this time should be used toward completion of the outer drive bridge, and other projects.

This was the first time that South park bonds had been placed in default, although a year ago Lincoln park escaped technical default by obtaining an extension.

GOLD PRODUCTION IN WORLD AND U. S. IS HIGHER IN MAY

New York, July 3.—(AP)—Production of gold in the United States during May was estimated by the American Bureau of Metal Statistics at 276,000 fine ounces, against 251,000 in April.

For the five months ended with May domestic output was placed at 1,262,000 fine ounces.

World production in May was estimated by the same authority at 2,407,000 fine ounces, against 2,290,000 in April. For the first five months world output was reported at 11,461,000 ounces.

Canada and Poland Sign Tarif, Trade Agreement

OTTAWA, Ont., July 3.—(AP)—A commercial convention between Poland and Canada signed here today assures Canada of Poland's lowest regular tariff rates on all products. In addition, each country receives special low rates on certain items. The agreement was placed before the house of commons by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett this afternoon.

ILLINOIS TRUCK OWNERS PROTEST U. S. COMPETITION

Charge CCC Equipment Swells Relief Rolls.

A protest against the federal government entering the trucking business in competition with private operators was contained in letters sent yesterday by the Illinois Motor Truck Operators association to Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, and Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator of the PWA.

The letters, signed by Walter E. McCarron, business manager of the association, assert that many truck drivers are on relief rolls because of unemployment at a time when hundreds of inexperienced young men in the CCC are driving trucks.

Coöperate with National Body.

The Illinois association is coöperating with the American Trucking Associations, Inc., with which it is affiliated, in calling the attention of the Washington authorities to the trubles of truck operators. The Illinois association has about 150 members operating 2,500 trucks and employing around 4,000 men.

McCarron estimates that there are more than 200 idle trucks in Cook county with a resultant loss of approximately $4,000 per day to their owners, because of federal competition.

In its general protest the American Trucking association says that the policy of wholesale purchase of new trucks by governmental agencies cannot be justified. It says that there are now many thousands of idle trucks in serviceable condition and most of these in every state are owner operated.

Many Owners on Relief Rolls.

"A large number of owners are on public relief rolls," the American Trucking association asserts, "and most of the others soon will be if prompt action is not taken.

"Purchases by federal agencies of additional equipment represent waste of both old and new equipment, extravagance, further disintegration of the trucking industry and more families on relief. For every CCC man put to driving a government owned truck a whole family will be put on relief through inability to secure employment with the truck already owned.

"The CCC is specifically mentioned because there was recently purchased at one time 18,000 trucks under that division. The trucking industry protested and was assured that the trucks would only be used in the camps where private trucks were not available. The assurances were false because they are now being used on public works and have displaced the private owner and his truck and such owners have had to apply for relief."

MISSOURI PACIFIC PLAN SUBMITTED TO RFC CHAIRMAN

Washington, D. C., July 3.—(AP)—A plan for recapitalization of the Missouri Pacific railroad today was placed before Chairman Jones of the RFC by representatives of the bondholders of the road.

Presented by J. W. Stedman of the Prudential Life Insurance company, the plan calls for consolidation of eighty to a hundred underlying bond issues of the system into five or six issues. The present bondholders would receive one-third of their holdings in fixed interest bonds, one-third in income bonds, and one-third in stock.

Jones said he saw only minor differences between the bondholders' plan and that worked out by O. P. Van Sweringen, who, with his brother, controls the system. Jones arranged an engagement for some time next week in New York between Van Sweringen and the bondholders' committee to work out final details of a plan to be placed before the St. Louis Federal court and the interstate commerce commission.

SEC SUES BROKER WHO CHARGED BRIBERY DEAL

New York, July 3.—(AP)—The securities and exchange commission today petitioned the federal District court to order J. Edward Jones, oil royalties dealer who figured recently in the arrest of a former commission employé, to answer a commission subpena.

The commission asked that Jones show cause why a certificate of registration which he filed May 4 should not be disregarded as containing false statements concerning material facts and for failing to make complete statements concerning such facts.

Jones recently sought a Circuit Court of Appeals ruling that the SEC act is unconstitutional and asked that the commission's subpena be set aside. John J. Burns, commission counsel, said Jones had failed to appear at a scheduled hearing June 18. On June 23 Jones caused the arrest of William A. Rabell, a former employé of the commission, on charges of soliciting a bribe allegedly to "forget" about Jones' transactions when the commission held its hearing.

BANKS WELCOME PLAN TO PERMIT UNDERWRITING

Brings Opportunity for Increased Profits.

New York, July 3.—[Special.]—The banking houses of Wall street today expectantly awaited passage of the banking bill of 1935 and with it liberation of their capital for the underwriting field. Bankers were agreed that the bill, if passed in its present form, would cause a big change in the present financing machinery of the street.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co., which relinquished its deposit business in accordance with the banking bill of 1933, is expected to take immediate steps to recover its lost accounts. J. P. Morgan & Co., which dropped its investment bank activity rather than its deposit business, is in a position to assume almost overnight its previous place in the capital market.

Opportunities for Other Firms.

Other banks, such as Brown Brothers, Harriman & Co., are expected to maintain, as separate institutions, their divorced security affiliates. Brown, Harriman & Co., for instance, which has been functioning as underwriter and dealer, is expected to continue as a dealer. Brown Brothers, Harriman & Co., under the pending act could return to underwriting but not to the selling of securities.

Commercial banks such as the Guaranty Trust company, Chase National, National City, and First National, will be in a position to bolster their earnings substantially. The restrictions on the amount of the underwriting permitted each bank are not considered onerous in these cases.

One effect of the bill may be to shift J. P. Morgan & Co. as a dominating factor in underwriting, as it was prior to 1933, to a less prominent place in the field. This result would come from the limitation that no bank engage in any underwriting venture to an extent greater than 10 per cent of its capital and surplus.

Limitations on Participation.

Chase National bank accordingly would be restricted to a $20,000,000 underwriting participation in a large issue, while the largest participation allowed to the Morgan firm would be $5,500,000. Of all the banks in this city Guaranty Trust would be allowed the largest participation, as it could handle $26,000,000 of an issue. National City's participation would be restricted to about $15,750,000.

To enlarge these limitations, however, the Morgan house could set to work to build up capital and surplus. The larger this item became the larger would be the amount of participation allowed the firm in a single issue. It is conceivable that new money might be brought into the bank for this purpose.

As now understood by the street, the commercial and private banks would, under the law, be able to work out a financing program for a corporation, underwrite a bond issue, and arrange with dealers to sell the issue to the public. The major difference from past practice is the prohibition against retail sales.

Reports Cause Confusion.

Bankers believe the bill went far beyond what had been indicated by some of the reports from Washington. The financial community was still confused over the contradictions which appeared to exist between text of the amendment and a summary of its meaning which had been given out on Monday afternoon.

That summary had appeared to imply that a bank could not underwrite more than $100,000 of any one issue and on that basis there had been disappointment. The text of the bill, however, made it plain that the restriction on amount of underwriting of a particular issue was the larger of either 20 per cent of the issue or $100,000. In other words a bank could take up to $100,000 of any issue of less than $500,000 total amount, but could underwrite 20 per cent of issues of $500,000 or above.

The further limitations fixing the amount of underwriting of a single issue at 10 per cent of a bank's capital and surplus and the total liability for all underwritings at one time at 200 per cent of capital and surplus were generally regarded as involving almost no restrictions at all as it was said that few banks would go beyond these limits anyway.

PRIVATE CROP ESTIMATES CAUSE RALLY IN COTTON

Cotton was under pressure from profit taking longs early yesterday, but advanced readily later on private reports suggesting a crop of around 10,500,000 bales this season, and the acreage of around 29,500,000 was below trade expectations. Last year's final estimate on the cotton crop was 9,636,000 bales. Closing trades yesterday were about the top with net gains of 5 to 10 points in Chicago and 6 to 12 points in other markets.

The government weekly weather crop report was somewhat more favorable than anticipated in the western belt, but rain is needed in the east. Spot cotton closed 10 points higher with New Orleans and New York, 12.45 cents; Houston, 12.25 cents, and Galveston, 12.20 cents per pound. Prices in cents per pound follow:

New York, July 3.—[Special.]—The preholiday session of the bond market on the New York Stock exchange proved a dull affair today, with interest centered in the rails and utilities. Transactions totaled $10,076,000, compared with $10,975,000 the previous day.

With the exception of railroad issues, the market was able to climb another notch or two despite preholiday apathy in investment circles.

Enthusiasm that greeted the action of the house in the matter of holding company legislation seemed to have subsided with the utility issues maintaining a firm tone.

Rails Under Pressure.

Second grade rails continued under pressure and were irregular, at a fraction to 1½ points higher to 1 to 3 points lower. Despite assurances from officials of the Southern Railway as to the company's finances, the issues of this carrier failed to rally and were the weakest on the list. Losses ranged from 1 to 3 points.

Missouri Pacific, New Haven and New York, Ontario and Western issues were also heavy and lost a fraction to 1½ points. Other domestic bonds were irregular.

United States government issues closed higher under restricted trading with transactions in federal contracts amounting to $1,310,000, compared with $830,000 Tuesday.

HOLC Offering Ignored.

Authorization today by the Home Owners' Loan corporation of a new issue of 2¼ per cent bonds, maturing in 1944, compared with an interest rate of 2⅜ per cent for the 15 year issue, caused little interest. The interest reduction was apparently ignored by the market.

The new bonds will be issued in exchange for mortgages only in the case of application filed between May 28 and June 27, 1935.

National Dairy Products.

Investors' Guide: Tell me about National Dairy 5½s, 1948.—T. W. F.

Answer: National Dairy Products corporation is the leading organization in the domestic dairy products industry. Fluid milk is the major division of its business, and profits ordinarily fluctuate with conditions in that field. Cheese, ice cream, and butter, however, are also important lines. The company, according to reports, has found provisions of the agricultural amendment act a drag on profits.

Sales in 1934 increased 15.6 per cent over 1933, but costs increased faster than sales. Fixed charges were earned 2.68 times in 1934, a substantial margin, against 2.73 times in 1933, 3.89 times in 1932, and 6.04 times in 1931.

In the latter part of April, 1935, President McInnerney said that sales were running at about the same pace as in 1934.

Current position at the close of 1934 was strong. Current assets were $56,683,000 and current liabilities were $18,143,000. Working capital of $38,541,000 compared with total funded debt of $68,214,000.

Although the 5¼ per cent debentures are the unsecured obligation of the company, they appear to be well protected by ample earnings and a strong current position. They are considered sound.

The bonds are callable at 103, the call price decreasing each Feb. 1 by ¼ of 1 per cent. The management has intimated that it is considering calling the issue for redemption.

Chicago Flexible Shaft.

Investors' Guide: I own 100 shares of Chicago Flexible Shaft common stock and would like your opinion on it.—P. D. N.

Answer: Earnings of Chicago Flexible Shaft company in 1934 were almost one-third greater than in 1929 and were the best in the company's history. They totaled $368,000, or $2.05 a share, against $190,000, or $1.05 a share, for 1933. Net income in 1932 was $113,000, against $136,000 in 1931 and $177,000 in 1930.

The company is a Chicago manufacturer of animal clipping and sheep shearing machines, industrial furnaces, forges, electrical household appliances, sold under the "Sunbeam" trademark, and ultraviolet lamps.

Current position at the close of 1934 was strong. Current assets, including $520,000 cash, totaled $1,431,000, and current liabilities were $195,000.

Capitalization consists solely of 179,882 shares of $5 par stock, on which dividends have been paid in every year except 1932. The stock currently pays 30 cents a quarter. Two 10 cent extra dividends have been paid so far in 1935. Dividends in 1934 totaled $1 a share.

BRITAIN BORROWS PROCESS IDEA FROM NEW DEAL

LONDON, July 3.—(AP)—Great Britain has borrowed an idea from the New Deal, it was disclosed today by the text of the cotton spinning bill. The bill contains a modified version of the AAA processing tax, proposed to eliminate excess spindles and relieve the spinning crisis.

It creates a board empowered to borrow about $10,000,000 for buying and decommissioning superfluous plants. There is the precaution, however, that spindles cannot be sold abroad.

Interest for amortization of the loan will be met by a levy paid for fifteen years by the remaining operators on a basis of operating spindles. During the first three years of the plan no new plant may be built unless it is acquired from the spindles board and an equivalent plant surrendered. The plan differs from the processing tax in that the millowners instead of the consumers finance the reduction.
